

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

This work is a private enterprise, not undertaken for gain or remuneration, but because it is work such as would not probably be done if I did not do it ; and because it is a preservation of facts which may otherwise be lost.

It has grown, by slow degrees, from a pamphlet of fifty pages, with five hundred epitaphs, to a book of 250 pages, with some 2500 epitaphs ; and instead of a history of one grave yard, as originally contemplated, we have the history and epitaphs, with plans, of ten grave-yards, and of one grave-yard entire, without a plan, and additions from private yards.

We now present a complete list of all epitaphs in all old public grave-yards commenced before 1800, with plans and with some account of the old grave yards of the three towns of West Bridgewater, Bridgewater and East Bridgewater, including all monuments in those yards, down to the present time, and also, most of the epitaphs in private and small-pox yards.

The labor has been much greater than was anticipated. Several persons have been employed to copy inscriptions, and to locate and number monuments on the plans. Mr. Joshua E. Crane, Jr., has done most of this work in Bridgewater, and Walter M. Swift and Henry Harlow have done the most of it in West Bridgewater and East Bridgewater.

We are much indebted to Mitchell's History of Bridgewater for the notes within parenthesis added to Epitaphs ; to Walter L. Keith, for the use of his plate of the Keith coat of arms ; and to Bradford Kingman, Esq., for original sketches drawn by him especially for this work, of the Edson & Keith Tombs at page 18, and also for views of the houses of Rev. James Keith, opposite page 238.

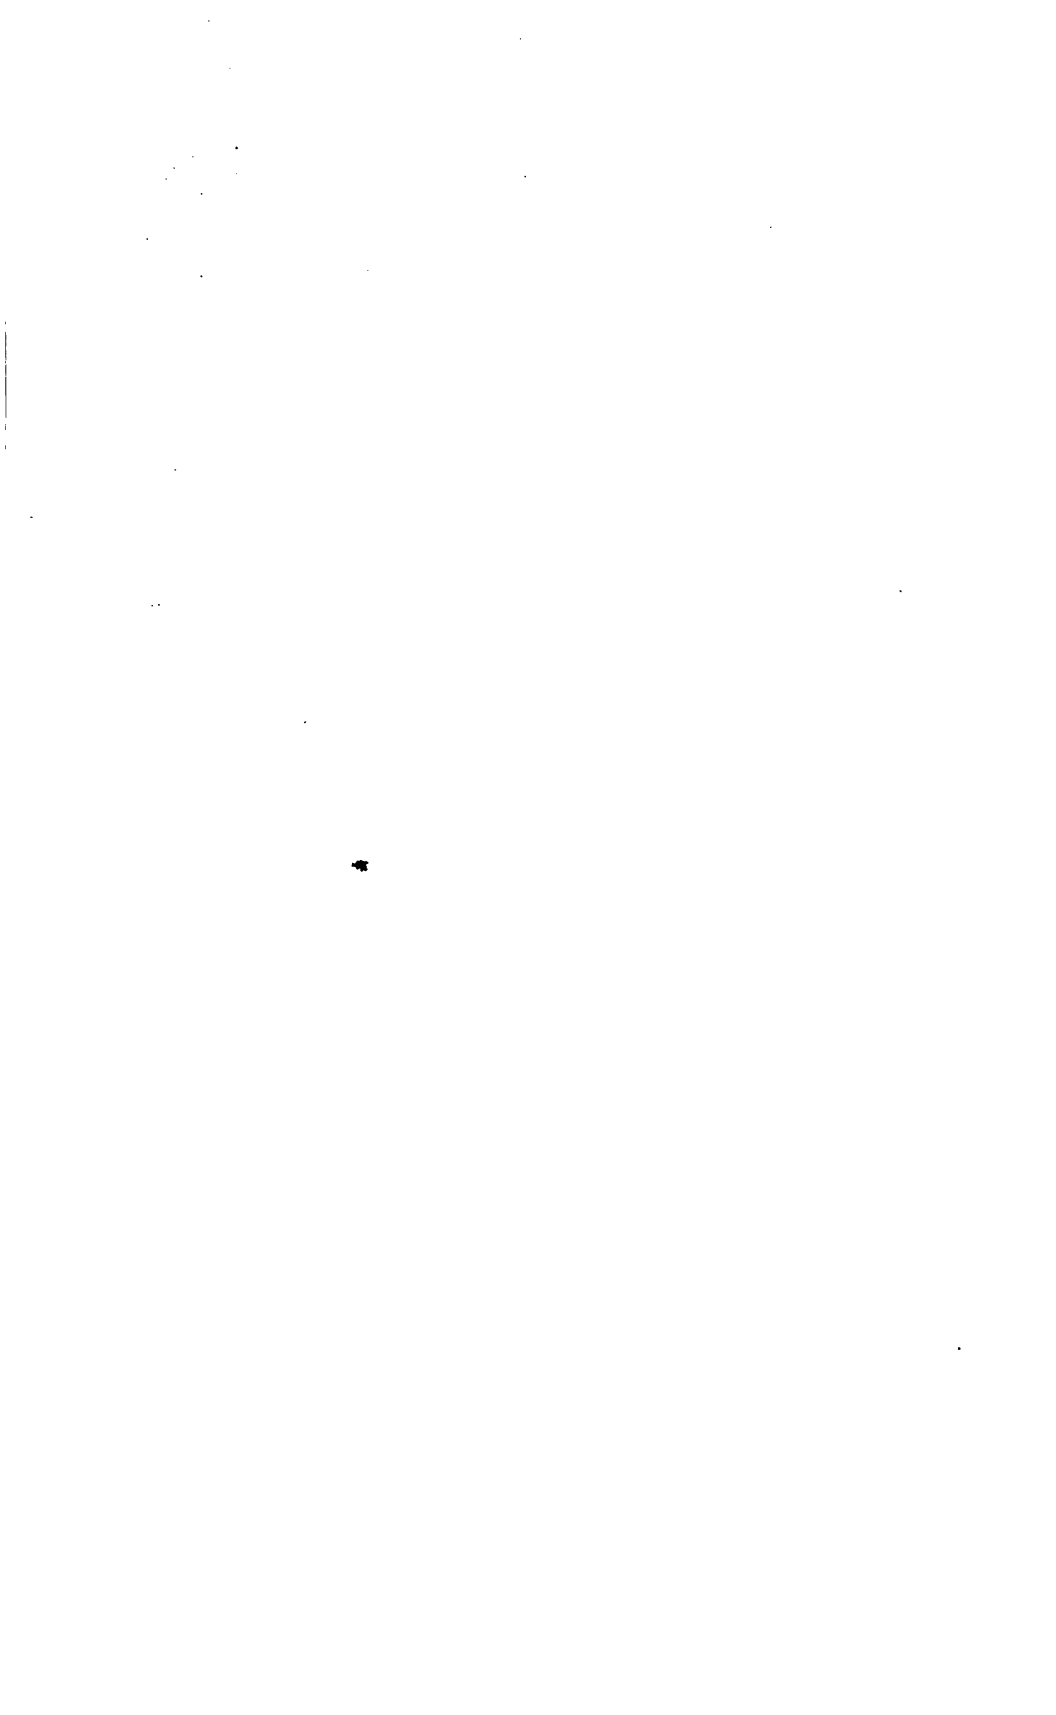

Eight of these plans are drawn from actual survey of the premises, giving courses and distances ; and two of them, the Powder-house and Jerusalem yards, are drawn from measurment of the outside line, giving their distances, and general coures.

We have used our utmost endeavors to make this work accurate and reliable, for in that lies the value of a work of this kind ; but that is next to impossible, for errors will creep in, and the next best thing we can do is to be honest, and publish a full list of errors, with corrections, that have come to our knowledge, after a long, close and careful examination and comparison of inscriptions, copies, proof-sheets and printed text.

In all of these burial-places, the graves generally head west and foot east, or nearly so. In all indexes, when age is given, it is set down and called forty-nine years old, when it is stated that the person died "in the fiftieth year of his age," or "in his fiftieth year," or words to that effect ; and in that way the age is reckoned and stated in all periods of life.

OLD GRAVE-YARD

— IN —

WEST BRIDGEWATER.

---

The Old Grave-yard in West Bridgewater, on the east side of Taunton Road, leading from Mill River to Mile Brook Bridge, now called South Street, was originally one acre of land, and about forty years ago was enlarged by an addition of land on the north and east sides, to its present form and quantity, to wit: nearly a triangle, and containing one acre, one quarter and eleven rods of land, then making a carriage way on the northerly and easterly side, as appears by the plan hereto annexed, made from an actual survey of the premises, and then enclosing the whole ground with a stone wall, as now appears.

Some ten years ago the ground had become grown over to bushes, trees, wild grass and weeds, the stones covered with moss, and out of position. A subscription was raised, the ground was dug over, graded and smoothed, the headstones cleaned and righted, the footstones removed to the back side of the headstones, and otherwise disposed of, so that the ground is now in comfortable condition for mowing, and for being kept in good order in the future.

There is but one reference to this ground as a grave-yard in the old records, and that is its grant by the Proprietors of Bridgewater for a burial-place, and is found in the first volume of said Proprietors' Records at the top of page 153, in the hand-writing of Samuel Allen, who was the second Town and Proprietors' Clerk, from 1683 to 1702, and is in these words, under the head of "Edward Fobes:"

"more, one aker and half and one aker for a burying place, liing at the hed of this aker and half liing at the hed of his tow house lot that hee bought of John Cary, bounded at the hed by tow red ok or black oke saplings."

There is no date to this grant or record. It was without doubt after 1683, as Mr. Allen was not clerk till December 1683. The record on the preceding page, 152, under the head of "The lands of Edward Fobes in the Township of Bridgewater, both uplands and meadow," is in the hand-writing of John Cary, the first Town and Proprietors' Clerk, from the first settlement of the town in 1651, to the day of his death, October 31, 1681. Dea. Edward Fobes, son of John Fobes, an original proprietor, then lived where Dwelly Fobes now lives, and owned two house or garden lots, 24 x 80, 12 acres, bounded west by Samuel Edson, and east by road to Taunton, being the present road by his house and the burying-place, and the two house lots, 24 x 80, referred to in this record as bought of John Cary, mean the two house lots opposite the dwelling house of said Edward Fobes, now Dwelly Fobes, bounded east by John Ames, and west by the road aforesaid, which two house lots last named were owned, occupied and lived upon by John Cary, Jr., son of the old and first Town Clerk, who moved to Bristol, then a part of the Old Colony of Plymouth, and now in Rhode Island, and said Cary, Jr., of Bristol, sold and conveyed said two house lots to said Edward Fobes by deed dated July 7, 1683, recorded in Plymouth Registry, book 20, page 123. The acre and half mentioned in said record lay at the head of these two house lots, and the one acre, referred to for a burying-place, lay at the head of the one acre and half, and is the present burying-ground, except the additions made some forty years ago, as above stated. This ground was probably not used at all for a burying-place till after its grant for that purpose, and the grant was not made till after July 7, 1683, and may not have been for some years after that.

The epitaphs fail to show that this ground was used much, if any, for the burial of persons living and dying in other parts of the town, afterward known as South, East and North Precincts. According to grave-stone account Dea. Samuel Edson died 1692, his wife 1699, Rev. James Keith's first wife 1705, he 1719, all buried in this yard near each other. The next five persons having grave-stones and buried here are a child of Doct. Perkins, 1720, a child of George Williams, 1721, Hannah, wife of Comfort Willis, 1723, æ 64, Martha Fobes, 1725, æ 6, and Joseph Keith, 1730, æ 55, said Joseph Keith being the only one of the nine children of Rev. James Keith, the exact date of whose birth is known. He was no doubt born February 14, 1675, as stated on his grave-stone, and died September 27, 1730.

A memoir of Royal Keith, with annals of the Keith family of Scotland, a pamphlet of 24 pages, was published at Boston 1873, by C. E. Keith, & Co., in which memoir on the 7th page is given an account of the birth of the children of the Rev. James Keith, putting down the exact date of the birth of each of his nine children, naming them in the order in which they are named in Mitchell's History of Bridgewater, as follows :

“ James Keith, born December 5, 1669 ;
 Joseph Keith, “ November 8, 1671 ;
 Samuel Keith, “ December 20, 1673 ;
 Timothy Keith, “ April 3, 1675 ;
 John Keith, “ October 4, 1676 ;
 Josiah Keith “ December 25, 1678 ;
 Margaret Keith, “ November 2, 1682 ;
 Mary Keith, “ April 3, 1684 ;
 Susanna Keith, “ March 10, 1687.”

This account of the dates of the births of these children is believed to be wholly incorrect, without authority, and was altogether conjectural. Two of the three daughters, and four of the six sons of Minister Keith, lived and died in Bridgewater. These four sons have grave-stones, giving the date of their deaths and ages, and one of them, said Joseph Keith, giving the exact date of his birth, as well as his death, as before stated. The other three sons have grave-stones reading as follows :

1. SAMUEL “died February 3, 1759 in the 82 year of his age.” He was buried in Scotland, part of the South Precinct of old Bridgewater.
2. TIMOTHY “died November 8, 1767, aged 84.” Buried in Campello, part of North Precinct, now Brockton.
3. JOHN “died June 11, 1761 in the 73rd year of his age.” Buried in the Old Yard, South Precinct, now Bridgewater.

There is no record of the birth or death of the other five children of Rev. James Keith, who have no grave-stones. Two of his daughters lived and died in Bridgewater, now West Bridgewater. James died in Mendon, Josiah died in Easton, and Margaret probably died in Rehoboth. Their births and deaths are unknown except as before erroneously stated in that memoir, which is incorrect and unreliable, if grave-stones tell the truth.

There were but one monument in this ground before 1700, six before 1730, thirty-seven before 1750, and one hundred and seventy-four before 1800, and three hundred and four all told, down to the present time.

This old yard has not been much used for a burial-place for the last thirty years or more, and only two interments have been made for the last ten years. There is now in this yard one tomb on the north side of the ground called the Baxter tomb, and now owned by Withington Caldwell; and there are three tombs near the middle of the yard, belonging, one to the heirs of Benjamin R. Howard, deceased; one to the heirs of Judge Daniel Howard, deceased; and one to the heirs of Charles Howard and Wm. Ames, deceased; all built about 1824. None of these tombs have any occupants.

Where were the dead buried for upward of thirty years previous to the use of this grave-yard, which was not used till after 1683?

The first notice of any other burying-place is to be found in the Proprietors' Records, Vol. I, at the bottom of page 248, in the hand-writing of Samuel Allen, Proprietors' Clerk, made in the year 1689, under the head of "The lands of John Field both upland and meadow land hear in the Towne of Bridgewater." It is as follows:

"more on acre and halfe joying to the westerly side of his land liing on the north side of Meeting House, ranging all along the side of his land, being foure pole wide in breadth bounded in the corner next the Meeting House and Thomas Snell's land by a stone pitched into the ground and so running all the length of his land to the highway as it goes to Sandy Hill with allowance for highway on line beside said four pole and the burying place { 1689 } for those naibors y<sup>t</sup> have made choise of it."

The next reference to any burying-place found in the old records, is in the first volume of the West Precinct Record, at the bottom of page 5, in the hand-writing of Nathaniel Brett, Precinct Clerk, and is as follows:

"At a meeting of the West Precinct in Bridgewater, November 26, 1729, the Precinct past a clear vote for building a new Meeting House at the burying place to y<sup>e</sup> northward of the center of travel."

I have no doubt the burying-place referred to in these two records of 1689 and 1729 are one and the same place, and is where the Rev. Richard Stone in 1835, and Mr. Edward Capen in 1845, dug the cellars for their houses, and land between and adjacent thereto. When the cellars were dug several graves, human bones and remains of coffins were found in each of these cellars, which are about eight rods apart, and there is a tradition in the neighborhood that a certain negro was buried under an apple tree then and there near by standing, showing the burying-place to have occupied forty or fifty square rods of ground.

The meeting-house referred to in the first record was the second meeting-house built in Bridgewater, 1674, enlarged 1694, and taken down 1731, and was then, 1689, standing where the Three Decker was built, 1731, and taken down 1823, and where the Soldiers' Monument now stands, built in 1879. John Field then lived where Jonathan Howard now lives, and Snell's land was where the old Byram Tavern House now stands.

The burying-place, referred to in the second record above, was no doubt the ground on the east side of the Boston road from the meeting-house to Sandy Hill, opposite to the dwelling-house of the late Gamaliel Howard. The centre of the travel means the centre of the travel of all the rateable inhabitants of West Precinct, for the purpose of locating the new meeting-house which they were desirous to build, and which was built 1731.

The Precinct in 1728 voted to build a new meeting-house in the centre of travel of all rateable inhabitants of West Precinct, and chose a committee to measure and find out the centre. No report is to be found and it does not appear where that centre was; then comes the vote of November 26, 1729, above cited. Next comes the vote of December 24, 1729, to set it at the west end or near the old house, giving the names of forty-eight persons voting for it, and finally, after many parish meetings, and an appeal to the Legislature, it was voted, June 8, 1731, to set the meeting-house at the west end of the old house, according to the order and recommendation of the Great and General Court, and to pull down the old house to make room for the new one.

No other grave-yard north of this place is known to have existed at this time, 1689 to 1729, and I should judge the centre of the travel to be south of these premises. There were but few settlements at this time, 1729, in the north part of the town.

A few graves have been found in the field and ground south of Francis E. Howard's house, on the west side of the Boston road from Benjamin Howard's house to the house of said Francis, and there were, within the memory of man, graves with natural stones, without inscription, within the limits of the highway, but west of the line of travel, at this place, and there is a tradition in the neighborhood of some burials here; but nothing definite or certain is known of its being a burying place of much extent, though it appears to have been, probably, the first burying-place in Bridgewater, and that opposite the house of Gamaliel Howard the second, and that on the east side of Taunton road to be the third. This first yard, probably not much used after the third yard was established, in 1683 or later. This first yard is situated about half-way between the house of Rev. James Keith, built 1661, enlarged 1677, and now owned and occupied by George M. Pratt, and the supposed site of the first meeting-house, built in 1661, taken down 1674, and which probably stood on the west side of the old Boston road south of Francis E. Howard's house, or on the north side of the old road leading from the Green, or soldier's monument, westerly, and north of the houses of Francis Perkins and Jonathan Howard, and by the house of Samuel Packard, now gone, to the Boston road north of the old Howard Tavern House, now gone. This old road, probably the first made upon the bank of the river, was straight from point to point, and was allowed to be "stopped up by John Howard and John Field, 1710, and turned down the lane" on the bank of the river as now used for a highway in front of Jonathan Howard's house; but the first meeting-house most likely stood near the first burying ground.

The settlement of Bridgewater commenced 1651, and began near Coaster's Kitchen, and extended eastwardly, on the banks of Town River, with such paths and ways, running mostly east and west, from one house to another, on each bank of the river, as were needed for their personal convenience, until 1668, seventeen years after their first location, when a jury of twelve men of Bridgewater were impannelled, and laid out four roads for public convenience, two of them starting from the meeting house of 1661, wherever situated, one toward Boston, and one toward Taunton, and two other roads branching off from these two roads above named—one at Sandy Hill, towards Plymouth, and one at the head of Edward Fobes' two house lots, towards the Great Meadows.

It was a practice in old times to have the meeting house, the graveyard, and the minister's house close together, especially the two first; and if the ground south of Francis E. Howard's was a burial-place during the first thirty or more years of this settlement, it would be near the meeting-house and minister's house, whether we assume the first meeting-house to have been located east of the Boston road, near the Samuel Packard house as heretofore suggested, or we assume that it stood on the west side of that road south of F. E. Howard's house.

We fail to find grave-stones prior to 1700, with one exception, and very few prior to 1740, and we are unable to find other record evidence that either of these two places were used for burial ; although it is highly probable that they were both burial-places during the first thirty years, and occasionally used for some time afterwards.

The Boston, Plymouth and Taunton road, through West Bridgewater, laid out by a jury of twelve men, 1668, has always been understood to be the road leading from Mile Brook Bridge, by the old burying-ground, Dwelly Fobes's house, over Town River, by the houses of Benjamin and Francis E. Howard, by the present meeting-house, and by the house of the late Gamaliel Howard, to Sandy Hill, north of the late Jonathan Copeland's house.

Each of these roads starts from the meeting-house. The Plymouth and Boston is one road, from the meeting house to Sandy Hill ; and the Taunton road runs from the meeting-house to John Haward's, and thence over the river to Mile Brook Bridge (meaning the old tavern house of the first John Howard). This meeting-house, being the first meeting-house in old Bridgewater, stood on the Boston and Taunton road, through Bridgewater, and probably on the west side of it, between the houses of said Benjamin and Francis E. Howard.

Grave-yards grow, decay, disappear and are soon forgotten. Grave-stones were expensive and difficult to be obtained. Native flat stones, set in the ground edgewise, at the head and foot of graves, were sufficient to identify the resting places of friends for the time being, and graves during the memory of man were recognized ; but after the lapse of a few generations, and long ago becoming unknown, have been demolished, stones removed and ground levelled and smoothed. There are but few grave-stones with inscriptions thereon during the first one hundred years after the settlement of Bridgewater. The earliest stones were generally for young children, and there is much doubt and uncertainty what yard, or in what part of the yard, the first settlers were buried, or when burial-places were first established, who gave the land, or how right of burial was acquired.

In order to locate and number the grave-stones, and to aid in finding grave-stones, we have divided the ground into six sections, numbered A to E, each section, except A and F, being 64 feet wide. The line between section A and B begins 42 feet southerly from the north-west corner of the grave-yard, and runs nearly an east course to the northeast corner of the yard. As seen upon the plan, figures represent grave-stones, and all graves head west and foot east.

We begin at the west end of Section A, and go easterly, and locate and number each head-stone, the first stone 1, the next 2, the next 3, and so on until we locate and number all stones in that section, which amount to thirty-three stones. We then go into Section B, at the easterly end, and go westerly locating each stone, and numbering the first stone 34, next 35, and so on, until we get to the west end of section B, the last number in that section being 132. We then go into the west end of Section C, and locate and number the first stone 133, and go easterly, numbering all stones until we get to the easterly end of Section C, number 189, and so through all the sections, numbering all stones, and finding, in the whole, 304 stones, counting each monument for Edson, Keith, Angier and Reed as one stone, and excluding the four tombs.

Her Savior's smile dispelled the gloom,
And smoothed her passage to the tomb.

15. To the Memory of Mrs. Susanna Fobes, Eldest Daughter of Col. Edward Howard, and wife of Mr. Jesse Fobes, this stone is erected. In 1774 she was married to Oakes Angier, Esq., Barrister-at-Law. After his death, in 1786, she remained a widow until 1792, and died April 28, 1793. This Jesse Fobes, by a second wife, the daughter of Rev. Elijah Packard, was the father of Judge Charles E. Fobes, late of Northampton.

16. Oakes Angier, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, departed this life Sept. 1st, A. D. 1786, in the 41st year of his age, and here lies interred with mind vigorous and penetrating, assiduous and indefatigable in business. He soon arrived at eminence in his profession. Seventeen years practice at the bar with fidelity, integrity and ability established his reputation, and improved his fortune, but too fatally injured his constitution in the meridian of life, by a lingering and incurable malady. The Great Teacher put a period to his days, thereby affording an affecting evidence of the futility of the fondest dreams of terrestrial felicity.

POWDER HOUSE GRAVE-YARD, — IN — WEST BRIDGEWATER.

The Powder House Grave-yard, in West Bridgewater, is on the north side of the Plymouth road, leading from the old Bay road, by the old King house; contains forty-three square rods; is 205 feet long on said road, east and west; ninety-six feet back, north and south; has two entrances for carriages on said road—one at each end of the yard, and was used for a burying-place as early as 1747.

About forty-two or forty-three years ago it was enlarged by taking in a narrow strip of land from one to two rods wide on three sides, when the wall and fence now there was made, and all done by the town of West Bridgewater.

The oldest burials in this yard are Abigail, dau. of Josiah Snell, died May 13, 1747, æ 8, her sister Mary dying May 27, the same year, æ 11, Rhoda Packard, a child, dying April 4, 1750, Israel Packard, April 20, 1752, æ 35, and Josiah Snell, grandfather of the first two children above named, dying April 4, 1753, æ 78; only five persons being buried here before 1760, twenty-three dying in course of ten years after 1780, and seventeen between 1800 and 1810; and only two interments have been made since 1848—Edward Snell, June 8, 1851, æ 54, and Linthea Snell, April 5, 1859, aged 64. Of the ninety-nine persons having lettered grave-stones in this yard, thirty-four bore the name of Snell; seventeen, Packard; eleven, Hayward; nine, Richards. There are but few graves without lettered stones. All stones face south. This ground has not been worked upon, or levelled off so as to obliterate the resting places of those persons who have no lettered head-stones. No deed or ancient manuscript of these premises, or of any part thereof, is known to exist.

Ebenezer Copeland, Sen., grandfather of the present James Copeland, of West Bridgewater, lost seven of his family between Jan. 7 and Mch. 11, 1800. His wife and five children and his son's wife, all died of typhoid fever, to wit: James, d. Jan. 7, 1800, aged 25; Ruth d. Feb. 6, 1800, aged 14; Abby Godfrey d. Feb. 19, 1800, aged 48; Molly d. Feb. 24, 1800, aged 12; Rachel d. Feb. 25, 1800, aged 18; Betsey d. Mch. 6, 1800, aged 24; Mehitable Snell, wife of Eben, Jr., Mch. 11, 1800, aged 25.

They were all buried on the south side of the road opposite this burial-ground. Jonathan Copeland, father of Ebenezer, Sen., was buried on the south side of this road, 1790, aged 90, being the first Copeland that died in Bridgewater. In 1801 this Ebenezer, Sen., built a tomb on the south side of the road, and had these bodies all put into that tomb. Another tomb was built on this side of the road by Dea. Joseph Kingman and his brother Jonathan, about 1819, and shortly after a third tomb was built on this spot by Hezekiah Copeland.

In 1860 all the bodies in these tombs were removed to the Pine Hill cemetery, and the tombs were taken away, and the road was then widened. Ebenezer Copeland, Sen., owned the land where these tombs were located, formerly Dea. Brett's land, and Nathan Snell owned the land on the north side of the road. Probably his father, Josiah Snell, grandson of Thomas Snell, one of the first settlers, and greatest landholder in old Bridgewater, gave the original lot for burial.

There is a tradition that one or more persons were buried on Sandy Hill, on the west side of the old Bay road, nearly opposite the house of Elihu Leonard, which stands upon the site and very cellar of the old Brett house, which was owned and occupied successively by father and son. In taking earth from this hill, to make the new road where the willows now grow, one place, having some appearance of an old grave, was found; but, if it was ever much used for burial, they would have discovered more evidence of its having been used for that purpose.

It is not known where the old town clerk, Dea. Nathaniel Brett, Sen., and wife, Sarah, were buried. She died 1737; he died 1740; probably in the ground opposite the late Gamaliel Howard house, and where the Stone and Capen houses stand, called the Second Burying-Place in West Bridgewater.

N. Brett, Jr., deacon and fourth town clerk from 1736 to his death, 1779, was probably buried in this yard on the east side of his second wife, Mary Brett's grave. This site is indicated by two natural, rough stones at head and foot, without inscription. The second wife died Jan. 21, 1780, within one year after the death of her husband, and was buried about thirty-five feet nearly east from where his first wife Rebecca and their son Uriah were buried. The two wives and their son Uriah have good head-stones; but the stone for his second wife does not give her birth or age. The first wife died 1771, and their son Uriah died 1768, aged 28. The old Powder House stood in this yard, near the southwest corner, as appears on the plan.

1. Lt. Jonathan Packard, died May 27, 1805, in his 73<sup>d</sup> year.
2. Mrs. Martha, wife of Lt. Jonathan Packard, died March 11, 1810, in her 82<sup>d</sup> year.
3. In memory of Miss Silence Hayward, who died Dec. 13, 1823, in the 73<sup>d</sup> year of her age.
4. In memory of Mrs. Silence, wife of Mr. Elijah Hayward ; she died Oct. 22<sup>d</sup>, 1803, aged 75.
May angels guard this lovely clay
Till comes the great decisive day
When she shall wake for to put on
The robe which Christ prepared so long.
5. In memory of Mr. Elijah Hayward, who died July 31, 1800, his age 78.
My children dear, this place draw near,
A father's grave to see ;
Not long ago I was with you,
And soon you will be with me.
6. In memory of Mrs. Betty Hayward, wife of Mr. Luther Hayward, who died Nov. 9, 1793, in the 28th year of her age.
My friends draw near and drop a tear,
In this dark grave I lie ;
O think of me when this you see,
And be prepared to die.
7. Erected in memory of Mr. Luther Hayward, who died Nov. 12, 1832, aged 74 years.
8. In memory of Mr. Daniel W. Lewis, who died Aug. 17, 1815, in the 28 year of his age.
Friends nor physician could not save
My mortal body from the grave ;
Nor can the grave confine me here
When Christ shall call me to appear.

9. Erected in memory of Caleb K. Reed, who died Oct. 2, A. D. 1837, aged 38 years.

Death, like an over-flowing stream,
Soon bears us to the tomb;
But immortality and life
Dispel the darksome gloom.

10. Erected in memory of Mrs. Hannah Reed, widow of the late Timothy Reed, Esq., who died Dec. 23, 1848, aged 81 years.

There is a land of pure delight
Where friends, once parted, shall unite;
And, meeting on that blisful shore,
With fond embrace shall part no more.

11. In memory of Mr. Timothy Reed, Jan. 20, 1813, in his 56th year.

Daily our mortal flesh decays,
But Christ our life shall come:
His unresisting power shall raise
Our bodies from the grave.

12. In memory of the Widow Mary Orcutt, who died Nov. 16, 1807, in her 100th year.

13. Here lies Miss Lydia Edson, died Aug. 18, 1793, in her 83<sup>d</sup> year.

This friend of Christ shall wake and rise;
Shall mount triumphant to the skies;
When bright this love, the grace divine,
This mortal shall in glory shine.

14. In memory of Mr. Joseph Edson, who died Aug. 27, 1791, y<sup>e</sup> 36 year of his age.

15. Rebecca, wife of Ezekiel Reed, died Jan. 3, 1845, aged 74 years, 6 mo., 27 days.

In her was manifested that wisdom which is from above, is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruit, without partiality and without hypocrisy.

16. Jesse, son of Mr. Jesse Edson, died Aug. 12, 1768, in y<sup>e</sup> 4th year his age.

17. In memory of Mr. Jesse Edson, who died Nov. 18, 1787, in the 60th year of his age.

26. In memory of Ruhamah, daughter of Capt. Josiah Snell and Mrs. Ruhamah, his wife ; she died March y<sup>e</sup> 15, 1786, in y<sup>e</sup> 17th year of her age.

Ruhamah bid a long farewell
To all below, where she did dwell ;
She trod the dark, the gloomy road,
To dwell forever with her God.

27. In memory of Mr. Barnabas Snell, who died Jan<sup>y</sup>. y<sup>e</sup> 28, 1783, in the 27th year of his age.

My time is spent, my days are past ;
Eternity must count the rest ;
My glass is out, my race is run ;
The holy will of God is done.

28. In memory of Mrs. Ruhamah Snell, wife of Capt. Josiah Snell, who died Jan<sup>y</sup>. 25, 1792, in y<sup>e</sup> 61st year of her age.

32. In memory of Miss Martha, dau. of Lt. Jonathan Packard and Mrs. Martha, his wife, who departed this life Jan<sup>y</sup> y<sup>e</sup> 19, 1784, in the 19th, year of her age.

Hail! happy youth, gone, thou hast took thy flight,
Through Christ to dwell, in realms of glorious light ;
Thy stay was short on each, yet made to know,
The pains of parting with thy friends below.

33. In memory of Mr. Caleb Packard, who departed this life May y<sup>e</sup> 27, 1783, in the 24th year of his age.

See here's the youth whose chreeful bloom
Promised a train of years to come ;
Whose soft address and graceful air
Had obtained the yealding fair,
When fate divides, thro' exploded joy,
And all his flattering hopes destroy.

34. In memory of Jonathan Packard, y<sup>e</sup> son of Mr. Jonathan Packard and Martha, his wife, he died Jan. 2, 1762, aged 6 years, 10 mo., 12 days.

35. In memory of Mrs. Susanna, daugh<sup>t</sup> of Lieut. Jonathan Packard and Mrs. Martha, his wife, who departed this life Aug<sup>t</sup> y<sup>e</sup> 5th, 1785, and y<sup>e</sup> 24th year of her age.

A life agreeable, and death triumphant through a Saviour.

36. In memory of Mrs Abigail, daughter of Lieut. Jonathan Packard and Mrs. Martha, his wife, who departed this life Nov. y<sup>e</sup> 20, 1786, in y<sup>e</sup> 17th year of her age.

Father I give my spirit up,
And trust it in thy hand;
My dying flesh shall rest in hope,
And rise at thy command.

37. Mrs. Aletha Packard, died Dec. 30, 1805, in her 52<sup>d</sup> year.

38. Mrs. Sarah Snell, wife of Mr. Caleb Snell; she died Aug. 27, 1807, in her 27th year.

Over thy now departed friend
The tears of sympathy descend;
The ground where thou art bedew,
And bring thy features plain to view.

39. Catherine, daughter of Caleb Snell, died Aug. 31, 1807, aged 9 mos.

40. In memory of Mrs. Anna, wife of Dea. Elijah Snell, who died April 20th, 1800, in her 50th year.

46. In memory of Mrs. Abigail, wife of Capt. Josiah Snell; she died Dec. y<sup>e</sup> 2, 1784, in y<sup>e</sup> 76 year of her age.

Remember me as you pass by,
For as you are so once was I;
As I am now so you must be;
Prepare for death, and follow me.

47. In memory of Capt. Josiah Snell, he died Aug. y<sup>e</sup> 20th, 1785, in y<sup>e</sup> 85th year of his age.

Here, in this gloomy nursery of the dead,
A neighbor good, a faithful friend is laid;
Just, peaceful, careful, punctual, and sincere,
A father kind, a tender husband dear.

48. Here lies buried Mr. Josiah Snell, who dec<sup>d</sup> April y<sup>e</sup> 4th, 1753, in y<sup>e</sup> 79th year of his age.

Think on the parents, mothers, think how great;
How favored with your children in your view;
While you enjoy your health, your wealth and state,
Prepare to follow me; teach them to follow you.

54. In memory of Mr. Cyrus Snell, who died Oct. 29, 1805, æ 27 years.

Death is a solemn scene you all must pass,
When you draw near, Oh! Mortals, think how soon,
My blooming hopes and years are fled in haste,
So may your morning sun go down at noon.

55. In memory of Mrs. Mary Brett, wife of Dea. Nathaniel Brett, dec<sup>d</sup>, who departed this life Jan. y<sup>e</sup> 21st, 1780.

God, my redeemer, lives,
And often from the skies,
Looks down and watches all my dust
Till he shall bid it rise.

57. In memory of Mr. Caleb Kingman, born Sept. 25, 1744, died Sept. 16, 1807, æ 63.

All husbands kind and good, a parent dear,
To all obliging and to all sincere,
True to his offspring, friend and guide,
He lived beloved, and lamented died.

58. In memory of Freelove Kingman ; she died Jan. y<sup>e</sup> 3<sup>d</sup>, 1815, aged 69 years.

In praise I'll spend my latest breath,
Then yield it to the call of death,
In hope that thou my flesh will raise
To celebrate thy deathless praise.

Here I must lie
Till Christ appears.

68. In memory of Mrs. Susanna, wife of Mr. Samuel Willis, who died Dec. y<sup>e</sup> 10, 1783, in y<sup>e</sup> 58 year of her age.

Stop, kind reader, and drop a tear;
Think on the dust that slumbers here ;
And while you read the fate of me
Think on the glass that runs for thee.

69. In memory of Mr. Samuel Willis, who died Nov. y<sup>e</sup> 20th, 1778, in y<sup>e</sup> 54th year of his age.

Behold and see as you pass by,
For as you are so once was I ;
And as I am now so you must be ;
Prepare for death, and follow me.

70. In memory of Miss Martha Snell ; who died Sept. 2<sup>d</sup>, 1817, æ 64.

Could grateful love recall the fleeting breath,
Or fond affection sooth relentless death :
Then had this stone ne'er claimed a social tear,
Or read to thoughtless man a lesson here.

71. Here lies Mrs. Sarah Snell, she died Nov. 17, 1800, in her 39th year.

JERUSALEM GRAVE-YARD,

— IN —

WEST BRIDGEWATER.

The Jerusalem Grave-yard is on the west side of the road leading from the almshouse to Jerusalem, in West Bridgewater, and was established as early as 1749; contains thirty-three square rods; is 150 feet on said road, running north and south, and extending back sixty-four feet east and west; has thirty-six lettered grave-stones, and some half a dozen graves unmarked except by native flat stone without inscription; graves head east; foot west; and all stones facing east.

The Rev. John Burr, aged 61, and Dr. Abiel Howard, aged 72, were buried here in 1777. The first two persons buried here were Mary Hayward, a child, died June 15, 1749; and John Howard, a child, died 1753; and the last two persons buried here were Jonathan Hayward, died April 30, 1824, aged 88; and Charity Howard, died Dec. 4, 1829, aged 82. Twelve of the thirty-six persons having grave-stones died during ten years succeeding 1760, and half of the thirty-six died between 1770 and 1800, and only three besides the two above named have died since 1800—one in 1803, one in 1811, and one in 1813.

This ground was virtually abandoned and wholly neglected for many years. A good growth of wood and timber had grown up, and was standing thereon a few years ago, when the town of West Bridgewater extinguished the outstanding title, took possession of the premises, caused the wood and timber to be cut and removed, and enclosed the ground with a wooden post and rail fence on three sides thereof, and a stone wall on the back side.

There are, in this yard, thirteen Haywards, five Burrs, and four each of the Bretts and Hartwells. We are unable to find any ancient record relating to this grave-yard, and only one deed of land is known to exist, and that recently taken from Jane S. T. Hervey, daughter of Zeba Howard, and wife of L. D. Hervey, conveying the premises to the town of West Bridgewater.

3. In memory of Freelove Brett, daugh. of Mr. John Brett and Alice, his wife, who died Jan<sup>y</sup> 12, 1779, in the 33<sup>d</sup> year of her age.

4. In memory of Hannah Brett, daugh. of Mr. John Brett and Alice, his wife, who died Oct. 20th, 1779, in the 26th year of her age.

5. Here lies Mr. John Brett, who died Aug. 28th, 1793, in the 88th year of his age.

6. In memory of Alice, widow of Mr. John Brett, who died Dec. 1st, 1794, in her 81st year.

7. In memory of Mrs. Anna Williams, wife of Mr. George Williams, who died Sept. 4, 1775, in y<sup>e</sup> 23<sup>d</sup> year of her age.

8. In memory of Mrs. Sarah Kingman, wife of Mr. Alexander Kingman, who died Nov. 16, 1789, aged 65 years.

9. In memory of Lieut. Daniel Howard, who died March y<sup>e</sup> 23<sup>d</sup>, 1782, in y<sup>e</sup> 35th year of his age.

Stoop down my thoughts that used to rise,
Converse a while with death,
Think how a gasping mortal lies
And pants away his breath.

10. In memory of Mrs. Silence, the wife of Abiel Howard, M. D.; she died Aug<sup>t</sup> y<sup>e</sup> 17, 1775, ætatis 62. (A daughter of Nehemiah Washburn).

In dust I die, to dust I return;
This is my place, my destined urn,
O think of death, heaven, and hell;
Make God your friend and all is well.

11. In memory of Abiel Howard, M. D.; he died Jan<sup>y</sup> the 10th, 1777, in y<sup>e</sup> 73<sup>d</sup> year of his age, (A graduate H. U. 1729, whose dau. Silence m. Dr. Philip Bryant, father of Dr. Peter Bryant, of Cummington, who was the father of William Cullen Bryant, the poet).

The sweet remembrance of the just
Shall flourish when they sleep in dust.

13. In memory of Miss Charity Howard, who died Dec. 4, 1829, æ 82 years.

14. Here lies Mr. Jonathan Burr; he died January 24th, in the 66th year of his age.

Death, inexorable, hath laid in the dust
The man who was faithful, pious, and just;
From torments extreme, how happy the flight
From misery to joy—from darkness to light.

15. In memory of Mrs. Martha, wife of Mr. Jonathan Burr, who died Dec. y<sup>o</sup> 12th, 1791, in y<sup>o</sup> 55th year of her age.

Our loving friend is gone,
No more to cheer her friends and children dear,
O certain fate, we view this teaching stone
And mourn thy death to meditate our own.

16. In memory of Mrs. Mary Hayward, the wife of Mr. Abner Hayward, who died Dec. 4, æ 1783, in the 65th year of her age.

Our life is ever on the wing,
And death is ever nigh;
The moments when our lives begin
We all begin to die.
Death is a debt to nature due
Which I have paid, and so must you.

17. In memory of Mrs. Susanna Hayward, who died March 25, 1800, in the 48th year of her age.

Here let you rest in peaceful dust
Till God to glory raise the dust.

18. In memory of Rev. John Burr, who died March the 16th, 1777, in y<sup>o</sup> 62<sup>d</sup> year of his age.

In memory of Mrs. Silence Burr, wife of Deac. John Burr, who died May 6, 1773, in y<sup>o</sup> 68 year of her age. (Dea. John Burr here means the Rev. John Burr above).

23. In memory of Mr. Jonathan Hayward, who died April 30, 1824, in the 89th year of his age.

Stop, kind friends, and take a view :
 The shroud and grave do wait for you ;
 When on my grave you cast an eye,
 Think on cold death ; you soon must die.

24. Miss Mary Hayward wife of Mr. Jonathan Hayward, died Oct. 6, 1813, æ 61.

Let this vain world engage no more,
 Behold the gaping tomb ;
 It bids us seize the present hour,
 To-morrow death may come.

25. In memory of Mrs. Betty Hartwell, the wife of Mr. Nathan Hartwell, who died Feb. 28, 1762, aged 26 years and 6 mos.

26. In memory of Silence Burr, daughter of Mr. Seth Burr and Charity, his wife, who died March y<sup>e</sup> 20, A. D. 1780, in the 26th year of her age.

You, reader, stop
 And lend a tear ;
 Think on the dust
 That slumbers here.

THE ALGER GRAVE-YARD AND TOMB,
— IN —
WEST BRIDGEWATER.

This yard contains sixteen to twenty square rods of land on Wolf Trap Hill, west side of Flaggy Meadow Brook, south side of the road, nearly opposite the dwelling house of James Otis Alger, in West Bridgewater.

There is a common balance wall on the west side, and a bank wall on the north side, next to the road, and otherwise it is unenclosed. There are four graves with grave-stones having the following inscription thereon, to wit:

1. James Keith, son of Mr. Calvin Keith, died of an epilepsy, March 13, 1801, in his 17th year.
2. Erected in memory of Lieut. James Alger, who died May 20, 1810, in his 82<sup>d</sup> year.
3. Erected in memory of Mrs. Martha Alger, wife of Lieut. James Alger; she died 23<sup>d</sup> Aug., 1813, in her 81st year.
4. Hannah, daughter of Kingman and Sarah Cook, died Jan. 29, 1822, 2 years, 10 mos.

And there are five graves in this yard without monument or inscription, to wit:

1. A daughter of Abiezer Alger, Jr., stillborn, June 21, 1813.
2. Rachel Keith, born July 22, 1744, died about 1815, 71 years of age. (She was a dau. of Ebenezer Keith, and half-sister of the first Abiezer Alger's wife).
3. Abiezer Alger, 3<sup>d</sup>, son of Abiezer Alger, Jr., born Nov. 20, 1820, died Feb. 14, 1822, 1 year, 2 months, 25 days.
4. A son of Abiezer Alger, Jr., stillborn, Jan. 10, 1823.

5. Dilly Green, colored, buried about 1824. She was probably over 60 years of age and was one of the four wives of Robert Prince, better known by the name of Robert Green, who was a large, strong man, jet black, born in Virginia, lived on the Alger farm for many years; is said to have served in the old French war and was a body servant of Gen. Green, in the Revolutionary War, and died in the poor house in West Bridgewater, in January, 1827, 106 years of age.

And there is also one large tomb upon these premises, built by the late Abiezer Alger, Jr., in the early part of the year of 1828, containing the remains of fourteen persons deposited there, in the order of their deaths, to wit:

1. Cornelia Alger, born Aug. 24, 1800, died Oct. 26, 1824. Put into Zephaniah Lathrop's tomb and removed June 7, 1828.
2. A son of Abiezer and Annie C. Alger, stillborn, June 5, 1828.
3. Abiezer Alger, Sen., born July 25, 1757, died July 31, 1830.
4. Hepsibah Alger, wife of Abiezer Alger, born in Scotland, Dec. 20, 1760, died Feb. 25, 1841.
5. Vienna Keith, born in Scotland, Aug. 1, 1764, died July 21, 1847, a daughter of Ebenezer Keith, and sister of said Hepsibah.
6. Annie Dean Alger, dau. of James and Caroline B. Alger, born Feb. 1856, died, aged 10 days.
7. Anne Cushing Alger, wife of the second Abiezer Alger, born in Pembroke, now Hanson, Oct. 15, 1786, died Sept. 24, 1857.
8. Abiezer Alger, born May 21, 1787, died March 1, 1863.
9. Martha Kingman Alger, born May 16, 1848, died May 17, 1866.
10. Hepsy Alger, born Oct. 24, 1792, died June 14, 1866.
11. Caroline Belinda Alger, born in Raynham, Mar. 2, 1825, died April 2, 1869.
12. Caroline Richmond Alger, born July 16, 1845, died July 4, 1869.
13. James Alger, born Aug. 29, 1816, died Jan. 26, 1878. (Son of Abiezer, Jr.)
14. Henry Williams Alger, born April 18, 1854, died Feb. 26, 1878.

NOTE TO FIRST GRAVE-YARD, ON PAGE SIX.

Since the preceding pages were printed, we have found a deed from John Field to John Howard, dated May 16, 1707, recorded in Plymouth Registry, book 11, page 218, conveying to said Howard "a tract of land butting the Town River; bounded westerly by land of James Keith, easterly by the highway, and on the northerly end it is bounded by Mr. Keith's head fence, next to the highway that goes to Jonathan Howard, and by an heap of stones, and so by that range to the highway, only excepting sixteen pole of land joining to the burying-place, being two poles in breadth, eight poles in length. The rest of said tract containing twelve acres and a half."

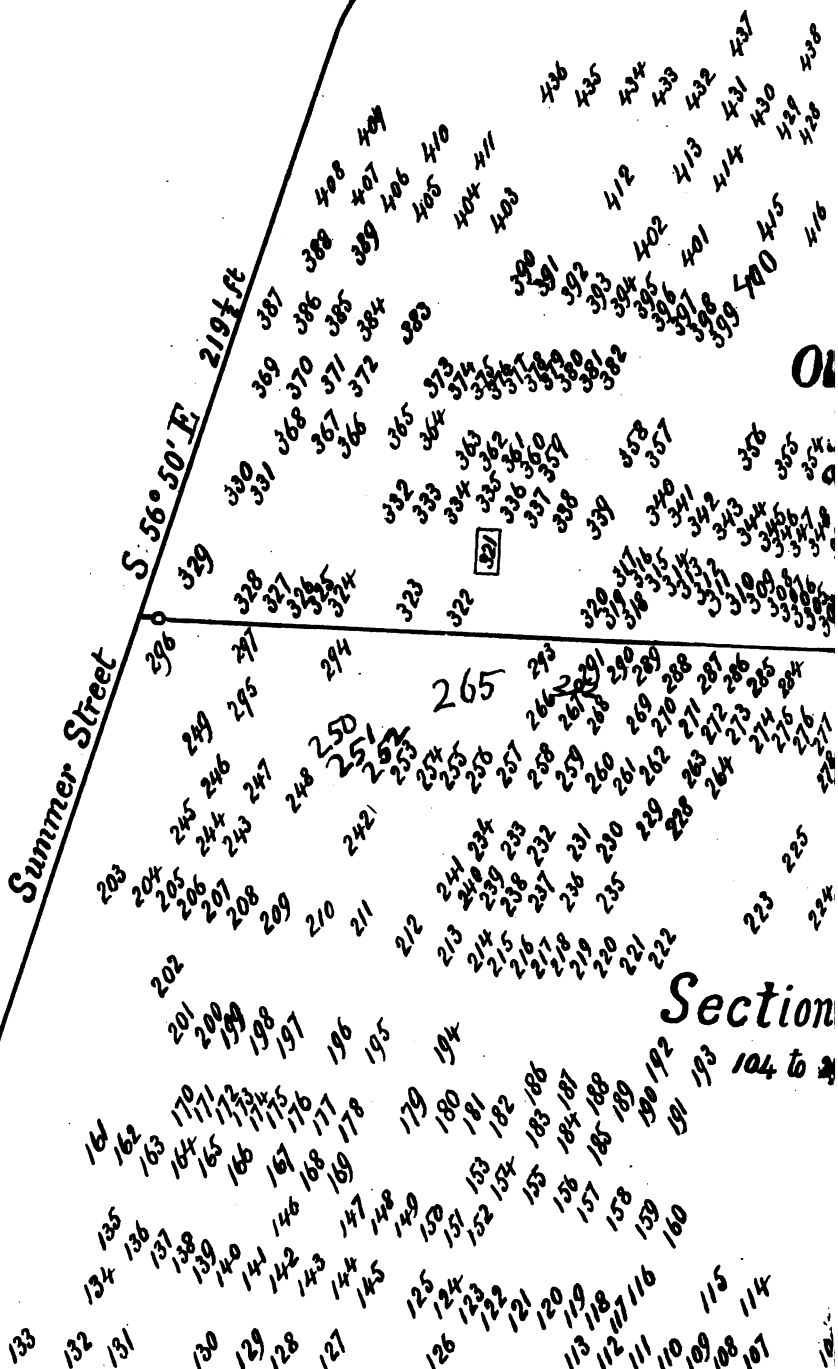

Jonathan Howard then lived where the late Lloyd Howard lived, near Nahum Leonard's house, and was a brother of the grantee, called John Minimus, and Tapster John; and the third highway referred to means the Boston road, leading from the house of Benjamin Howard, by the house of Francis E. Howard, to and by the present meeting-house, and these premises are the two house lots, each twelve by eighty, originally laid out to George Turner, whereon he lived, and on his death, about 1696, descended, and became the property of his son, John Turner, who conveyed the same to said John Field, by deed dated March 17, 1706, book 13, page 144, and was bounded westerly by the homestead of Rev. James Keith, now George M. Pratt's, and easterly by said Boston road.

OLD GRAVE-YARD,

— IN —

BRIDGEWATER.

---

The Old-Grave Yard, near the Unitarian Church, was the first burying-place in the South Precinct, now Bridgewater. The land, one acre, is a part of two acres given to the "Inhabitants of the Southerly Precinct," by John Washburn, "to build a Meeting House on," by deed dated April 6, 1719, recorded June 20, 1722, in Plymouth Registry, book 16, page 61, and also recorded in the third book of Parish Records of the South Precinct, now the First Congregational Society in Bridgewater, pages 197-8. The premises conveyed by that deed were twenty rods north and south, and sixteen rods east and west, on which a meeting-house, 38 x 43, was commenced in 1716, finished and dedicated June 14, 1717. It stood on the spot where the present meeting-house stands, and fronted south, was enlarged, 1747, sixteen feet in the middle and taken down 1760.

There is no allusion to any burial in the above deed of John Washburn, nor in the Parish Records for many years after.

John Washburn, the donor, died in 1719, and his wife, Rebecca, in 1717, and both were buried here, in the southwest part, on the high ground which was first used for burial, and the ground first appropriated for burial was afterwards enlarged by the parish. The late Capt. Abram Washburn, about 1843, set up new grave-stones at their graves in place of the old natural stones removed, and in 1850 planted the two larch trees, now standing and growing over their graves, in the presence of the writer, and always claimed that said Rebecca, wife of the donor of the ground, was the first person buried in the yard, it being so written on her grave-stone, and there is no evidence, written, printed or otherwise, of this ground being used for burial prior to 1716.

Where were those people buried who lived and died in this part of old Bridgewater prior to 1716?

Several families were living here as early as 1680, and the population of this part of old Bridgewater was constantly increasing from that date down to 1716, when the South Precinct was formed, and this burial-place was commenced. But we have no evidence, or even tradition, of there being any grave-yard in this part of old Bridgewater during this time, a period of more than thirty years. If private burial-places existed, we should probably have heard of them. There is no evidence, and it is not probable, that they were buried in the old yard in West Bridgewater, and they may have been buried in one or more places in this part of old Bridgewater, not yet discovered.

In 1736 the South Precinct voted to build a board fence around the burying-ground, and the next year rescinded that vote, and voted to build, and did build, a post and rail fence. This kind of fence was continued, with occasional repairs, down to 1795-6, when the members of the South Precinct concluded to have the yard fenced in with a stone wall, and the parish voted "to take off the fence round the burying-place, and sell it to build another, to be no expense to the parish." They made a bee. The whole parish turned out with more ox teams in those days than now, and voluntarily, in one day, brought together stone enough and sufficient for the whole fence, about fifty rods in length, making a common balance wall around the yard, with a gate entrance at each corner; and this wall fence remained till 1844, when Capt. Abram Washburn, with a little help from subscribers, rebuilt the whole wall, and put the capping stones on, and made one gate entrance near the middle of the south side.

In the upper, or southwest part of this yard, were many graves with natural stones, without inscription, and when the wall was rebuilt in 1844, these natural stones, and many of the foot-stones, were used and put into the wall. From 1845 to 1850 the foot-stones were all removed, and the graves and ground were levelled, so as to make it comfortable for mowing and raking. In 1847 twenty-eight of these foot-stones were made into head-stones, and set to graves without monuments, with a simple inscription of the name, or initials of the name, and year of death. About twenty of these foot-stones made into head-stones are still to be found in their proper places; and about this time, 1847 to 1850, two paths, or walks, each about five feet wide, from north to south, dividing the yard into three parts nearly equal, were plowed up, levelled, and fitted for walks, and a few head and footstones were displaced to make an unobstructed walk; but in a few years these walks were grassed over, and the paths were disused and lost. About 1820 five tombs were built in the central part of this yard, used and occupied for many years, and from 1845 to 1855 were taken down by permission of owners, and remains were removed to the new cemetery and other places. In 1842 a new public cemetery was established in the town, called the Bridgewater Cemetery, on Mount Prospect street, and some head-stones and remains have been removed from this old yard to this new cemetery and other places, and since 1842 very few interments have been made in this old yard.

Most of the trees in and around this yard were planted between 1838 to 1843. The pitch pine, in the easterly part of the yard, came from Isam Leonard. The elm now standing in the triangle formed by the junction of Plymouth with Summer streets is the survivor of seven elms planted in that triangle, in such manner that you could see three trees in a row in six directions. One morning it appeared that the row of trees on the northerly side of the road, from the house lot of W. Latham to the house of Widow Holmes, had been barked, cut, and injured more or less, with a large, sharp knife, or other instrument, so much so that six of the seven trees in this triangle were given up as lost and destroyed. This central tree, now standing there, was not cut entirely off, but so much cut that the top fell over and hung down. This tree was straightened up with splinters, clay, and bandages, and soon healed up and became sound, and now has its original top branches. This is the only malicious mischief ever done to trees in this neighborhood, though many trees have had narrow escapes.

The elm tree now standing in the triangle formed by the junction of School and Summer streets, was set out in the afternoon of the last May Training in this Commonwealth. While the writer was planting that tree his name was called by the clerk, as a member of the company then parading in front of the old meeting-house, and was marked absent, though the call was answered by the writer then outside of the training ground, without equipments except a spade. Upon a little consideration it was deemed expedient to call upon the captain to apologize for improper conduct in answering to the call, and to offer to pay the fine of four dollars incurred, without trouble or expense. In a few days the captain brought to the writer his list of delinquents for collection. Among other suits to recover fines, was one against Henry Randall, who claimed that his name was Henry Miller Randall, but it appeared in evidence that he had written his name Henry Randall, as well as Henry M. Randall. The court decided that a man may as well be known by one name as another, and he was held to answer to either name, and to pay his fine and cost.

This old grave-yard was the only place of burial in the South Precinct, now Bridgewater, for about thirty five years. Lt. John Washburn, born 1711, and died 1797, was the sexton, and dug the graves in this old yard from 1739 to the time of his death, 1797, and kept an account thereof, which is now (1882) in the possession of the writer. The dates in this record mean date of burial, and not day of death; and which record was made as a matter of account, and not as a record of deaths.

His record begins with the year 1739, and shows an average of nineteen deaths per year for the first eight years, from 1739 to 1747, inclusive, and sixteen and five-eighths deaths per year, from 1748 to 1755, inclusive, and an average of twelve deaths per year for the next eight years, from 1756 to 1763, inclusive, and an average of eight and four-tenths for the next ten years, from 1764 to 1773, and an average of twelve and seven-tenths for the next ten years, from 1774 to 1783.

The greatest mortality, as appears from this record, was twenty-seven deaths in 1741; twenty-two in 1744; twenty-seven in 1747; forty in 1750; forty-seven in 1756; and forty-one in 1778.

The total number of graves dug by him in this yard during these fifty-eight years, from 1739 to 1797 is 706. There were probably more interments made during this time, as many years had but few graves dug by him, to wit: in 1796 only one; three in each of the years 1767, 1772, 1780, and 1791; four in 1783; five in 1768; six in 1785, 1763, 1779, 1792. The total number of grave-stones, counting each monumental slab, on stone or brick foundation, as one stone, is now (1882), 531, and from an examination and inquiry made some thirty odd years ago, when graves could better be seen and counted, it was estimated that there had been at least 1500; and probably from that to 2000 interments in this yard.

There was early a disposition to increase the number of burial-places in the town of Bridgewater. The population being scattered over some twenty-eight or thirty square miles of territory, and funerals being burdensome before hearses were used, they began, in different parts of the town, to establish burying-places, and to bury the dead in the following order;

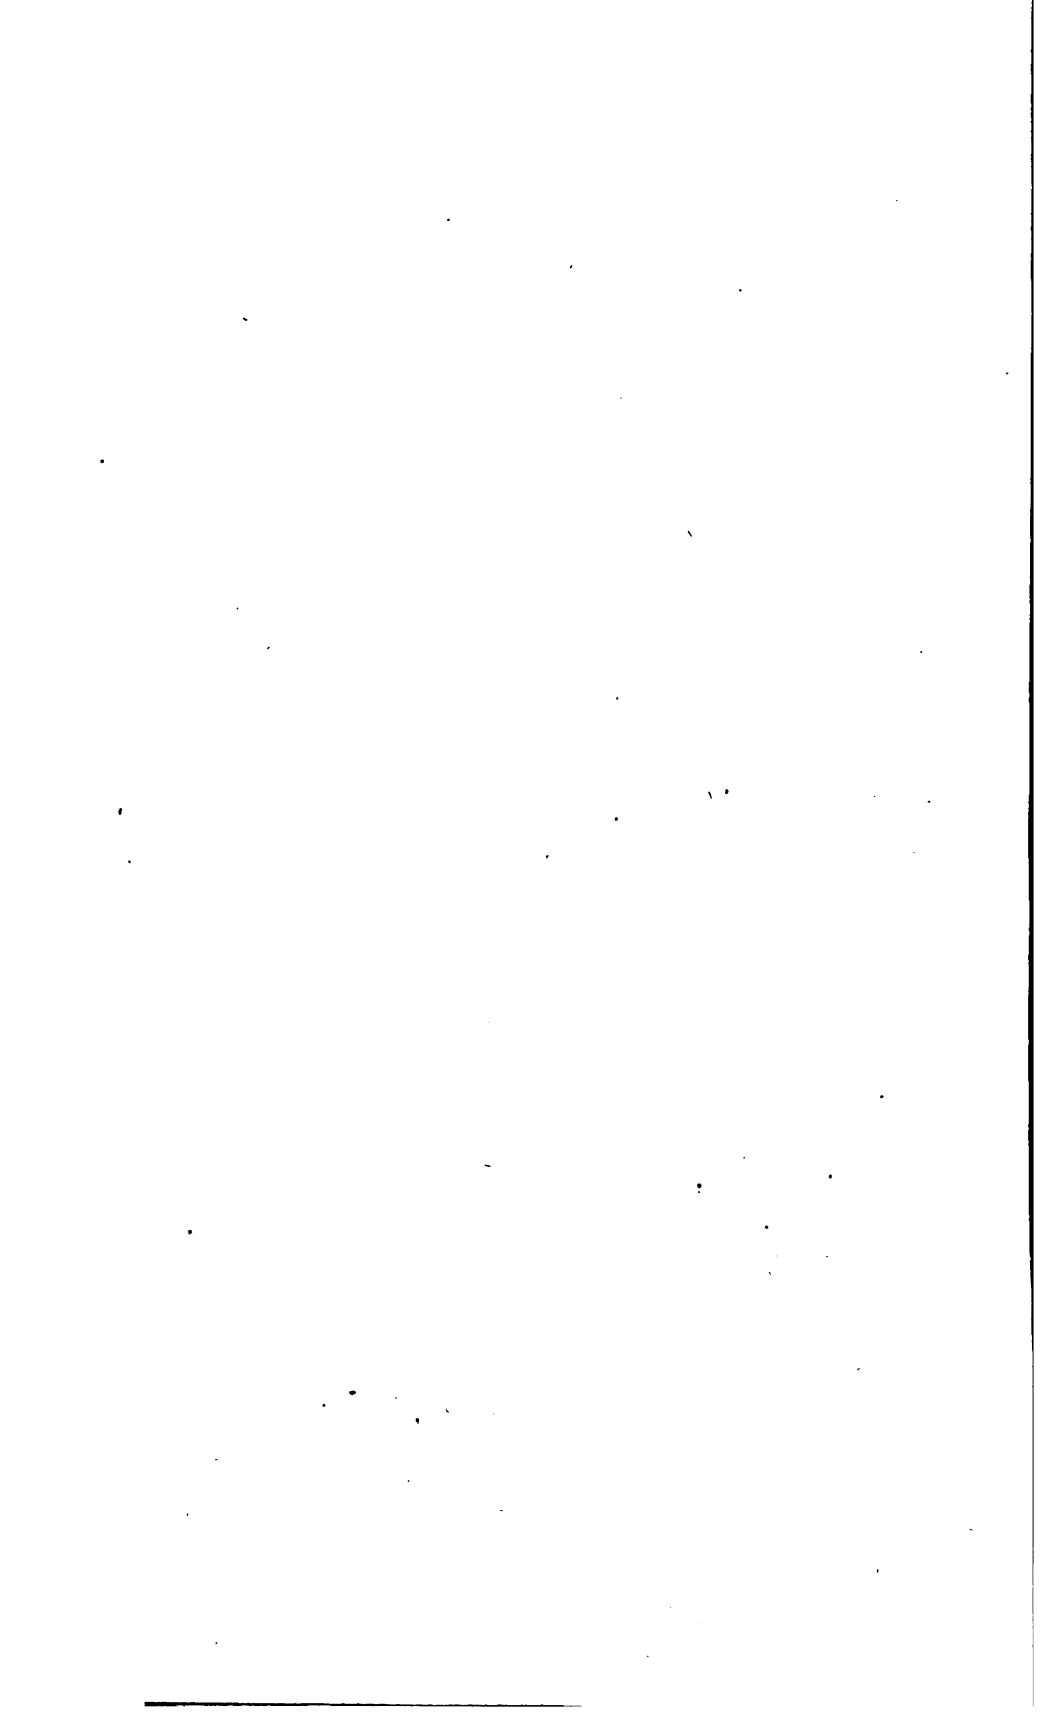

1. The Old grave-yard, near Unitarian church, 1716;
2. Vernon Street grave-yard, at Cross street, 1751;
3. Scotland grave-yard, near meeting-house, 1753;

4.	South Street grave-yard, near Zephaniah Keith,	1756 ;
5.	Trinity Church grave-yard, first used for burial,	1763 ;
6.	Japan grave-yard, near Jennings' brook,	1766 ;
7.	Small-pox grave-yard, at Rufus Woods,	1778 ;
8.	Great Woods grave-yard, near Solomon Alden,	1793 ;
9.	Harlow grave-yard, near Childs' Bridge.	1803 ;
10.	Pratt Town grave-yard,	1828 ;
11.	Conant Town grave-yard,	1829 ;
12.	Benson Town grave-yard,	1839 ;
13.	Bridgewater Cemetery,	1842 ;
14.	State Workhouse grave-yard,	1853 ;
15.	Catholic Cemetery, at church,	1854 ;
16.	“ “ on Centre street,	1867 .

So that, with a population of less than 4000, exclusive of state paupers and convicts, we have fifteen grave-yards ; in fourteen of which places interments are made every year, or nearly so. We have copied the inscriptions or epitaphs of the first eight of the above fifteen grave-yards, which were commenced before 1800, including stones and monuments erected before or since in each yard, down to the present time.

We have, for convenience and easy finding localities, divided the Old grave-yard, near the Unitarian church, a plan of which is hereto annexed, into four sections, called Section A, or southwest section ; Section B, or northwest section ; Section C, or northeast section ; and Section D, or southeast section ; by drawing a heavy black line each way through the centre, or near the centre of the ground, where stands a large Norway fir, to an elm tree, outside of the yard, on the south side, and to elm trees on the inside of the yard on the north and east side of the yard, and we have numbered each grave-stone and monument in each section, as follows : we begin to number the grave-stones and monuments in this yard with No. 1, 2, 3, etc., in the southwest corner of Section A, and go to No. 103 in the southeast corner of Section A. We then begin with No. 104, in the southwest corner of Section B, and go to No. 297, in the northeast corner of Section B. We then begin with No. 298, in the southwest corner of Section C, and go to No. 439, in the southeast corner of Section C. We then begin with 440, in the southwest corner of Section D, and go to No. 531, in the southeast corner of Section D.

The corners of this ground upon the plan are rounded off, but the distance or length of each side is computed from one intersection of two side lines to another intersection of two side lines. All graves head west and foot east, and all stones face west ; and a few stones have two or more names or inscriptions thereon. The top of the plan is east.

OLD GRAVE-YARD, BRIDGEWATER.

1. Beneath are deposited the remains of the Rev<sup>d</sup> Hezekiah Hooper, Jun., late pastor of the Church of Christ, in Boylston, who departed this life December 2<sup>d</sup>, 1795, in the 25th year of his age, and 2<sup>d</sup> of his ministry. Sober and exemplary, his mind enriched by a liberal education, he was prepared both to profit and please his fellowmen. Happy in the unanimity and cordial friendship of a kind, liberal and grateful people, he had the pleasing prospect of enjoying many days of peace and prosperity. But ah! how uncertain are the most flattering hopes; cut down in the morning of life, he has left his parents to mourn the loss of a beloved son; his people a useful, affectionate and faithful pastor; and his country a true friend and valuable citizen. His parents, to preserve his memory, and to express their affection, have erected this monument. (This monument is a slate slab, two and one-half feet by six—one and one-half inches thick, resting on a brick foundation, two feet above ground).

2. Here lies Mrs. Elizabeth, wife of Lieut. Hezekiah Hooper, who died Nov. 4th, 1799, in her 63<sup>d</sup> year.

Wisdom and virtue rest in sleep,
Whilst her extensive friends do weep;
She bid the world final adieu
Till she shall rise both bright and new.

Let angels guard this lovely clay,
Until the great decisive day,
When she shall rise for to put on
The robe which Christ prepared so long.

3. In memory of Lieut. Hezekiah Hooper; he died Feb. 22, 1813, in his 81 year.

Great God, I own thy sentence just,
And nature must decay,
I yield my body to the dust,
To dwell with fellow clay.

4. In memory of Lucia, wife of Capt. Joseph Hooper, died Feb. 27, 1824, æt. 54.

5. In memory of Capt. Joseph Hooper, who died Oct. 1, 1838, æt. 72.

6. Here lies buried Mrs. Sarah Shaw, consort of the Rev<sup>d</sup> Mr. John Shaw, who died April 4, 1768, in y<sup>e</sup> 63<sup>d</sup> year of her age.

While yet in life her heart and mind
Was to the will of God resigned;
His glory still within her eye;
Her children near her heart did lie;
Till heaven called and she must die.

7. Sacred to the memory of John Shaw, almost 60 years a faithful pastor of the Second Church of Christ, in this town, who departed this life on the 29th of April, MDCCXCI, aged 83 years.

O man great and beloved, thou shalt rest and stand in thy lot at the end of days.

8. Judith, y<sup>e</sup> daugh<sup>r</sup> of y<sup>e</sup> Rev<sup>d</sup> Mr. John Shaw and Mrs. Sarah, his wife, born Decemb<sup>r</sup>. y<sup>e</sup> 1, 1740, died Aug<sup>t</sup> y<sup>e</sup> 7th, 1747.

Upon the stage I just appeared,
My tender voice a while was heard;
The buddings of my early days
My parents expectations raised;
While they with pleasure on me smiled,
I fell asleep and died a child.

9. John, y<sup>e</sup> son of y<sup>e</sup> Rev. Mr. John Shaw and Sarah, his wife, born Oct<sup>r</sup> y<sup>e</sup> 12th, 1737, died Aug. y<sup>e</sup> 5th, 1747.

My days are past, my years are fled,
I silent lie among the dead;
In blooming age the fatal dart,
Shot from the quiver pierced my heart;
Let children then to Jesus fly,
For they in early years may die.

10. Erected in memory of Ezra Shaw, son of Rev. Mr. John Shaw, and Sarah, his wife, who was born February 29, 1746, died Aug. 20, 1764.

The breathless corpse where'er it lies
From human eye concealed;
The pardoned soul is still at rest,
Till Christ shall be revealed.

12. Here lies Miss Eunice Shaw, in expectation of the last day. What person she was, that day will discover. She was the daughter of the Rev. John Shaw, died Aug. 10th, 1791.

13. Beneath are deposited the remains of Lieu<sup>t</sup> Joshua Alden, who died Mar. 21, 1809, in the 80th year of his age. He lead a sober and regular life, was a friend of peace and good order, a steady attendant on public worship, and a valuable member of society. In his last will and testament, after some deductions, he bequeathed a tenth part of his property to the South Congregational Society in Bridgewater, of which one hundred dollars were for the use of the church of which he was a member; two hundred dollars for the encouragement of church psalmody, and the remainder for the fund of the Society. To perpetuate his memroy, and to aixpress the gratitude due to an example so worthy of imitation, it has been thought fit to erect this monument. (A slate slab, six by three feet—two inches thick, broken and mended, hammered granite blocks for foundation two and one-half feet above ground.

14. Here lies buried Mrs. Martha Alden, the wife of Mr. Eleazer Alden, who died January y<sup>e</sup> 6th, 1760, aged 69 years.

The resurrection day will come,
And Christ's strong voice will burst the tomb;
The sleeping dead we trust will rise,
With joy and pleasure in her eyes,
And ever shine among the wise.

15. Here lies buried Mr. Eleazer Alden, who died January 29, 1773, in y<sup>e</sup> 70th year of his age.

Lord, in the dust he must abide,
There sieeping by his consort's side;
Ye children living come and see
Where both your once loved parents be;
Then follow in the paths they trod,
Till you shall rest with Christ in God.

16. Here lies buried, Mrs. Mehetibell Alden, the wife of Capt. Seth Alden, who died Oct. 14, 1757, in y<sup>e</sup> 52<sup>d</sup> year of her age.

17. Memento mori. In memory of Capt. Seth Alden, who departed this life Sept. y<sup>e</sup> 6th, 1784, in the 75th year of his age.

The corps in silent darkness lies,
Our friend is dead, the Captain dies;
In peace he lived, in peace he died,
Sleeps sweetly by his consort's side;
In this dark cell they both must lie,
Till the archangel rends the sky,
And Saints ascend to Christ on high.

18. In memory of Mrs. Mary, y<sup>e</sup> wife of Mr. Thomas Perkins, who died April 23<sup>d</sup>, 1750, in y<sup>e</sup> 61st year of her age.

19. Here lies buried Mr. Thomas Perkins, who died June 5, 1761, in y<sup>e</sup> 74th year of his age.

22. Here, y<sup>e</sup> memory of Deac<sup>n</sup> Joseph Alden, who deceased Dec. y<sup>e</sup> 22<sup>d</sup>, 1747, in y<sup>e</sup> 80th year of his age.

23. Calvin Edson, son of Mr. Josiah Edson, who decea<sup>d</sup> March y<sup>e</sup> 3<sup>d</sup>, 1743, aged eleven months and one day.

24. Memento mori. Daniel Edson, son of Josiah Edson, Esq., and Mary his wife, born July 27, 1747, died Mar. 3<sup>d</sup>, 1747.

Under this little hillock lies
My body of the smaller size;
I lived, I died within a year,
With grief my parents left me here;
From them one smiling look I got,
They looked again, but I was not.

25. Mrs. Experience, widow of Capt. Jonathan Cary, who died Mar. y<sup>e</sup> 25th, 1782, in y<sup>e</sup> 82<sup>d</sup> year of her age.

N. B. The above mentioned Capt. Jonathan Cary, died at Boston, Oct. y<sup>e</sup> 8, 1745, in the 51st year of his age.

26. In memory of Maj. Eliphalet Cary, who died Mar. 1, 1820, æ 87.

Why do we mourn departing friends,
Or shake at death's alarm;
'Tis but the voice that Jesus sends,
To call us to his arms.

27. In memory of Mrs. Hannah, wife of Maj. Eliphalet Cary, who died Jan. 24, 1819, æ 79.

Peace to thy gentle shade,
Thy soul is free;
Death's but the gate
To immortality.

28. In memory of Miss Experience Cary, who died Aug. 10, 1828, æ 93.

29. Zedekiah S. Ames, died 20 Nov, 1806, aged 11 months. Son of Mr. John Ames.

30. Irany, daught. of Rev. Zedekiah Sanger and Irany his wife, born Oct. 19, 1789, died Oct. 26, 1789.

31. John and Martin, sons of Rev. Zedekiah Sanger and Irany his wife, born Nov. 22, 1798, died April 25, 1799.

32. George P., son of Rev. Zedekiah and Irany Sanger, died Aug. 24, 1818, æt 25.

33. Here lies interred the Rev. Zedekiah Sanger, thirty-two years minister in Bridgewater, who died Nov. 17, 1820, aged 72 years.

Also, Irene, wife of the Rev. Zedekiah Sanger, who died July 29, 1833, aged 77 years. (Marble slab, five feet nine inches by three feet; on a framed marble foundation.

34. Eliza Sanger, died Jan. 29, 1847, aged 50 years.

35. In memory of Mrs. Rachel B. Snelling, who died September 3, 1866, aged 76 years.

36. In memory of Mrs. Jane Lazell, who died Mar. 14, 1846, aged 85.

39. Beneath are deposited the remains of Dea. Isaac Lazell, who departed this life June the 20th, 1810, in the fifty-fourth year of his age, with a comfortable hope of future happiness, having a firm belief of the truth of the Gospel; and during the days of his health he was anxious to promote the improvement, interest and happiness of society. To commemorate his virtues and express the gratitude of his relations, they have erected this monument. (Slate slab, three feet by six feet, on hammered granite blocks.

40. Beneath are deposited the remains of Martin Lazell, who departed this life Aug. 3, 1799, aged 15 years, 2 months and one day.

Attend ye young and from my fate, learn your own. Lately like you, active and lively I trod the gay path of life, and health and vigor enlivened my frame. But Ah! how soon did the pleasing scene change; amidst the most flattering prospects, pale disease enfeebled all my powers, nature sunk, and the tomb is now my home. Dear friends, forget not that you, also, must die. The king of terrors pursues your steps and neither beauty, health, nor strength, can ward off the sure and fatal blow. Let my death be your warning and prepare to meet your God. (Slate slab, two feet four inches by five feet, on brick foundation).

41. In memory of Isaac, son of Maj. Isaac Lazell and Mrs. Jane, his wife, born on ye 2<sup>d</sup>, died on ye 4th of May, A. D. 1795.

42. In memory of the infant son of Major Isaac and Mrs. Jane Lazell, who died in the hour of his birth, the 21st June, 1796. (Broken and prostrate.)

43. In memory of Mrs. Martha, wife of Dea<sup>n</sup> Jacob Hayward, who died April ye 27, 1780, in the 67th year of her age.

My time is spent, my days are past;
Eternity must count the rest;
My glass is out, my race is run;
The holy work of God is done.

44. In memory of Deacon Jacob Hayward, who died Mar. ye 27, 1778, in the 67th year of his age.

A husband kind and good, a parent dear,
To all obliging and to all sincere,
True to his God, the orphan's friend and guide,
He lived beloved, and lamented died.

45. Lieut. Benjamin Hayward, died 16 Oct., 1807, in his 64 year.

46. In memory of Mrs. Mary, widow of Lieut. Benj. Hayward, died Dec. 4, 1819, aged 75 years.

56. In memory of Capt. Nathaniel Woodward, who died Jan<sup>y</sup> 28, 1748-9, in y<sup>e</sup> 71st year of his age.

Under these cloeds my body lies,
In silent dust with closed eyes.
Not honor, wealth, nor grace can save
A dying mortal from the grave;
All that this read, both low and high,
Remember you are born to die.

57. Chilton Latham, 1811.

85. Sacred to the memory of Mrs. Rhobe Snell, daughter of Mr.

William Snell and Eunice his wife; she died Dec. 14th, 1807, in the 24th year of her age.

Approach this spot, ye gay; ye thoughtless train,
Say what is life? a vapor's transient breath;
The good, the fair, the virtuous and the vain,
Fall undistinguished by the hand of death.
As falls the rose beneath the chilling blast,
So Rhobe fell in life's most flattering bloom;
Her cloudless morn of life was soon o'ercast,
And all her virtues shrouded in the tomb.

This monument was erected by Soranus Shaw, as a feeble testimony of his affection.

86. Mr. John Conant, died Feb. 19, 1816, æt 90.

93. Joseph Washburn, son of Mr. John and Mrs. Huldah Soule, died Dec. 16, 1826, aged 2 years, 2 mos and 18 days.

'Tis fruitless now for me to mourn,
He can't come back I see;
I shortly must return to him,
He can't return to me.

94. In memory of Mrs. Huldah, wife of Mr. John Soule; she died Oct. 29th, 1833, in her 46th year.

My years are past, my days are fled,
I silent lie among the dead;
Not honor, wealth, nor grace can save
A dying mortal from the grave.

95. Susanna, wife of John Mitchell, died Sep. 19, 1830, æt. 75.

Hush all our sorrows, all our tears be dry,
'Tis Christ that calls submission, we obey;
She's gone to blessed mansions in the skies,
To sing her Saviour's praise in endless days.

96. In memory of Jane Mitchell, daughter of John and Anna Mitchell, who died Aug. 15, 1828, in the 41 year of her age.

Friends draw near and drop a tear,
In this cold grave I lie;
When this you see, remember me,
And be prepared to die.

109. Hasadiah, wife of Hezekiah Hayward, died Feb. 4, 1829, æt. 75.

Here slumbers one who various sorrows bore,
Clouds spread and storms howled o'er the path she trod;
But pain and grief we trust she feels no more,
By sanctifying grace led home to God,
Where beams a cloudless sky where sorrows cease,
And all is sweet security and peace.

110. Mr. Hezekiah Hayward, died Aug. 16 1811, in his 66 year.

May angels guard this lovely clay,
Till comes the great decisive day;
When in her Savior's image drest,
She wakes to be completely blest.

112. Erected to the memory of Mr. Edward Hayward, who died Sept. 25, 1818, in the 66th year of his age.

Friend nor physician could not save
This mortal body from the grave;
Nor can the grave confine it here
When Christ shall call it to appear.

113. Jenny, wife of Edward Hayward, died May 21, 1848, in her 85 year.

She lived beloved
And died lamented.

114. Ann, daught. of Col. Abram and Pamela Washburn, died June 26, 1828, æt. 15 mos.

Closed is the eye of joyful mirth;
A parent's fondest hopes are fled;
Scarce done rejoicing at her birth,
Ere we must place her with the dead.

115. In memory of Pamela, wife of Col. Abram Washburn, 2<sup>d</sup>, who died Mar. 25, 1831, æt. 33.

161. Maria Snell, daught. of Nathaniel and Joanna H. Washburn, died June 11, 1825 æt. 1 year.

Cease, cease fond parents, cease your tears,
Allay your griefs and anxious fears;
That infant wrested from your arms,
Shall never lose its former charms.

162. In memory of Nathaniel Washburn, died Nov. 18, 1829, æt. 32.

163. In memory of widow Experience Washburn, who died May 27, 1816, æt. 83.

164. In memory of Mr. Daniel Washburn, who died Feb. 14, 1801, in his 71st year.

Life is the time to serve the Lord,
The time t'insure the great reward;
And while the lamp holds out to burn,
The vilest sinner may return.

165. Here lies Mr. Cornelius Washburn; he died Feb. 17th, 1779, in his 77th year.

Great God, is this our certain doom,
And are we still secure;
Still walking downwards to our tomb,
And yet prepare no more.

166. Here lies Mrs. Experience, wife of Mr. Cornelius Washburn; she died April 1, 1786, in her 80th year.

Grant us the power of quickening grace,
To fit our souls to fly;
Then, when we drop this dying flesh,
We'll rise above the sky.

167. Here lies Ebenezer, son of Mr. Cornelius and Mrs. Experience Washburn; he died Oct<sup>r</sup> 14, 1747, in his 15th year.

183. Abiezer Carver, son of Mr. Joseph Carver, died August 31st, 1755, in y<sup>e</sup> 21st year of his age.

Here my cold corps are now reposed,
 In darkness fast mine eyes are closed;
 In youth I did resign my breath,
 And walked the gloomy shades of death;
 May every youth with serious eye,
 Come view the place where you must lie.

190. Erected in memory of Mr. Caleb Cary, who died March 22, 1816, æt. 33. Sober, exemplary, friendly and benevolent, he was prepared, both to profit and to please his fellowmen, and had the pleasing prospect of enjoying many days of peace and prosperity. But ah! how uncertain are the most flattering hopes. Cut down in the morning of life, he has left a parent to mourn the loss of a beloved son, and his country a true friend and valuable citizen.

191. Erected to the memory of Miss Sally Cary, who died October 29, 1838, aged 9 yrs.

192. Charles Gilbert, son of Mr. Nathaniel and Mrs. Betsey Gilbert, died Nov. 2, 1816, æt. 9.

Here lies the fairest bud of hope
That e're to fondest hope was given;
If thou would know its proper state,
Repent, and seek the flower in heaven.

193. Erected to the memory of Marshal B., son of Nathaniel and Betsey Gilbert, who died June 14, 1834, in the 19 year of his age.

194. In memory of Freelope, daughter of Mr. Samuel Whitman and Mrs. Susanna, his wife, who died May 27th, 1787, in y<sup>e</sup> 15th year of her age. (Drowned in Town river).

Beneath is laid a blooming maid,
Who ended life's sad day;
Drowned in streams that quench life's flame,
And draw'd her breath away.

195. Memento Mori. In memory of Mrs. Susanna, wife of Mr. Samuel Whitman, who died Augst y<sup>e</sup> 26th, 1778, in the 36th year of her age. (Her husband lost at sea).

196. Memento Mori. In memory of Mrs. Ellanor, widow of M<sup>r</sup>. Zechariah Whitman, who died Nov. y<sup>e</sup> 10th, 1777, in the 66th year of her age.

197. Memento Mori. In memory of Mr. Zechariah Whitman, who died Nov. y<sup>e</sup> 13th, 1773, in the 69th year of his age.

Great God I own thy sentence just,
And yield my body to the dust.

198. In memory of Mrs. Abigail Whitman, wife of Mr. Zechariah Whitman, departed this life Nov. 16, 1826, in the 82 year of her age.

Her price was above rubies.

199. In memory of Mr. Zechariah Whitman, departed this life April 18, 1819, in the 82 year of his age.

An honest man's the noblest work of God.

200. Memento Mori. In memory of Cyrus, son of Mr. Zechariah Whitman and Mrs Abigail, his wife who died April the 5, 1776, in the 3<sup>d</sup> year of his age.

What shall we say when death is sent?
God takes away but what he lent.
Cyrus must die; God gives the call;

In early life by death must fall
The blooming rose which bid so fair,
From parents gone, and is no more.

201. In memory of Edmund Hobart, who decess<sup>d</sup> Jan<sup>y</sup> y<sup>e</sup> 11th, 1744. in y<sup>e</sup> 31st year of his age.

203. In memory of Miss Bethia Hayward, died May 19th, 1827, in her 70th year. (Dau. of Seth Hayward).

My time is spent, my days are past,
Eternity must count the rest;
My glass is out, my race is run,
The holy will of God is done.

204. In memory of Mr. Azariah Hayward; he died Jan 30th, 1802, in his 53<sup>d</sup> year.

How strange my God who reigns on high,
That I should come so far to die;
And leave my friends where I was bread,
To lay my bones with strangers' dead.
But hark!
Methinks I hear a voice to say,
Make haste, my son, and come away;
Don't hysitate upon God's decree,
To us unknown which was to be.

Sad sickness, undermining slow,
And death, hard unrelenting foe!
From our fond hopes did cruel rend
The tenderest mother and the sweetest friend.

Ah! fled forever from my view;
Thou mother of my soul, adieu;
Our hope is now to meet above,
Where pain shall cease and all is love.

Stop, mortals, read now if you please,
See the effect of this disease;
'Twas Adam gave the wound at first,
So all his sons are doomed to dust;
But life's restored by God alone,
Flowing through the merits of his son.

478. In memory of Mr. Thomas Perkins, who died Sept. 29th, 1773, in the 52<sup>d</sup> year of his age.

THE
GRAVE-YARD,
— IN —
TITICUT.

This yard is the oldest in Bridgewater outside of the old graveyard near the Unitarian church. It is in the north corner of Cross and Vernon streets, contains one-half acre, all enclosed with a common balance wall, having an entrance for carriages on Vernon street, and another on Cross street, with a drive-way from one to the other, as seen on the plan, which encloses the old part of this burying-ground, which was first buried upon, and now has many unmarked graves, and is much grown over to low bushes and wild grass, and needs the hand of improvement. The oldest grave-stone in this yard is that of Ezekiel, son of Jesse Leach (No. 38), died May 6, 1751, aged 7. The next oldest are Zebedee Leach, 1754, aged 5; William Hooper, 1755, aged 53; and Lois Hooper, 1756, aged 49. Only eight grave-stones in the whole yard previous to 1800. In 1850, 155 graves could be distinctly seen and counted.

This ground being part of the old Samuel Alden farm, late Zephaniah Fobes, farm, was probably given by said Samuel Alden, who was a son of Dea. Joseph Alden, and lived north of Cross street, and east of this yard, and died 1785, aged 80. It was formerly called the Alden grave-yard, in Titicut.

It is also claimed to have been given by Joshua Fobes, a son of Dea. Edward Fobes, said Joshua being the first white man settler in Titicut, and lived where the late Robert and Bela Fobes lived, and died 1767, aged 78. He dug his well with a wooden shovel in one day. At this time there was no house south of him, and only one house between his house and West Bridgewater, where his father lived. His daughter, Bethia, born 1712, was the first white child born in Titi-cut. This house between his and West Bridgewater was that of Samuel Keith, son of Rev. James Keith, and stood where the late Nathan Bassett lived, and on the old Taunton road, as laid out 1668, which came from Mile Brook bridge, in line of North street, to Four Mile brook, sometimes called Tweed brook, crossing the road between the house of Florentius Wilbur and the Ebenezer Gay house, and thence over the high land at Elijah Alden's to Cromwell C. Wilbur's house ; thence up the hill, by Barak Wilbur, to Taunton, through the Gushee neighborhood. Said well and house of Joshua Fobes stood on the east side of the road to Titicut, after leaving the Taunton road at Cromwell C. Wilbur's house.

These persons, Alden and Fobes, were probably both buried in this yard, but their graves are unknown.

There is no deed or paper writing known to exist relating to the origin or title of this burial-ground.

ALDEN, OR VERNON, STREET GRAVE-YARD, TITICUT.

1. Father. Elijah Alden, born Jan. 17, 1800, died Oct. 8, 1879.

In my father's house are many mansions.
Husband and father thou hast gone to thy rest;
We moan thy departure;
But the Lord knoweth best.
A short illness was hoped for;
God granted thy request, and called thee home to the land of the blessed.

2. Mother. Hannah B., wife of Elijah Alden, born Apr. 10, 1809, died June 15, 1880.

Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord.
Dear the mother we hoped might be more,
But too strong the attachment for thy mother,
Who had just gone before.
God bless thee with children who remain here to weep,
Yet they know their work is ended,
And in Jesus fallen asleep.

3. Harriet Bassett, daughter of Elijah and Hannah Alden, born
April 14, 1845, died Dec 1, 1857.

She has gone to heaven before us.

In deeds, not words; in thoughts, not breaths.

Daniel L. Hayward, born Dec. 5, 1804, died May 12, 1871.

The righteous shall shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their father.

5. Hannah Mariah, daughter of Daniel and Hannah Hayward, born Dec. 9, 1837, died Dec. 9, 1873.

Gone home, gone home, her earnest, active spirit,
Her very playfulness, her heart of love,
The heavenly mansion now she doth inherit,
Which Christ made ready ere she went above.

6. Edwin Hayward, member of Co. I, 38 Regt., M. V., born Jan.
17, 1844, died at Batorouge, La., Aug. 21, 1863.

Asleep in Jesus, ay, though he sleep with strangers,
In the redeemer's eyes his dust is just as sacred,
And He will bid it rise.

7. Bertie.

Happy, happy, suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not.

8. Celia L., wife of Wales Hayward, born Dec. 16, 1840, died
March 16, 1879.

Faithful and true,
She hath received her reward,
And forever the joy of her Lord.

I know that my redeemer liveth,
Hence forth there is laid up for me
A crown of righteousness.

Olivia Hayward, wife of Geo. M. Wilbur, died Sept. 30, 1874, aged 26 year and 11 days.

Joyous, helpful, confiding,
She always made home happy.

SCOTLAND GRAVE-YARD.

Scotland grave-yard is the third grave-yard established in Bridgewater, and is on the north side of Pleasant street, in that part of Bridgewater called Scotland. The first ground used for burial was given by Benjamin Keith and Josiah Fobes, 1753, about one-quarter of an acre, in equal moieties; but no deed thereof is known to exist.

In 1832, December 7, Benjamin Keith gave deed to Daniel Dyer, conveying to him five square rods. In 1851, June 7, Benjamin S. Kingman and wife conveyed to Isaac Fobes and others six square rods; and in 1872, October 1, Benjamin Keith conveyed to Royal Keith and others twenty-five rods of land on the back side of the old lot, called the new part, being a strip of land, sixty-four feet wide as it joins the old part on the northeasterly side, running back about 122 feet, and being forty-four feet wide on the back side. All these conveyances are in trust for the benefit of the burying-place. This new part has a few graves, but no plan or account is taken thereof.

There was a record of all burials in this yard from 1753 to 1851, kept by the Dea. Ezra Fobes family, which is now in my possession. From this record it appears that the number of interments in this yard from 1753 to 1799, inclusive, a period of forty-seven years, was ninety-one, and that twenty-eight of these ninety-one graves have lettered head-stones; that the number of interments from 1800 to 1851, inclusive, a period of fifty-two years, was 116; and that about eighty of these 116 graves have lettered head-stones. The number of interments since 1851, in the old yard, is about sixty, of which about fifty of the graves have lettered head-stones, making 207 graves before 1851, and about sixty graves since. We number only 239 epitaphs. Many graves are now lost, or have no head-stones. About seventy of the 239 graves have no lettered head-stones; and twenty-five of these seventy graves are known, and the names are in the index, except the colored people.

Samuel Hayward was the first person buried in this yard, 1753. This Samuel married Hannah Hill, 1732; was a son of Samuel, who lived awhile at Cleft-Rock, in Joppa, East Bridgewater. This Samuel lived on Elm street in 1749; was a constable, 1735; and lived on Sugar Hill about the time of his death, 1753.

This Sugar Hill, where Theodore C. Wilbur now lives, so called, as some have supposed, from the sugar-loaf form of the hill at this house, before highway improvements changed its appearance, and as others have supposed, from the peculiar, white, fine, clean sand composing this hill, and resembling white sugar, is probably a corruption of the first name of this hill, which was 'Shugar's Hill, after the name of a man who is supposed to have lived at this place.

Scotland is the local name of the southwest part of Bridgewater. It was early settled. Samuel Keith, son of Rev. James Keith, with a family of nine children, and his son, Ebenezer, with a family of twelve children, lived to a good old age where the late Nathan Bassett and the late Dea. Ezra Fobes lived, and are, with their numerous descendants, mostly buried in this yard. The Keith blood, no doubt, gave this name to this territory, as it also gave the name of Tweed to the brook, early called Four Mile brook, running through this Keith farm, and crossing Pleasant street about thirty rods east of this house, on which brook, called Tweed brook, near said street, in 1806, was built, by Dea. Ezra Fobes and Dea. James Alger, a dam, building, water-wheel, and two nail machines, to cut nails, before the invention of cutting and heading by one operation, and many persons, male and female, were employed, with heading machines operated by the foot, to head the nails singly.

Susanna, daughter of Josiah Fobes, was the second person buried in this yard; she died December 3, 1753; and the oldest person buried in this yard was Sarah Bassett, widow of Joseph Bassett, and daughter of Joseph Prior; baptized in East Bridgewater, January 21, 1738-9, by Rev. John Angier, and died September 29, 1839. Only one other person has ever died in this town over 100 years of age, and that was Abigail Alden, who died February 22, 1882, aged 101 years, 10 months and 10 days.

The graves in this yard head south and foot north; and the grave-stones face the street, running nearly east and west. Many foot-stones have been removed, and placed at the head of graves without monuments.

This yard has a good face wall in front, next to Pleasant street, and a good balance wall upon all other sides; and has an iron gate entrance from the street, near the middle of the yard, but no gates or entrance at the east or west end, on the street, as indicated on the plan. The record of colored persons is at the end of the epitaphs.

Phebe, his wife, died Oct. 30, 1838, æ 79 years.

87. Capt. Barney Leonard, died April 6, 1847, aged 56 years.

Organic forms with many changes strive,
Live but to die, and die but to revive:
Immortal matter leaves the transient storm,
Mounts from the wreck unchanging but in form.

88. Our mother. Lydia Sprague, widow of Capt. Barney Leonard, died Feb. 20, 1868, aged 69 years and 6 mos.

Oh, ever honored, ever dear, adieu,
How many tender ties are lost in you;
Keep, holy earth, thy precious, sacred trust,
Till life divine awake this sleeping dust.

Prepare to meet thy God.

100. In memory of Widow Sarah Ellis, who died May 11, 1816, æt. 63.

Could grateful love recall the fleeting breath,
Or fond affection sooth relentless death;
Then had this stone ne'er claimed a social tear,
Nor read to thoughtless man a lesson here.

101. In memory of Mr. Josiah Hill, who died Aug. 31, 1805, æt. 85.

Stop, passenger, 'tis worth your pains to stay;
And take a dead man's lesson by the way;
I was what now thou art, but soon you'll be
What I am now; O! think of death and me.
Death is the door: the door to heaven and hell;
Be warned, be armed, believe, repent, farewell.

102. Mary, wife of Josiah Hill, died June 5, 1819, æt. 94.

Peace to thy gentle shade, thy soul is free;
Death's but the gate to immortality.

THE
KEITH, OR SOUTH STREET,
GRAVE-YARD.

The South street grave-yard, formerly called the Keith grave-yard, in Titicut, originally one acre, on the west side of South street, near the house of the late Zephaniah Keith, being sixteen rods long on said street, north and south, and ten rods wide, running back westerly, was given by Lt. Amos Keith, by deed dated Jan. 1, 1771; recorded April 14, 1772, in Plymouth Registry book 56, page 186. This deed runs "to the north part of Titicut Precinct, in the south part of Bridgewater," being all the territory between the Four Mile line and Taunton river, "and to Thomas Haward (should be Hayward) and his family," for "the interment of people in that part of the parish and Mr. Haward's family." This Thomas Hayward, an ensign—written wrongfully Haward in the deed—lived front of the house of Horace and Virgil Ames, on the opposite side of the road, and north of the Four Mile line, outside of Titicut Precinct. He married Constant, a daughter of Samuel Keith, and grand-daughter of Rev. James Keith, about 1729; had six sons and one daughter; and died 1789, aged 87. They both were buried in this yard.

This ground was first used for a burying-place by the interment of Joseph Harvey, 2d, who died February 21, 1756, aged 35, and is No. 125 in the epitaphs. It is stated on the stone that he was the first person buried there. There is no allusion in the deed to its having been given or used for burial before this time; but there is no doubt of its having been given and used before the date of the deed.

Lt. Amos Keith, the donor, was a son of Samuel, and grandson of the Rev. James Keith; died 1782; and lived where the late Seth Wilbur lived.

There are but seven grave-stones of persons dying between the first burial, 1756, and the date of this deed, 1771.

In 1850, 188 graves were counted and quite visible, and it was then thought that there might be twenty or thirty graves not counted.

We now find and number 268 graves in the whole, which includes about ninety graves unmarked, having only natural stones, without inscription. With the aid of neighbors, we are able to identify about sixty of these ninety graves, and against such numbers we have written "No ins.," meaning no inscription, and also the name of the person known to be buried in that place; and against these thirty unknown graves, we have written "No ins.," and numbered them and nothing more.

This yard has lately been enlarged by the addition of a strip of land on the back side, five rods wide, east and west; and sixteen rods long, north and south; given by the late Zephaniah Keith, not included in the plan hereto annexed; but forming one burying-place, with a good bank wall on the east side, next to south street, and a good balance wall upon all the other sides.

The ground has been lately much improved with a drive-way, and several good private yards have been made. The graves head west and foot east; but the grave-stones for about two rows next to South street have been turned around, and face east, instead of west, as originally placed.

KEITH, OR SOUTH STREET, GRAVE-YARD, TITICUT.

1. To the memory of Lois, widow of Solomon Keith, who died July 14, 1847, aged 91 years.

2. In memory of Mr. Solomon Keith, who died Nov. 14, 1823, æt. 74.

Why do we mourn departing friends,
Or shake at death's alarms;
'Tis but the voice that Jesus sends,
To call us to his arms.

3. Here sleeps the dust of the once loved, but now much lamented, Ichabod Keith, ob. January 10, 1763, æt. 21.

The power of medicine proved too weak to save
The destined victim from the hungry grave;
Nor could the force of blooming youth prevail,
Nor prayers, nor tears can ought with death avail.
O Death! all eloquent, you only prove,
What dust we doat on when 'tis man we love.

4. In memory of Ephraim Keith, Esq., who died February y<sup>e</sup> 25, 1781, in y<sup>e</sup> 74th year of his age. (Grad. H. U., 1729).

I pass with melancholly fate,
By all the solemn heaps of fate;
And think as soft and sad I read,

5. Here lies Mrs. Sarah, wife of Ephraim Keith, Esq.; she died March 7th, 1796, in the 87th year of her age.

6. In memory of Ens. Thomas Hayward, who died Feb. y<sup>e</sup> 12th, 1789, in the 87th year.

44. This stone is erected in remembrance of Joseph Ames, who died March 7, A. D. 1813, aged 65. He was esteemed by all who knew him, and most by those who knew him best.
In that dread hour with a faint pang,
Tearing the tender fibers of the heart,
His immortal spirit struggled to be free.
Then, even then, his hope forsook him not,
For it existed beyond the narrow verge
Of the cold sepulchre. The petty joys
Of fleeting life, indignantly he spurned,
And rested on the bosom of his God.

80. Here lies Mrs. Deborah Ripley; she died Nov. 29, 1794, in the 61st year of her age.

Just three-score painful years I lived to see;
This was the term by heaven allotted me.
Although my feeble frame was wracked with pain,
Longer I strove to live, but strove in vain.
No prayers, nor tears, nor physician's skill,
Can lengthen life beyond God's will.

81. Sacred to the memory of Walter Hayward, who died Oct. 17, 1835, aged 27 years.

Gone art thou in youthful sweetness,
Time's short changeful voyage is o'er;
Now thy beauty in completeness
Blooms on Heaven's unfading shore.
Not in winter's stormy bluster
Did thou droop in pale decay;
But mid summer's light and lustre
Passed to paradise away.

Hope looks beyond the bands of time,
When what we now deplore
Shall rise in full immortal prime,
And bloom to fade no more.
O death, thou hast broken our circle again;
Thou hast taken the friends that we loved,
And our hearts are o'er-shadowed with sadness and pain,
While from us those friends are removed.
But boast not thy power, thou canst not destroy
Their spirits so pure and so bright,
Now ranging fair regions in transports of joy,
Prepared by the father of lights.

The old Trinity church grave-yard contains forty-four square rods, on the north side of Main street, close to the church, measuring 112 feet in front on said street, and 112 feet on each side, and 105 feet on the back side. It is a part of the fourteen and a half acres given by Samuel Edson, by deed, to said church, dated January 23, 1747, recorded in Plymouth Registry, book 39, page 72, for a "church edifice, bury-place and glebe," including a few rods given by the late John Edson, by deed of November 26, 1826. It has a stone wall in front, on said street, and on the northwest side, and on the southeast side, from the street to the church, and there is no wall or fence on the remaining southeast side, nor on the back side.

The burial-place comes within six feet of the church. The meeting-house lot is next adjoining the burying-ground lot, and is about the same size, and is on the southeast side of it.

It has three marble monuments, enclosed each with an iron fence and stone posts, erected in the year 1850, by John Edson, Increase Robinson, and Jacob Robinson. Samuel Edson, the donor, died 1771, and his wife, Mary, died February 5, 1778, were buried here, both 82 years of age. The oldest grave-stone is that of Martha, a daughter of Francis and Susanna Perkins, who died September 16, 1763, aged 8 months; and she is said to be the first person buried in this yard. The next was a child of Francis Perkins, died 1768, aged 2 years.

This burial-place was not much used for the first twenty or thirty years, and was, in 1873, enlarged by an addition of about one acre and sixty rods on the back side of this burial lot, and back side of said meeting-house lot adjoining, by Mary Edson, widow of said John Edson, deceased ; which new part runs back of these two front lots about 300 feet, and is nearly 200 feet wide, and has been laid out into 161 lots, which she sells to persons as wanted. A few interments have been made in this new part ; but no account thereof has been taken.

Most of the graves in this old part have head-stones and foot-stones, and there are very few graves in this yard without grave-stone and inscription.

All grave-stones front west ; and the three lots enclosed with iron rails and stone posts, being square, also face west. All foot-stones remain in their proper places, and an iron gate with stone posts is in the northwest corner of the yard.

3. Mrs. Philibert Perkins, 2<sup>d</sup> wife of Lieut. Francis Perkins, died Sept. 29, 1814, æt. 77.

Stop, kind reader, drop a tear,
Think of the dust that slumbers here;
And while you read the fate of me,
Think of the glass that runs for thee.

4. In memory of Lieut. Francis Perkins, who died March y<sup>e</sup> 20th, 1783, in y<sup>e</sup> 54th year of his age.

Stop, kind reader, drop a tear,
Think of the dust that slumber here;
And while you read the fate of me,
Think on the glass that run for thee.

5. Erected in memory of Mrs. Susanna Perkins, the wife of Lieut. Francis Perkins, who was born February 6th, 1742, and died July 22<sup>d</sup>, 1771.

6. Here lies buried Martha, daughter of Mr. Francis Perkins and Mrs. Anna, his wife, who was born January 22<sup>d</sup>, 1763, died November 16th, 1763. (Being the first person buried in this yard).

7. Here lies the remains of Francis, son of Mr. Francis Perkins and Susanna, his wife, who was born September 28th, 1766, died January 24th, 1768.

9. Elizabeth, wife of Ornan Perkins, died Mar. 4, 1832, æ 37.

10. Sacred to the memory of Mary Perkins, who died Dec. 12, 1833, in her 81 year. During 30 years of her life was employed as a school teacher.

11. In memory of Mr. Zoroaster H. Edson, who died Feb. 19, 1840, aged 56 years.

Farewell to all, my days are o'er,
With you on earth to meet no more;
Cease to weep or shed a tear,
Surviving wife and children dear.

12. Mary Wales, daughter of Henry and Betsey N. Edson, died Aug. 21, 1828, in her 11 year.

Closed is the eye of youthful mirth,
A parent's fondest hopes are fled;
Scarce done rejoicing at her birth,
Ere we must place her with the dead.

13. In memory of Nathan Edson, died Nov. 25, 1825, æt. 19.

Could grateful love recall the fleeting breath,
Or fond affection sooth relentless death;
Then had this stone ne'er claimed a social tear,
Nor read to thoughtless man a lesson here.

14. In memory of Dea. Noah Edson, who died Feb. 11, 1816, æt. 89.

It is sweet to believe of the absent we love,
If we miss them below, we shall meet them above.

15. In memory of Mrs. Keziah, wife of Dea. Noah Edson, who died Feb. 12, 1840, aged 75 years.

16. In memory of Mrs. Betty, wife of Mr. Noah Edson, who died Feb. y<sup>e</sup> 21st, 1784, in y<sup>e</sup> 24th year of her age.

In all the bloom of life I felt
Death's fatal arrow pierce my heart;
My husband dear and tender babe,
I, with them both, was called to part.

17. Head-stone. No inscription.

18. In memory of Mr. Samuel Edson, who died Feb. 25, 1801, in his 87 year.

31. Erected to the memory of Martha P. Blake, wife of Phineas Blake, who died March 31, 1847, aged 64 years.

Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord,
from henceforth, yea saith the spirit, that they may rest from their labors and their works do follow them.

32. Erected to the memory of Phineas Blake, who died Nov. 5, 1849, aged 76 years.

He was a good man. Acts 11, 24.

33. In memory of Mr. Amos Witherell, died Aug. 8, 1823, æt. 83.

Peace to thy gentle shade, thy soul is free;
Death's but the gate to immortality.

34. Mrs. Ruth, wife of Amos Witherell, died 31 March, 1824, æt. 78.

The sweet remembrance of the just
Shall flourish when they sleep in dust.

35. In memory of Susan Clark, who died Feb. 19, 1841, aged 14 years.

36. Sukey Clark, daughter of Mr. Benjamin Clark, died Sept. 19, 1814, in her 5 year

37. Susanna, wife of Mr. Benjamin Clark, died March 21, 1821, æt. 44.

Adieu, my friends, a long and sad farewell,
A scene more solemn than the passing bell;
I hoped with God in glory I should bloom,
Where sorrow, sickness, death, can never come.
Consoling thought! Dear partner, dry your tears,
Your friend has gone beyond your anxious fears;
Weep not for me, prepare without delay
To meet that debt you all must shortly pay.

38. In memory of Mr. Benjamin Clark, who died July 14, 1831, aged 60 years.

39. Nathaniel P., son of Joshua and Jane Graves, born May 16, 1847, died Aug. 29, 1849.

Death's soul is on that cherubs brow,
And closed that sparkling eye;
That beaming smile, we miss it now—
Why did our darling die?

40. Mary Elliot, wife of Abial Elliot, died Sept. 14, 1836, in the 34th year of her age.

Charlotte Perkins Elliot, daughter of Abial and Mary Eliot, died Sept. 18, 1833, aged 15 months.

41. This stone records the birth and death of Mary, wife of Ebenezer Perkins, born Sept. 15, 1762, died April 25, 1849.

Mother, thine earthly work is done,
Rest from thy labors here
Till Christ, in whom thy life is hid,
In glory shall appear.

42. This stone records the birth and death of Ebenezer Perkins, born Feb. 2, 1752, died Oct. 2, 1823.

Behold the bed of death,
This pale and lovely clay.
Heard ye the sob of parting breath?
Marked ye the eye's last ray?
No! life so sweetly ceased to be—
It lapsed in immortality.

43. In memory of Mr. Ebenezer Perkins, who died May y<sup>e</sup> 31st, 1770, in y<sup>e</sup> 45th year of his age.

44. Erected in memory of Ebenezer, son of Mr. Ebenezer Perkins and Mary, his wife, who died May y<sup>e</sup> 12th, 1784.

46. Ruth, wife of Ransom Maxham, died Feb. 2, 1857, æ 56 yrs., 10 mos., 27 days.

49 and 48.

JACOB ROBINSON.

(A marble monument, seventeen inches square at bottom, twelve at top, four feet high, within an iron fence with stone posts, eighteen by thirteen feet, including all numbers on the plan from 47 to 53, inclusive).

(Inscription on west side).

Jacob Robinson, born Oct. 24, 1798, died Dec. 13, 1858. Rhoda W., his wife, born March 25, 1798, died Nov. 3, 1870.

(On north side).

Horatio N., born March 31, 1831, died May 5, 1837. John D., born Jan. 17, 1841, died Jan. 6, 1842. Caroline E., born Dec. 4, 1823, died Dec. 3, 1843. Sarah J., born Feb. 10, 1835, died May 27, 1851.

(The place of each grave in this enclosure is indicated by a small marble stone with name or initials thereon as follows):

48. J. Robinson.

- 47. R. W. Robinson.
- 49. Jacob Robinson monument.
- 50. Sarah J.
- 51. Caroline E.
- 52. John D.
- 53. Horatio N.

54. To the memory of Rev. Matthias Monroe, late rector of Trinity church, Bridgewater, sustained, during a long and trying illness, by a steadfast faith in the Saviour. He died April 8, 1836, aged 51 years, leaving to his family and flock an example of the blessedness of those who cordially embrace the religion of Jesus Christ.

Remember them which have the rule over you;
Who have spoken unto you the word of God;
Whose faith follow.

55. As a token of parental affection this stone is erected to show the place where rests the earthly remains of Paul Nelson, youngest son of Rev. Matthias Monroe and Dorcas, his wife, who departed this life Sunday afternoon, 10 June, 1832, after a short, but severe, illness, aged 5 years lacking 5 days.

My darling son, my precious child,
Thou canst not come to me;
But nearer draws the numbered hour
When I shall go to thee.
And then, perchance, with seraph's smiles,
And golden harp in hand,
Mayst come the first to welcome me
To our Immanuel's land.

56. In memory of Mrs. Grace W., wife of Gilbert Richmond, and daughter of the late Rev. Matthias Monroe, who died June 11, 1838, aged 22 years.

Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord.

57. Jonathan Sprague, died April 10, 1756, aged 69 years. He was great-grandson of Edward Sprague, of the town of Upway, in the county of Dorset, England. William Sprague, son of Edward, and grandfather of Jonathan, emigrated to this country and arrived in Salem in 1628.

58. Memento Mori. In memory of Benjamin Sprague; he died March y<sup>e</sup> 31st, A. D. 1778, in y<sup>e</sup> 42<sup>d</sup> year of his age.

Lo! here I rest in the soft bed of dust,
Waiting the resurrection of the just.

(He died of small-pox, at the pox-house—late Wm. Dunbar's—and buried with others at the westerly end of that farm, and afterwards removed to this place).

59. Erected in memory of Capt. Ephraim Sprague, who was born May 17, 1763, and died Feb. 21, 1846, aged 82 years, 9 mos. He was the oldest son of Benjamin Sprague, and the fourth lineal descendant from William Sprague, who came from England to Salem, Mass., in 1628.

60. Erected in memory of Vina, widow of Capt. Ephraim Sprague, who was born April 24, 1765, and died May 6, 1851, aged 86 years. She was the third daughter of Ezra Edson, and a descendant of the fifth generation from Samuel Edson, who came from Salem to Bridgewater, and was one of the early settlers of the town.

61. In memory of Vina Sprague, daught. of Capt. Ephraim Sprague and Vina, his wife, who died of consumption, July 13, 1818, æt. 19. With the hope of recovering her health, she went to Bristol, where she expired with composure and resignation, previously requesting that her remains might be interred in the church yard at Bridgewater.

Thine eyes, dear friend, are closed in night,
Thy thread, alas, is spun;
Cut off from time, from light and life,
Ere half the sands were run.
How short the date of human things;
How transcial are their joys;
The flower that in the morning springs,
The evening blast destroys.

This monument is erected by Oliver Alden, Jr., as a testimony of his affection.

62. Chloe, dau. of Capt. Ephraim and Vina Sprague, died Mar. 11, 1867, æ 63 years.

Be ye therefore ready also.

63. Frederick E., son of William and Selina Sanders, born Aug. 15, 1853, died Sept. 8, 1857, æ 4 yrs. and 24 days.

Thy little form is straight and still,
Thy golden curls are damp and chill,
My poor dead baby boy.

They are even as a sleep, and fade away suddenly as the grass.

This stone records the departure from this life of two infants dear to affection and to memory. Mary Gray, died Dec. 20, 1817, aged 4 months and 18 days. Samuel Bowditch, died March 9, 1819, aged 1 month and 21 days. Children of Lothrop R. and Ann Thacher.

INCREASE ROBINSON.

(A marble monument, twenty inches square, four feet high, within an iron fence with stone posts, twenty nine by eighteen feet, including all numbers on the plan from 65 to 68, inclusive, with inscriptions as follows):

65 and 68. (On east side). Increase Robinson, born Dec. 25, 1789, died July 17, 1869.

67 and 68. (On south side). Thomas Perkins, son of Increase and Hannah Robinson, died of Hydrophobus, June 7, 1822, æt. 6 years.

The head akes no more;
The eye forgets to weep.

On north side.

JAPAN GRAVE-YARD,

— IN —

BRIDGEWATER,

NEAR JENNING'S BROOK.

The old grave-yard near Jennings brook, sometimes called Japan grave-yard, contains fifty square rods, was given for that purpose about 1766, by Samuel Jennings, who lived on the homestead of his father, Richard Jennings, on the northerly side of High street, about forty rods in a southerly direction from these premises. The well and cellar still to be seen.

This Richard Jennings was in the Swamp Fight of King Philip's War, Sunday, December 19, 1675; married Mary Bassett, of Sandwich, and was living here in Bridgewater, on her land, before 1686; had four daughters, all well married; and four sons. In 1735, sixty years after the fight, this Richard and one Daniel Hudson, two of the fourteen men from Bridgewater in that engagement, were alive, living here in Bridgewater, and then obtained their land bounty for serving in that war. In 1729 he gave to his son Samuel a deed of his homestead, reserving a life estate on account of his lameness, and died 1751, and was buried in the old grave-yard near the Unitarian meeting-house. His son, Samuel, never married; became insane, 1776; and from that time to his death, 1785, was under the guardianship of Edward Mitchell, Jr. This family has become extinct—or at least no descendants of the male line are known to be living.

This ground has a face stone wall with an iron gate in front on the south side of the ground, next to High street, there measuring ninety-three feet ; and a wooden fence on all the other sides, measuring 103½ feet on the easterly side ; 140 feet on the north, or back side : and 139 feet on the westerly side, next to Plane street. See plan.

No deed is known to exist ; but Samuel Jennings is said to have given this land for this purpose about 1766.

The oldest grave-stone in this yard is that of Nathaniel Hayward's wife, Elizabeth, who died Nov. 7, 1766. Joanna Tinkham, who was housekeeper for Samuel Jennings, died March 6, 1763, and was buried in the old yard at the Unitarian meeting-house, and probably would have been buried in this yard if the land had previously been given for that purpose.

Within a few years past Havilla Dunphe has added to this old yard on the north side, and enclosed with a wooden fence, a strip of land about 106 feet wide, north and south, and about 160 feet long, east and west : about sixty-one square rods, and has laid the same out into burial-lots, and sells them to individuals, as wanted.

Seven graves with stones are found in this new ground, but are not taken into this account ; and there are probably in the old yard as many graves without stones as with stones, the town paupers having been buried here for many years.

1. (Marble monument). Abby, died July 20, 1858, æ 4 yrs., 5 mos.

Dearest Abby thou hast left us,
Though thy loss we deeply feel;
'Tis God that hath bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal.

2. In memory of Ruth Price, died Sept. 5, 1858, æ 83.

Dearest mother, thou hast left us,
Though thy loss we deeply feel;
'Tis God that hath bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal.

3. In memory of Benjamin Price, died Jan. 5, 1833, æ 80.

My children dear, this place draw near,
A father's grave to see;
Not long ago I was with you,
And soon you'll be with me.

20. In memory of Nathaniel Hayward, who died Nov. 9, 1780, in 63<sup>d</sup> year of his age.

Reader, stand still and spend a tear,
Think on the dust that slumbers here ;
And when

21. In memory of Philip Hayward, who died Aug. 20, 1769, in 22<sup>d</sup> year of his age.

22. In memory of Adam, son of Mr. Nathaniel and Hannah Hayward, who died Mch. 7, 1777, aged 1 yr., 12 days.

23. Levi Loel Carr, died Aug. 17, 1854, aged 23 years.

An opening bud, a blooming flower,
Cut down and withered in an hour ;
'Tis thus our earthly comforts fly,
And prospects brighten but to die.
Thy life is o'er, thy race is run,
Thy days were few, thy work is done,
Thy soul has fled to worlds above,
We trust to rove in fields of love.

24. Maria Adalaide, died July 17, 1854, æ 15 mos. George Walter, died May 31, 1852, æ 19 mos., 19 days. Alma Amelia, died Sept. 26, 1855, æ 11 mos., 20 days. Children of Nelson O. and Sarah E. Carr.

Sleep, little children sleep,
Not on thy mother's breast,
But in thy Saviour's arms,
Henceforth shall be thy rest.

25. Sarah E. Carr, wife of Nelson O. Carr, died Oct. 2, 1863, aged 32 yrs., 5 mos.

Sarah thou hast gone before us
To thy calm and happy home,
There to join the heavenly chorus
With angels that surround the throne.
Thy life on earth is ended,
And thy works do follow thee,
Where thy footsteps have ascended
To a world of purity.

34. In memory of Samuel Rider, who died June 18, 1837, in his 69 year.

35. In memory of Miss Sarah Rider, died Jun 4, 1829, æt. 64.
 My flesh shall slumber in the ground
 Till the last trumpeter's joyful sound;
 Then burst the chains with sweet surprise
 And in my Saviour's image rise.
36. In memory of Abner Rider, died Sept. 13, 1843, in his 78. year.
37. James Boldry, died Oct. 7, 1855, aged 75 yrs., 9 mos.

 Even so in Christ shall all be made alive.
38. Wilson F., son of J. and A. M. Boldry, died Jan. 11, 1860, æ 4 yrs., 1 mo. and 16 ds.
 But Jesus said, suffer little children and forbid them not to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven.
39. Sally, daught. of Lieut. Ephraim Jackson, died 14 Aug<sup>t</sup>, 1811, in her 20 year.
40. Mr. Samuel Crane, died May 31, 1809, aged 71 years.
 Death is a debt to nature due,
 Which I have paid and so must you.
41. Lucy, wife of Ziba Hayward, died Apr. 5, 1824, æt. 70.
 Death is a debt to nature due,
 Which I have paid and so must you.
42. In memory of Mr. Ziba Hayward, who died Dec. 17, 1837, aged 88 years.

 Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord.
45. William, son of Benjamin and Cynthia Hayward, died June 20, 1833, aged 1 mo., 27 days.
46. In memory of Sophia W., daughter of Benjamin and Cynthia Hayward, who died Nov. 10, 1844, æt. 7 yrs., 10 months.
 May angels hover round the bed
 Where now her cold remains decay;
 And may sweet flowers bloom o'er her bed,
 Emblems of bliss in endless day.
47. Jeremiah Hayward, died Jan. 18, 1870, æ 87 years,
48. Here lies Polly, daughter of Mr. Elijah and Mrs. Mary Howard, who died June 2<sup>d</sup>, 1794, aged 13 days.
49. In memory of Edward Hayward, died May 9, 1832, in his 36 year.
 Death is a debt to nature due,
 Which I have paid and so must you.

51. In memory of Mr. Elijah Hayward; he died Sept. 30, 1815, aged 74 years, 3 mos. and 12 days.

52. N——, son of — John Harden, Jun<sup>r</sup>, died March 9th, 1806, in his 2<sup>d</sup> year.

Of such is the kingdom of God.

53. In memory of Mr. Ward Harden, son of Mr. John and Mrs. Lucy Harden, died March 16, 1832, in his 38 year.

Friends nor physicians could not save
This mortal body from the grave;
Nor can the grave confine it here.
When Christ commands it to appear.

Lucy H. Harden, as a tribute of respect to her brother, has erected this monument.

54. Lucy, widow of John Harden, died Nov. 30, 1846, aged 77 yrs 10 mos. and 10 days.

When lingering pains her bosom tore,
Resigned, she kissed the chastening rod,
Each mortal pang with meekness bore,
And smiled in death to meet her God.

Lucy H. Harden, as tribute of respect to her brother, has erected this monument.

55. In memory of Mr. John Harden, died Dec. 28, 1824, in his 68 year.

Hushed all our sorrows, all our tears be dry,
'Tis Christ that calls submission, we obey;
He's gone to blessed mansions in the sky,
To sing his Saviour's praise in endless day.

56. Betsey, wife of Jotham Dunphe, died Nov. 29, 1858, aged 61 yrs., 4 mo., 22 ds.

We loved her on earth, may we meet her in heaven.

57. Jotham Dunphe, died Jan. 12, 1870, aged 79 yrs., 9 mo., 10 ds.
A kind husband and father.

58. In memory of Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Jotham and Mrs. Betsey Dunphe, died Dec. 27, 1813, aged 6 weeks and 6 das.

This flesh must slumber in the ground
Till the last trumpet's joyful sound;
Then burst the chains with glad surprise,
And in her Saviour's image rise.

59. Lucy Holmes, dau. of Jotham and Betsey Dunphe, died Sept. 5, 1826, æt. 9 mos. and 19 days.

May angels guard this lovely clay,
Until the great decisive day;
Then in her Saviour's image drest,
She'll wake to be completely blest.

60. Joanna, daughter of Mr. Jotham and Mrs. Betsey Dunphe, died Dec. 15, 1831, æt. 8 years and 9 mos.

In this cold grave her body lies,
Once blooming, young and fair;
All read these lines that have a mind
And then for death prepare.

61. Lowell Quincy, son of Jotham and Betsey Dunphe, died May 14, 1838, æ 18 yrs., 9 mos., and 10 days.

But God, who cannot err, knows what is best,
And thus hath early called him home to rest;
And now that from his circle he is gone,
We wish to say, O Lord, thy will be done.

62. In memory of Jonathan Harden, who died July 18, 1830, æt. 59.

Affection's sigh nor filial love,
Can stay death's sure unerring dart;
Jehovah calls and mortals prove
That dearest friends on earth must part.

63. Sacred to the memory of Miss Deborah Harden, died Jan. 9, 1833, aged 24 years.

To dust returned, consigned to earth
In early life, in beauty's bloom;
Then leave your pleasures, leave your mirth,
Prepare for death, your certain doom.

64. Miss Deborah Harden, died Feb. 18, 1834, in her 92 year.
(Daughter of Samuel Harden).

My time is spent, my days are past,
Eternity must count the rest.

65. Mary Harden, (No inscription. Died June 5, 1835, aged 77 yrs., 9 mo., 8 days. Daughter of Samuel Harden).

66. In memory of Mrs. Jane, wife of Mr. Edward Mitchell, died Jan. 30, 1829, æt. 87.

Organic forms with many changes strive,
Live but to die and die but to revive;
Immortal matter braves the transient storm,
Mounts from the wreck unchanging but in form.

67. In memory of Edward Mitchell, who died Nov. 26, 1828, æt. 89.

His mind was tranquil and serene,
No terrors in his looks were seen;
His Saviour's smiles dispelled the gloom,
And smoothed his passage to the tomb.

68. Ophir Mitchell, died Nov. 21, 1823, æ 43; Ruth his wife, died June 17, 1863, æ 80.

69. Leonard M., son of Leonard and Veleary Ann Mitchell, died Nov. 9, 1832, æt. 14 mos.

Here lies the fairest bud of hope
That 'ere to fondest wish was given;
If thou wouldst know its perfect state,
Repent and seek the flower in heaven.

70. Leonard, son of Leonard and Veleary Ann Mitchell, died Dec. 2, 1829, æt. 25 mos.

Closed is the eye of youthful mirth,
A parent's fondest hopes are fled;
Scarce done rejoicing at his birth,
Ere we must place him with the dead.

71. Lucy Ann, daughter of Leonard and Veleary Ann Mitchell, died June 25, 1832, æt. 2 yrs., 11 mos.

This lovely bud so young and fair,
 Called home by early doom,
 Just come to show how sweet a flower,
 In paradise would bloom.

72. Veleary Ann, wife of Leonard Mitchell, died Sep. 11, 1832, æt.
 23.

In all the bloom of life I felt
 Death's fatal arrow pierce my heart;
 My husband dear and tender babe,
 I, with them both, was called to part.

73. Martha S., wife of Benj. H. Price, died Nov. 30, 1855, æ 47.

Kind partner, I now take my leave of you,
 Brothers, sisters, friends, I bid you all adieu;
 My body soon will mingle with the dust,
 My spirit be with Christ, in whom I trust.

74. Fanny Grundy, died Mar. 31, 1863, æ 16 yrs. and 10 ms.

For death we trust thou wast prepared,
 Thy work below was done;
 Thy aching head is now at rest,
 Thy earthly race is run.

75. Ruth L., died Aug. 19, 1863, æ 6 yrs. and 6 mos. Samuel, died Aug. 29, 1863, æ 2 yrs. and 5 mos. Children of Oreb and Ellen Mitchell.

These lovely buds so young and fair,
 Called hence by early doom,
 Just come to show how sweet a flower,
 In paradise would bloom.

76. Carrie Morton, dau. of Wm. F. and Hannah P. Harden, died
 Sept. 20, 1865, æ 3 yrs. and 8 mos.

Our darling is an angel now.

77. Emma Perkins, daught. of Wm. F. and Hannah P. Harden, died Dec. 27, 1858, æ 9 ms. and 22 days.

Sweet emblem of a lovely flower,
 This infant child did die;
 Taken from its parents arms,
 To dwell with blissful saints on high.

78. Joshua S. Ramsdell, Co., C. 29th Reg., M. V., died at Mill Creek Hospital, Va., Oct. 6, 1862, aged 23.

79. Mary Thomson, wife of Orville Leonard, born Nov. 18, 1815, died May 16, 1850. An affectionate wife and faithful mother; she was called away in the midst of life. She died too soon for those who depended on her care, and who are left to mourn her loss; but not too soon for her freed spirit. We trust that through the mercy of her God, she has already tasted the sweetness of immortality.

There is a world above,
 Where parting is unknown,
 A long eternity of love,
 Formed for the good alone;
 And faith beholds the dying here,
 Translated to that glorious sphere.

80. Lydia Darling, dau. of Erastus and Mary Hayward, died April 3, 1850, aged 32 years.

This fragrant rose too pure for earth,
Was siezed by death to bloom in heaven.

81. Hannah Pope, dau. of Erastus and Mary P. Hayward, died Feb. 16, 1843, aged 18 years.

My youthful friends when you do view
This cold dark bed of clay,
Think when on earth I was like you,
Like me you'll pass away.

82. Erastus Hayward, died Sept. 25, 1844, in his 54 year.

Great God, I own thy sentence just,
When from my friends was called to die;
I yield my body to the dust,
Till I am called to dwell on high.

83. Ella Josephine, only child of Erastus C. and Joann Hayward, died July 28, 1850, æ 13 mos. and 11 days.

Dear babe, thy days are o'er,
While here thy dust shall rest;
Thy home shall be forever more
In the Redeemer's breast.

84. Addie.

Dear Addie it was hard to part with thee,
But of such is the kingdom of heaven.

Hayward.

85. Laura L., wife of Freeman Jones, died Oct. 24, 1857, æ 26 yrs., 2 mo., 10 days. Not forgotten.

86. Lieut. E. H. Leonard, Co. I., 11th Regt., Vt. Vols.; killed at Petersburg, Va., June 28, 1864, aged 19.

87. Everett Thomas, adopted son of Thomas and Ellen Trask, died Dec. 3, 1858, aged 4 years, 3 mos., 9 days.

Ere sin could blight or sorrow fade,
Death came with friendly care;
The opening bud to heaven conveyed,
And bid it blossom there.

88. Hattie E., wife of Oreb F. Mitchell, died May 16, 1878, aged 34 years, 5 mos.

89. Francis Bryant, son of Oreb F. and Hattie E. Mitchell, died July 25, 1865, aged 2 years, 4 mos., 2 days.

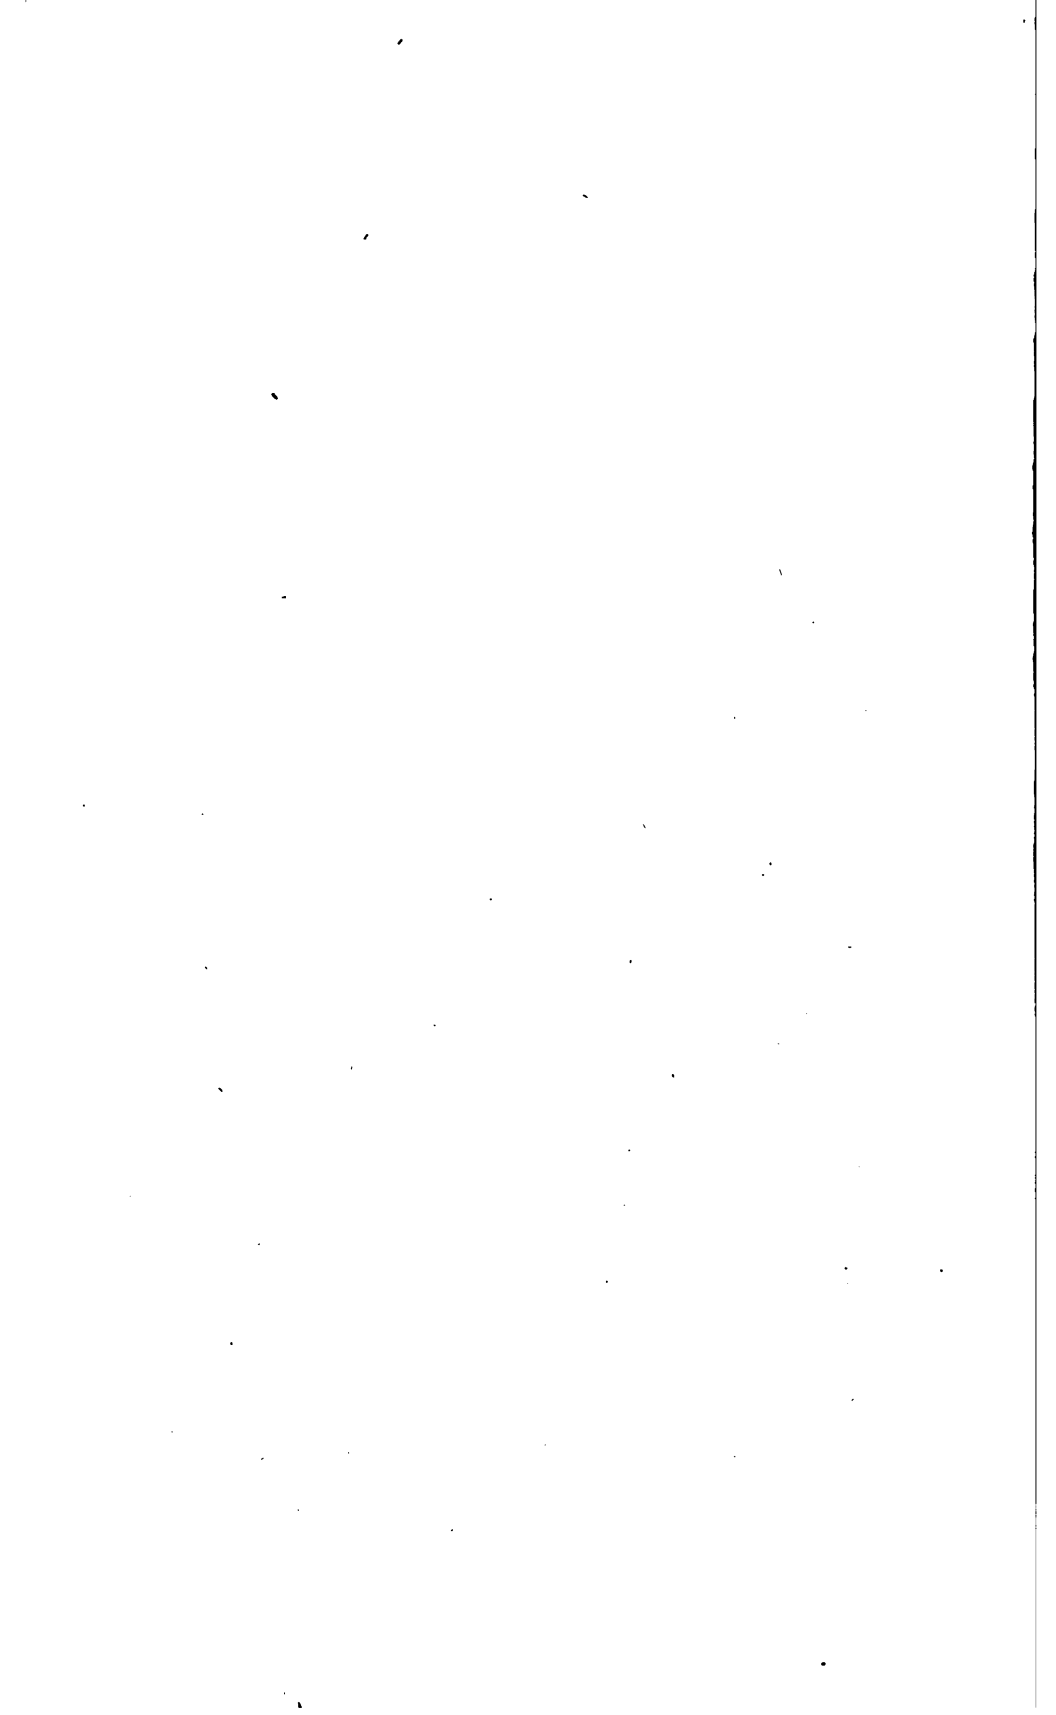

Our darling is an angel now.

90. (Dr. Benjamin Palmer, an Englishman, married Silence Price, and was father of James Boldry's wife; died April 10, 1807, aged 79, and was buried in the northwest part of this yard. No stone to mark his grave).

91. (Prince Richards, born a slave, in Halifax; bought his freedom of the Waterman family; lived on the west side of Robbins' Pond; married, first, Hannah Quoy, a sister of Aunt Lyd, of S. B., and second, Anna Pegin; had several children; and died Feb. 17, 1833, aged 87 years, a worthy and respected citizen of East Bridgewater. He, one of his wives, and several of his children were buried in this yard, but there is no stone to mark their graves).

GREAT WOODS GRAVE-YARD.

The Alden grave-yard, sometimes called the Great Woods grave-yard, and so called on account of the large trees formerly found growing in that neighborhood, is on the northwesterly side of Titicut street, in that part of Bridgewater called the Great Woods ; there measuring, on said street, 122 feet, and running back on the northeasterly side 136 feet ; on the southwesterly side 119 feet ; and measuring on the back side 97 feet. It lays at the head of the second one-hundred-acre lot in the division of the one-thousand-acre lot into ten great lots of one hundred acres each, lying on the north side of the Taurton river, in Bridgewater, below the mouth of the Winatuxett river.

The land was given by Solomon and Amasa Alden at different times, and was first used for burial purpose, in 1793. There are two carriage entrances from said street, each twelve feet wide, with a good bank wall next to said street, and a balance wall on all other sides.

The tomb in this yard, towards the back side, was built by Solomon and Amasa-Alden, and belongs to their heirs, and has several bodies deposited therein.

This ground had, in 1850, 27 graves and 23 grave-stones, and now (1882) has about 60 graves, counting said tomb as a grave for the the bodies therein, and about fifty grave-stones.

EPITAPHS.

1. Mrs. Sarah Shaw, wife of Dea. Asael Shaw, died Nov. 16, 1831, æ 75 years.

Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord.

2. Dea. Asael Shaw, died May 3, 1844, æ 92 years, 5 mos. and 6 ds.

Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth,
Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them.

3. In memory of Mrs. Sarah, widow of Mr. Solomon Alden, who died Aug. 28, 1815, in her 86 year.

'Tis but a few whose days amount
To three-score years and ten,
And all beyond that short account
Is sorrow, toil, and pain.

4. In memory of Mr. Solomon Alden, who died Dec. 13, 1813, in his 86 year.

Breathless I leave this heavy clod,
And fall into the arms of God;
I glide in blissful dreams away,
To wake in everlasting day.

5. In memory of Abigail — Alden, daughter of Mr. Noah Alden and Mrs. Elizabeth, his wife, who died March y<sup>e</sup> 7th, 1801, in y<sup>e</sup> 6th year of her age,

Nature has but soft powerful bands,
And reason she controls;
While children with their little hands
Hang closest to our souls.

6. Erected in memory of Mrs. Elizabeth, wife of Mr. Noah Alden, who died Jan. y<sup>e</sup> 12, A. D. 1798, in y<sup>e</sup> 23 year of her age.

Farewell husband, children dear,
May Jesus for your help appear;
And be your father kind and just,
When I am mouldering in the dust.
Here is the end of all that love;
This is my dark, long home;
Jesus himself lay in the grave;
The house where all must come.

7. In memory of Mrs. Vodicia, wife of Mr. Noah Alden, who died Sept. 7, 1827, in her 61 year.

Look down upon this sacred spot and see
What death can do for you as well as me;
Sweet bosom friend, your falling sand is nigh;
Children prepare, 'tis God that calls on high.

8. Erected in memory of Mrs. Polly, wife of Solomon Alden, Esq., who died May 31, 1821, in the 55 year of her age.

The grave beneath this stone contains
The mortal, but reserved, remains
Of her who was beloved in life,
A tender mother, friend and wife.

9. In memory of Solomon Alden, Esq., who died Aug. 18, 1852, aged 94 years, 8 mos. and 2 days.

10. Solomon Alden, Esq., died Jan. 4, 1866, aged 78 yrs., 6 mos. 9 days.

11. In memory of Nancy, daughter of Mr. Solomon Alden, Jun<sup>r</sup>, and Mrs. Polly, his wife, who died September y<sup>e</sup> 17, 1793, aged 7 months and 12 days.

This lovely child is now no more,
In glory may it rest;
Before the throne may it adore,
And be with Jesus blest.

12. Sophronia Leach, died July 1, 1845, æ 40 yrs., 16 ds.

13. Harriet L., dau. of Solomon and Betsey V. Alden, died Mar. 20, 1868, æ 34 yrs., 9 ds.

Thy labors are over; thou hast entered into eternal rest.

14. Emily F., dau. of Solomon and Betsey V. Alden, died July 3, 1868, æ 27 yrs., 4 mo., 17 ds.

Thou wast loved by many; yet love could not keep thee when thy Father called.

15. Sacred to the memory of Abner Alden, M. D., son of Eleab and Mary Alden, of Cairo, N. Y., who departed this life Sept. 28, 1818, aged 25 yrs., 9 mo., 17 days.

Be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not, the son of man cometh.

My flesh shall slumber in the ground;
Till the last trumpets joyful sound,
Then burst the bands with sweet surprise,
And in my Savior's image rise.

16. Sacred to the memory of Mr. Alexander Shaw, son of Dea. Asael Shaw, and Sarah, his wife; he was born Nov. 4, 1778, died May 8th, 1818, in the 40th year of his age.

Ah, how uncertain is life's slender thread;
How soon, alas! we mingle with the dust.
To-day, our hopes on airy pinions rise,
And brightening prospects swim before our eyes;
To-morrow, death shuts out the scene of life,
And breaks the tie of parent, friend and wife.

17. Sacred to the memory of Mrs. Priscilla Shaw, wife of Mr. Soranus Shaw, and daughter of Mr. Walter Clarke and Lydia, his wife; she was born in Middletown, R. I., March 3<sup>d</sup>, 1789, died in Bridgewater, Ms., June 27, 1814.

Adieu, departed shade, alas, farewell,
For thou art gone in happier climes to dwell;
While we the virtues of her mind revere,
Stop, pensive stranger, stay and drop a tear.

18. Sacred to the memory of Miss Sarah Shaw, daughter of Deacon Asael Shaw and Sarah, his wife; she was born March 28th, 1787, and died Aug. 27th, 1818, aged 31 years and 5 months.

The righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance.

19. Susan E., wife of Martin V. B. Pratt, died Oct. 3, 1867, aged 25 yrs., 8 days. She died as she lived, respected, appreciated, and be loved.

20. Emily. Emily Alden, dau. of Martin V. B. and Susan F. Pratt, died May 17, 1867, æ 1 yr., 1 mo., 13 days.

21. No inscription.

22. In memory of Albert Edwin, son of John and Lucy Ayer, who died Mar. 3, 1842, æt. 28 ms. and 16 ds.

Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not;
for of such is the kingdom of God.

23. Henry Wood, born Oct. 19, 1812, died July 7, 1876.

Gone, but not forgotten.

24. In memory of Soranus C., son of Soranus and Priscilla Shaw, died March 18, 1824, æt. 9 yrs.

See, the lovely blooming flower
Fades and withers in an hour;
So our transient comforts fly;
Pleasures only bloom to die.

25. Sacred to the memory of Sarah A., wife of Quartus Snell, and dau. of Soranus and Priscilla Shaw; she was born in Bristol, R. I. Nov. 24, 1811, and died in East Bridgewater, Mass., Feb. 5, 1834. Here lies a person who sorrow hath borne; from pain and grief we trust she is free; by sanctified grace led home to God, where beams the cloudless sky, and all is love.

Jesus can make a dying bed
Feel soft as downy pillows are,
While on his breast I lean my head,
And breathe my life out sweetly there.

26. Asael Shaw, son of Ephraim and Elizabeth Harlow, died Sept. 2, 1835, in his 16 year.

27. ALDEN MARBLE SHAFT.

Abigail S., wife of Lewis T. Alden, died June 19, 1849, aged 51 yrs.

Lemira E., their dau., died Aug. 4, 1842, aged 4 yrs., 1 mo. 4 ds.

28. In memory of Betsey, widow of Benjamin Tucker, who died Feb. 12, 1861, aged 79 years.

29. In memory of Benjamin Tucker, who died Oct. 23, 1840, aged 75 years.

30. In memory of Andrew Tucker, who died Sept. 13, 1858, æ 34 years.

31. Allice J., dau. of Andrew and Amelia Tucker, died Dec. 12, 1853, aged 4 mos. and 12 ds.

Suffer little children to come unto me.

32. Joseph B., son of Andrew and Amelia Tucker, died Sept. 11, 1854, æ 4 yrs., 1 mo., 1 day.

Child, thy Father calls thee home.

33. LAZELL MONUMENT.

Sarah H., wife of Wm. Lazell, died Mar. 2, 1874, aged 79 years.
(Two graves unmarked).

34. Abel H., son of Eliab and Levina Dunbar, died Nov. 16, 1819, aged 12 years.

35. No inscription.

36. No inscription.

37. In memory of Mr. Jesse Dunbar, who died April 9, 1816, aged 73 years.

Honorable age is not that which standeth in length of time, nor is it measured by number of years; but wisdom is the grey hair unto man, and an unspotted life is old age.

38. In memory of Abigail Dunbar, wife of Mr. Jesse Dunbar, who died May 5, 1817, æt. 77.

Adieu, my friends, a long and sad farewell;
A scene more solemn than the passing bell;
I hoped with God in glory I should bloom,
Where sorrow, sickness, death can never come.
Consoling thought! dear children dry your tears,
Your friend has gone beyond your anxious fears.
Weep not for me, prepare without delay
To meet the debt you all must shortly pay.

39. In memory of Lydia Dunbar, who died May 23, 1843, in her 67 year.

40. Sacred to the memory of Eliab Dunbar, who died Feb. 3, 1844, in, his 74 year.

41. In memory of Keziah, widow of Simeon Wood, who died Sept. 23, 1855, aged 72 yrs., 10 mos. and 6 days.

42. Dinah, daughter of Jesse and Azubah Dunbar, born May 14, 1780, died June 24, 1869.

Her virtues will embalm her memory.

43. In memory of an affectionate husband and father, Rev. Asa Niles, born Feb. 10th, A. D. 1777, died Apr. 16th, A. D. 1849.

The righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance.

44. In memory of a beloved son and brother, Asa H. Niles, born May 17, A. D. 1813, died Apr. 2, A. D. 1842.

None knew thee but to love thee.

45. Hannah M., daur. of Robert C. and Hannah Clark, died Feb. 12, 1852, aged 7 mos. and 9 ds.

The blighted bud will bloom in heaven.

Polly, wife of Caleb Alden, died Nov. 29, 1829, aged 40 yrs., 4 mo. and 22 days.

Jane Alden, died Dec. 25, 1842, aged 22 yrs., 9 mo. and 9 days.

Caleb C. Alden, died Sept. 2, 1838, aged 14 yrs., 1 mo. and 10 days.

This monument includes

47. Jane and Cebra.

48. Mother.

49. Father.

50. John Butterworth, born Nov. 8, 1798, died Jan. 18, 1862.

With thy Savior we leave thee.

51. Lois Waldron, wife of John Butterworth, born Dec. 16, 1798, died May 31, 1869.

Dearest mother, rest with God.

52. Sophia, wife of John Butterworth, Jr., died Sept. 4, 1871, aged 47, y., 10 m., 21 d.

Forever gone, O how we miss
 Her gentle foot-steps now;
 The low, soft tone, the pleasant smile,
 The sweet and sunny brow.
 O may we live as she has lived,
 And tread the paths she trod;
 To reach at last a noble sphere,
 A home like hers with God.

SMALL-POX GRAVE-YARDS,

— IN —

BRIDGEWATER.

---

One on the east side of Conant street, a few rods north of the Four Mile line, near the house of the late Rufus Wood. This yard has nine graves and six grave-stones, as follows :

1. In memory of Ford Bearce, son of Jacob Bearce and Hannah, his wife, of Pembroke, born June 25, 1853, and died April 20, 1778.

2. Jabes Fuller, died Dec. 8, 1788, in his 95th year.

My young dear friends, shed tears,
Down by this stone my body is here ;
Make Jesus Christ your hope and trust
Before your body turns to dust.

3. O remember death. In memory of Lieut. Jonathan Benson, who died of small-pox Dec. 16, 1788, in the 71st year of his age.

My flesh shall slumber in the ground
Till the archangel's solemn sound
Shall wake my dust, and bid it rise
To join my soul and mount the skies.

4. In memory of Maj. James Allen, who died with the small-pox Jan., 10, 1789, in y<sup>e</sup> 54th year of his age.

5. In memory of Adam Besse, who died of small-pox Jan. 11, 1793, in y<sup>e</sup> 23 year of his age.

6. In memory of Mr. Chilton Latham, who died of y<sup>e</sup> small-pox Jan. 16, 1793, in y<sup>e</sup> 53 year of his age.

Death is a debt to nature due,
Which I have paid and so must you.

Three other graves are found and distinctly visible, but have no graves-stones, and are not known. No. 4 heads south, and foots north ; all the other graves head north and foot south.

The Rufus Wood dwelling-house, near these premises, was used for a pox-house on several occasions, and all persons buried here, except Latham, died in this Rufus Wood house. Latham died in his own house, about one mile off.

Two children of Jacob Washburn—a son of Gideon Washburn, who lived in front of the Rev. S. Sanger house—died of the small-pox, and were buried on the southeast side of the Great Hill. One of these children died May 3, and one May 19, 1777. A third grave is said to be seen at this place, on south side of this hill, and is supposed to be the grave of one Benson.

Another pox grave-yard is to be seen on the William Dunbar farm, at the extreme west end of that farm. It contained 3 graves : Ebenezer

Keith, who died at his own house April 12, 1778, aged 61, and has been since removed to the old yard at the Unitarian church; Capt. Benjamin Sprague, who died March 31, 1778, aged 41, and who has been since removed to the Trinity church grave-yard; and the third grave is that of a child, unknown. The old Wm. Dunbar house was used for a pox-house at the time of their deaths.

The Hon. Nathan Mitchell died of small-pox in his own house, then standing where Dr. Lowe's barn now stands, March 2, 1789, aged 59, and was buried in the northeast corner of Dr. Lowe's house-lot, near the guide-post; and since removed into the old grave-yard near the Unitarian church.

Several persons have died with small-pox, and it is not known where they were buried. Such as

Levi Edson, died Jan. 20, 1777; Bristol, negro, died June 16, 1777; Nathaniel Simmons, died Nov. 24, 1777; Jeremiah Washburn, died April 7, 1778; Abigail Conant, died April 8, 1778; Marshall Washburn, infant son of Eliab Washburn, died April 12, 1778; Hannah Washburn, died April 16, 1778; Daniel Dunbar's child died April 30, 1778.

Leonard Shaw, son of Dr. Samuel Shaw, died Dec. 10, 1788, aged 11 months, buried in the old yard at Unitarian meeting-house.

Thus making a list of twenty-five deaths by small-pox from 1777 to 1793, most of whom were buried on private ground. Other deaths from this cause did, no doubt, occur during this time, and probably some before 1777, and some since 1793.

In November, 1801, the small-pox broke out in Titicut. Many people had been exposed. The dwelling house of Jeremiah Keith, east of the Turnpike, with a large building near by, were fitted up and assigned by order of the Selectmen, for a pox-house, to which a large number of persons, tradition says fifty or more, went, then having, or expecting to have the small-pox. A Dr. Southworth, from Mattapoisett, was employed to attend the sick, and to reside at said house. There was, at that time, a great want of faith in the efficacy of vaccination. The late Dr. Samuel Shaw, of this town, had faith in its prevention of small-pox, and for a test he sent to said hospital his two daughters, Hannah, then aged 20, and Sarah, then aged 5. Hannah had had the small-pox by inoculation some years before, and Sarah had been vaccinated, and they remained in the hospital long enough to decide the question that vaccination was a preventive of the small-pox.

No persons died at this hospital, though several were very sick; and this was the last general alarm of the small-pox in Bridgewater. We have had an occasional alarm, and a few single fatal cases.

OLD GRAVE-YARD

— IN —

EAST BRIDGEWATER.

This grave-yard is probably the oldest grave-yard in old Bridgewater, outside of the first settlement in West Bridgewater, 1651. Tradition says that the Rev. John Angier, soon after his settlement in East Bridgewater, in 1724, cut the initials of names, and the year of death, one or both, upon many native flat stones then found at the head of many graves ; and there is a report that stones have been seen with such inscription thereon, as far back as 1700, and especially one stone bearing date of 1685. The southwest part of this ground was first used for burial, and was, no doubt, part of the first one hundred rods appropriated for burial at this place, as hereafter stated.

Samuel Allen, Senior Deacon and second Town and Proprietors' Clerk in Bridgewater, 1683 to 1702, lived on the east bank of Matfield river, near where the Branch railroad crosses the river. He owned a large tract of land on the east side of that river, bounded, northwesterly, by Nicholas Byram, and northeasterly by the lands of Whitman and Harris, including the plain, the common, the burying-ground, and land on both sides of the road, to the brick store and depot, and some further west.

All the burying-ground, and a very large part of the common at the meeting-house, was given and conveyed to the East Precinct, or to committees in behalf of said Precinct, by the Allen family by sundry deeds. Only one deed covers the burying-ground, and that is the deed of Matthew Allen, Jr., to Thomas Whitman, Edward Mitchell, and Hugh Orr, a committee of the East Precinct, dated November 20, 1759, recorded April 19, 1760, in Plymouth Registry, book 46, page 55.

This deed conveys "121 rods of land adjoining land for many years improved for a burying place, given by my father, Samuel Allen, late of Bridgewater, containing 100 rods." The deed recites that the land allotted for a burying-ground is but small, and in time like to prove too scanty for the use of the inhabitants, and that the whole land contains 221 rods, near the East meeting-house, and gives the following boundaries of the premises conveyed, being two parcels of land described as one parcel, beginning at a stone on the north side of the road, and thence running "north, 45 deg. east,  $10\frac{1}{2}$  rods to a stone; then north, 36 deg. west, 15 rods to another stone, in Dea. Seth Allen's range; then south, 39 deg. west,  $16\frac{1}{2}$  rods in Allen's range, to the road; and then by the road  $19\frac{1}{2}$  rods, to the first bounds," being the same premises now enclosed and used for a burying-ground, containing, by recent survey, 227 square rods of land.

The grantor in this deed, Matthew Allen, Jr., was a son of the second Samuel Allen, born June 10, 1708, and died July 21, 1787. He is called junior because he was a younger man than his cousin, Matthew Allen, son of Elisha Allen, born April 11, 1708, and who died October 8, 1784. This Matthew Allen, Jr., lived at the Leonard Hill place; married a daughter of Seth Brett, 1807, and had a family of six children. His father, Samuel Allen, Jr., lived in front of Thomas Rogers' house, and died 1750, nine years before his son, Matthew Allen, Jr., gave this deed of the burying ground. His father's estate was divided among his six children, 1750. The whole of which homestead was bounded northeasterly by the road, there, being about seventy rods wide; and southwesterly by Matfield river, or meadow on that river.

Only one reference to this burying-ground has been found in old documents, and that is in the deed of Samuel Allen, Sen., the old town clerk, to his youngest son, Nehemiah Allen, who was born 1681, and died about 1733, and who was an uncle of said Matthew Allen, Jr. This Samuel Allen, Sen., made his will June 29, 1703, proved Dec. 21, 1705. This deed is dated June 28, 1703, one day before his will, and was acknowledged December 11, 1704, and recorded December 20, 1705, in book 6, on pages 58 and 59, and is substantially as follows:

"We, Samuel Allen, Sen., and Sarah, his wife, of Bridgewater, do give, grant, and bequeath, after our decease, our whole tract of land adjoining to our new dwelling-house, excepting the half-moon meadow, the rest, being near 100 acres, unto our son, Nehemiah Allen, in Bridgewater, to the northerly side of John's river (Matfield); begining at river, and running along by the top of the bank of said half-moon meadow, to the land of our son Samuel; then running northeasterly to a swamp white oak mark, and in same line to a small red oak and dead white oak, and on the same line up to the highway on the plain; the southerly<sup>east</sup> side is butting on said John's river; running northeasterly, joining to the lands of Thomas Whitman, straight to causey and highway above Goodman Harris, his house; then by highway to a red oak ; and then by a heap of stones and stake on the southerly side of the highway that comes from Poor meadow ; then northwesterly to heap of stones and stake ; then running southerly (leaving out the graves to y<sup>e</sup> west) to a small red oak sapling ; then westerly by y<sup>e</sup> highway to our son Samuel's side line of his land, on the easterly side, and also our one-sixth undivided land."

"Leaving out the graves to the west" mentioned in this deed of 1703, undoubtedly means the 100 rods with graves on it referred to in the deed of 1759, and which had been used for a burial-ground many years before, as stated in the deed of 1759.

Nehemiah Allen was 22 years old in 1703, and was not married till 1707, and his parents, grantors in this deed of 1703, had moved into their new house (Leonard Hill house) from their old house on the bank of the river, near the railroad crossing ; and there they lived, and there they died ; he June 28, 1705, and his wife, Sarah, after the date of the deed, June 28, 1703, but when is not known ; and were, no doubt, both of them buried in this yard, and on the 100 rods given by his son Samuel, but no stone marks their resting-place.

Samuel Allen, Jr., donor of the one hundred rods, and father of Mathew Allen, Jr., donor of the 121 rods, was born 1660 ; was first married 1686 ; and died 1750, then about 90 years old. When he gave this land, one hundred rods, or how many graves there were in 1703, is uncertain ; but it was probably the first land used for a public burying-ground in East Bridgewater. The one hundred rods is supposed to be the high ground in the southwest part of this grave-yard, and is considered the oldest part of the yard.

At this date, 1703, there had not probably been many deaths of adult persons living in this part of old Bridgewater. We find only five families living in East Bridgewater in 1662, eleven years after the first settlement in West Bridgewater, to wit : N. Byram, on Forge brook ; S. Allen and Wm. Brett, on Matfield river ; Thomas Whitman and Robert Latham, on Satucket river. These five families, with some married children, perhaps constituting separate families, were all we know of living in this part of old Bridgewater during King Philip's War of 1675-6. Other families and individuals came in soon after, and settled here ; the population slowly, but steadily, increasing down to 1703.

The adult persons living and dying in this part of old Bridgewater previous to 1703, and probably buried in this yard, so far as is known, were N. Byram, 1688, and his wife, 1698 ; Robert Latham and wife, 1685-1688 ; Jonathan Cary, of Beaver, 1695 ; Experience Mitchell, of Elmwood, 1689 ; Mercy Harris, wife of Issac Harris, about 1682.

No other public place of burial is known to have been used ; and we find a very few private burying-grounds in the early settlement of the town, here, or elsewhere, in old Bridgewater.

There is an Indian burying-place at Robbins' Pond, on a piece of high ground on the south side of the road, fifty rods west of the bridge over Satucket river, at said pond. This ground was formerly covered with a heavy growth of pine timber, always private property. None but colored people are known to have been buried here, and probably not more than ten to fifteen graves there, and no grave-stones with inscriptions thereon. There was no Indian settlement around this pond before 1651. It is called Robbins' Pond from John Robbins, an Indian, who early lived near it. Those persons who have lived or been buried at this place have come from abroad ; mostly from Marshfield, Assawampsett Pond, and South Kingston, R. I., and have been Indians, negroes, and mixed blood.

Seven graves (six grown persons and one child), all in a row, close together, are found on the Bela Hill, now Henry G. Hill farm, on the south bank of Matfield river, some thirty or forty rods below the railroad crossing, with large natural flat stones at head and foot, set up edgewise, with no inscription thereon ; and there are two flat stones from twelve to twenty inches wide, and from two to three feet long, laid horizontal and lengthwise on top of each grave, all which graves occupy a space of twenty feet in a straight line, nearly north and south ; and all stones here seem to be such as came from a ledge near by. The land occupied by these graves is a part of the Hill farm, which has been owned and occupied by the Hill family ever since the first settlement. These graves were probably made before 1800, and have generally been considered as graves of persons dying with the small-pox. There is no satisfactory account or tradition as to who they were, or when buried, or cause of death.

There is a tradition in the Hill family that it was a private graveyard of the Hill family, and was not a small-pox grave-yard, with perhaps a single exception of a child of Richard Thayer, which died with the small-pox, Jan. 15, 1793, aged one month, and was buried at this place, while the father of the child was living in one of the Hill houses on this farm, and this was the last burial at this place, and a similar tradition exists in the Thayer family. It is said that Jacob Hill, father of Leonard Hill, had the small-pox at this same house, but he recovered, died 1827, and was buried in the old grave-yard in East Bridgewater.

OWNERS AND OCCUPANTS OF THE HILL FARM, AND EARLY SETTLERS IN THIS NEIGHBORHOOD.

Samuel Allen, Sen., the second town clerk, lived on the northeasterly bank of Matfield river, in early times called John's river, from John Howard, Minimus. The said Howard lived on the site of the late Dea. Samuel Keene, from about 1680 to 1703. The Allen house stood within a few rods of the river, from about 1662 to 1703.

Dea. William Brett, son of Elder William Brett, married a daughter of John Cary, the first town clerk, 1651 to 1681. He lived about thirty rods southwest from the railroad crossing, in or near a place called the Devil's Hop Yard, about the middle of the present clay-pit of Joseph M. Loucraft, about two rods northeast of his (Brett's) well, still to be seen on the southwest side of this clay-pit. The ground where his house stood has been razed ten or twelve feet for clay to make brick of, and we fear the well will soon follow the cellar.

Dea. Thomas Hayward, who married Bethia, the only child of said Dea. William Brett, 1706, lived with his father-in-law for many years after his marriage, and his four children, born between 1707 and 1725, were probably born in this house. He built a new house near where the late Solomon Hayward lived, in Bridgewater, and moved into it, and lived in it for several years before his death. He died 1741, and was buried in the old yard in Bridgewater, and has a grave-stone. The wife of Dea. Hayward died 1745, but it is not known where she was buried; probably by his side in the same yard.

We have been shown the site, well and spring of a house on the improved land of the Hill farm, about forty rods south from the railroad crossing, and about five rods northwest from the railroad track. The well now in good condition, two or three rods northwest from the site of the house, in the edge of the woods, with a clump of shellbarks on one side, and of oaks on the other. The ground where the well stands being twelve or more feet lower than where the house stood. This is supposed to be the first Hill house in East Bridgewater, to wit: Jonathan Hill, who was alive 1706.

Another house on the Hill farm stood about ten rods north of the present road, and fifty rods northwest from the present house of Henry G. Hill; well still to be seen. This was the residence of Ebenezer

Hill, a son of said Jonathan Hill, who had four children, 1715-1730, and died 1760, and whose son, Jacob Hill, built the first house on the spot where Henry G. Hill now lives, and who married Abigail Bonney, had five children, 1754-1764, and died 1804, aged 87.

This first Jacob Hill was the father of the second Jacob Hill, who married Anne Tribou, 1780; had six children, 1783-1792; lived on this place, and died 1827, aged 70, and was buried in the old East Bridgewater grave-yard. His farm passed from him to his two sons, Bela and Bezer, by descent and purchase, and on their deaths, Beza dying 1821, and Bela dying Dec. 8, 1862, aged 72, came to Henry G. Hill and Mrs. Noyes, who now own and occupy the same.

There was another house—well still to be seen—about half-way between Mr. Strong's house and Matfield river, on the old Cary farm. The late Dea. John Whitman is said to have gone to school in this house. Of course, the house must have been standing as late as 1740. It was, no doubt, the residence of Francis Cary, son of the old town clerk, who was brought up with Samuel Tomkins, and had his estate in East Bridgewater, and who married Hannah Brett as early as 1685, and who had five children; Ephraim, one of the oldest, married Hannah Waldo, 1709, and had five children, 1709-1716, owned and lived upon his father's homestead and house, and died 1765, aged 87.

Who were these six adult persons, whether they died of the small-pox or otherwise?

There are ten graves of the Hill family in the old grave-yard near the town-house in East Bridgewater, that have grave-stones, to wit:

Israel Hill,	died 1753,	aged 1;	Polly Hill,	died 1835,	aged 38;
John     "     "	1753,	" 3;	Jane B.     "     "	1838,	" 31;
Bezer     "     "	1821,	" 29;	Chas. H.     "     "	1842,	" 23;
Anna     "     "	1823,	" 65;	Hannah G.     "     "	1862,	" 64;
Jacob     "     "	1827,	" 70;	Bela     "     "	1862,	" 72.

The persons who have lived with families on the homestead are:

1. Jonathan Hill, had five children, and was living 1706.
2. Ebenezer, son of said Jonathan, had four children, 1715-1730, died 1760.
3. Eleazer, son of Ebenezer (2); married Dr. Field's daughter, 1769; no children; lived with his father; died 1791, aged 62.
4. Jacob, son of Ebenezer (2), had five children, 1754-1764, died 1804, aged 87.
5. Jacob, son of Jacob (4), had six children, 1783-1792, died 1827, aged 70.

6. Bela and Bezer, sons of Jacob (5), had two or more children, 1815 and after, and died, Bezer 1821, and Bela 1862.

7. Henry G., son of said Bela, now living with family on the homestead.

These appear to be the only persons of the Hill family who lived with families on the old homestead, and the only persons with families of that name who lived in East Bridgewater except three, to wit: David Hill, son of Nathaniel, who lived with his family opposite the house of the late Welcome Young, and who sold out his homestead of  $41\frac{1}{4}$  acres and house to John Young, in 1777, and who after that disappears. Israel Hill, who married Beriah Latham, 1748; had thirteen children, 1749-1770; lived in the house now owned and occupied by Charles Lincoln in Satucket, and died after 1769. And the late Leonard Hill, son of the last Jacob, and brother of said Bela and Bezer.

It does not appear where Jonathan, Ebenezer, Eleazer, and Jacob first, were buried, nor where their wives, or the wife of the second Jacob were buried; and if those six graves are of the Hill family, they would probably be six of the nine persons, four men and five women, above named.

It is not known that any member of, or any person belonging to, these families, or to any family in this neighborhood, ever died with the small-pox, except the child of Richard Thayer, and there is no tradition of any pox-house in this neighborhood, or in any part of East Bridgewater; and though this ground has generally been considered a small-pox grave-yard, it is quite as likely to be, and most likely was, a private burying-ground of the Hill family, or of the very early settlers in this neighborhood.

We find only a few deaths by small-pox in East Bridgewater to wit:

Thomas Wade,	died	April 17, 1777,	aged 56;
Gain Robinson,	"	Feb. 26, 1778,	" 54;
Thomas Latham,	"	April 28, 1778,	" 49;
Bourn Perkins,	"	May 3, 1778,	" 20;
The Thayer child	"	Jan. 15, 1793,	" 1 mo;
Thomas Wood,	"	Jan. 19, 1827,	" 19;
A Mrs. Thrasher,	"	1860.

Probably some persons from this town went to the pox-house in South Abington, near the line of East Bridgewater; but no death of any such person, or of any other person in East Bridgewater, from that cause, has come to our knowledge.

There is one grave on the east bank of Satucket river, west of the late Thomas Chamberlain house. It was there when Chamberlain bought his farm of Nicholas and Josiah Whitman, 1794. It is supposed to be, and no doubt was, a case of small-pox, but who or when is uncertain. If it was David Conant, who died 1760, it was the earliest case of small-pox known in old Bridgewater, except Seth Brett, who died of small-pox, 1722, in West Bridgewater. It may have been his son, David Conant, Jr., who died 1792, or some other member of the Conant family, which lived near the Conant or Chamberlain bridge. There were three Conant houses and several Conant families living at this place from 1706 to about 1790.

William Conant bought of N. Allen, in 1706, the Chamberlain farm, and built a house immediately back of the present house, which was two stories in front, one story back; taken down and the present house built by Thomas Chamberlain in 1811, with the aid of his daughters—pioneers in the art of braiding straw. David Conant, son of William, owned three-fourths acre and house on south side of the old Plymouth road, bounded east by the great Gall; south by the river. A third house was built, owned, and occupied by some members of this Conant family. This was a common one-story house, with front door and chimney in the middle, and stood where Alfred Bottomer now lives, and was taken down by him a few years ago, to make room for his present house. Rufus and Rhoda Conant sold this last one-story house and fourteen acres of land on which it stood, to Robert Latham, 1783, and the Conant family all sold out and mostly went to Lyme, N. H., where the Rev. William Conant, a son of said David, and grandson of said William, a graduate of Yale College, 1770, was the settled minister, and to which town a large number of Bridgewater people emigrated. Said old house of William Conant is well remembered by the writer.

In 1852, Peleg Osbourn dedicated a small piece of land in front of his house for a private burial-place. It now has some five or six graves upon it. He died Aug. 27, 1864, aged 77, and was buried upon it.

There are two graves near the house of the late Earl Josselyn, in the east part of the town, supposed to be the graves of Earl Josselyn and wife. A private grave-yard, unenclosed.

The Hudson tomb, built by Nathan and John Hudson in 1819, on the south side of Plymouth road, between their houses; recently filled with earth and closed up, with some fourteen or more bodies deposited therein, to wit:

Nathan Hudson, born Jan. 26, 1741, died Sept. 9, 1835, æ 94 ;

 Eli Wheeler, } died Mch. 12, 1861, æ 43.

A private yard near the house of the late Dea. Eleazer Whitman, and belonging to his family, on the south side of the road, east of his house, and west of Canada; 120 feet on the road, and running back 60 feet; all walled in, with an entrance at each end. It has twenty-two graves, and eighteen grave-stones, and the oldest grave in the yard is 1827. Several old persons are buried in this yard, to wit:

Rachel Whitman,	died 1878, aged 94, 5, 11;
Daniel Whitman,	died April 30, 1879, " 95, 0, 18;
Abigail Whitman,	" 1875, " 87, 1, 20;
Eleazer Whitman,	" 1846, " 91;
Mary Porter,	" 1836, " 85;
Mary Whitman,	" 1832, " 79;
Luther Chamberlain,	" Dec. 20, 1842, " 39;
Asa Tom Whitman	" June 20, 1875, " 54, 7, 19;
Asa Whitman	" 1827, " 44.

Besides the above burying-places, all modern except the one on Central street and small-pox burials, there are now five grave-yards, called cemeteries, in East Bridgewater, and which were commenced since 1800, and do not come within the limits of this work. Their dates are about as follows:

Beaver cemetery, 1809; Union cemetery, 1842; East Bridgewater cemetery, 1846; Elmwood cemetery, 1847; Northville cemetery, 1855.

All graves in this old yard head nearly west. The foot-stones have been removed to the back side of the head-stones. The ground, always cared for by the town and individuals, has lately been dug over and very much improved; wild grass, weeds, and bushes killed; trees trimmed and destroyed; ground smoothed and leveled; stones righted and cleaned of moss, and yet some of the stones are nearly illegible, and will be more so if neglected and nothing done to preserve the letters and figures.

A few head-stones near the wall, between the gate and the south corner of the yard, by consent of the parties, have been removed to other parts of the yard. The foot-stones to such graves, remain in their original places.

The figures on the plan represent 581 grave-stones, and include five graves without stones numbered, and marked "No inscription," and eleven graves with native, flat, rough stones, with initials of name and year of death, one or both, cut thereon, as appears at end of the index to epitaphs in this yard. Who they were is not known.

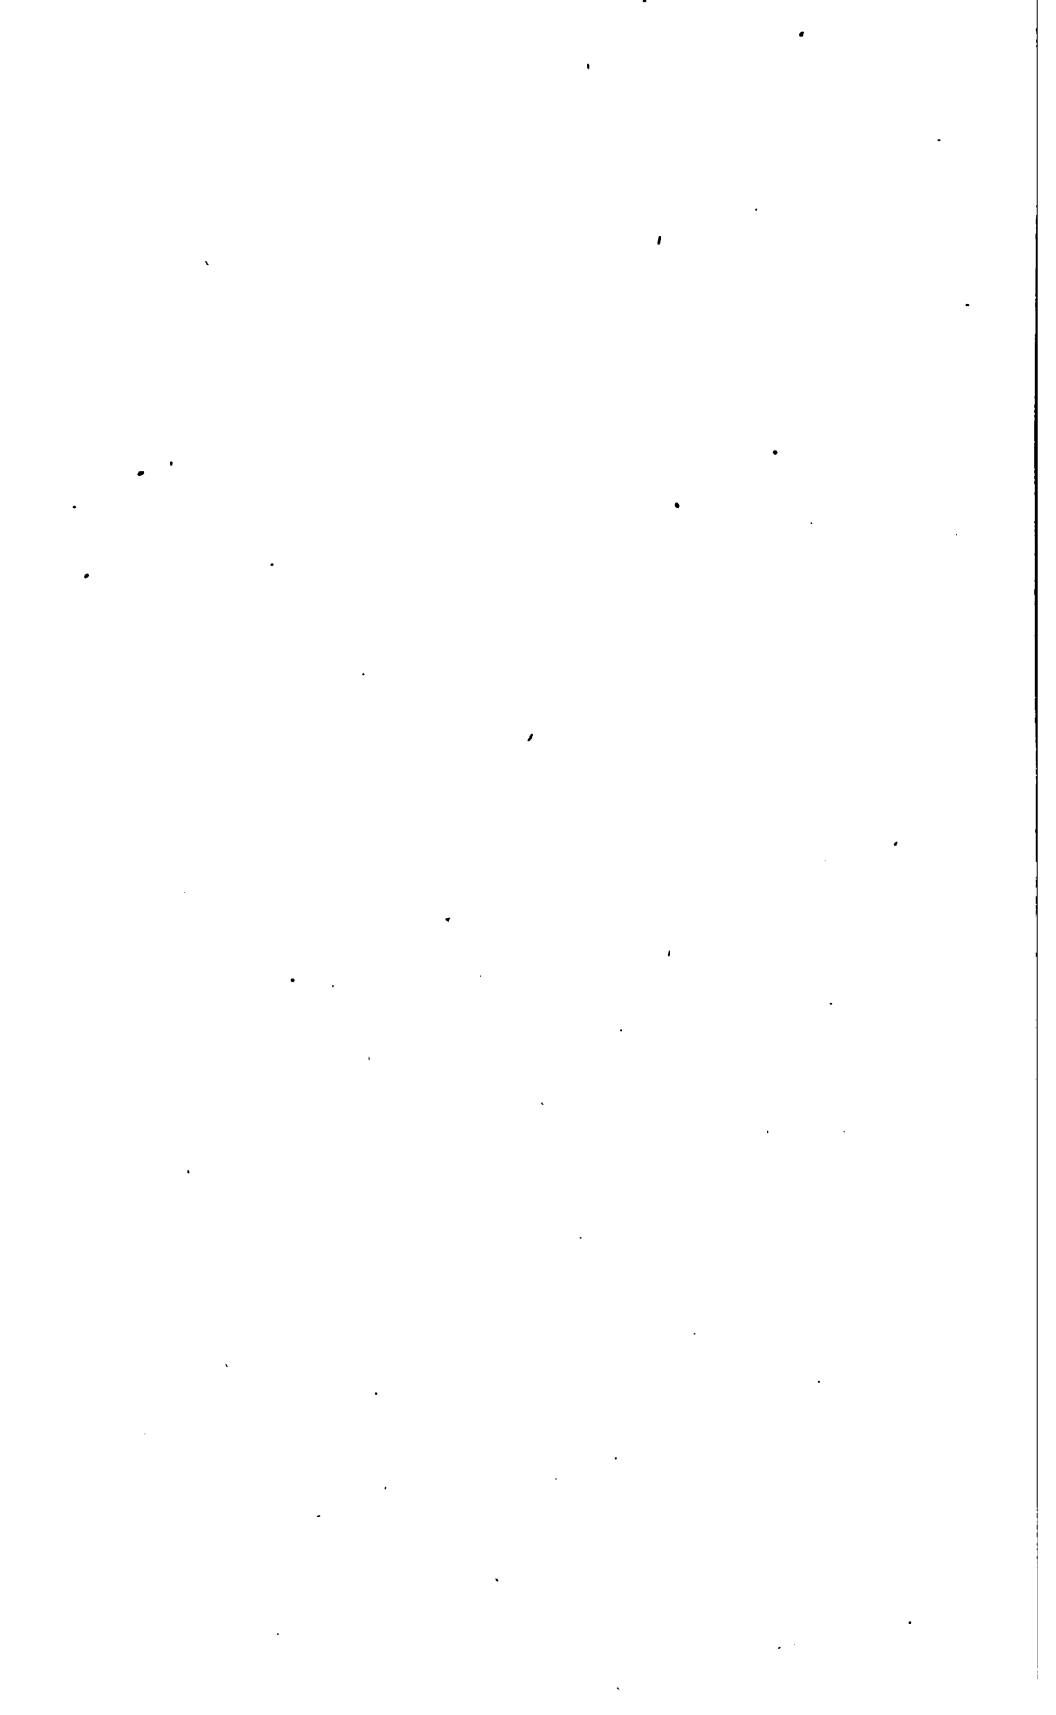

Several grave-stones have inscriptions for two or more persons, making thirty-four extra names ; so that the whole number of epitaphs in this ground is about 600.

This ground has a bank wall next to Central street and upon the southeast side, from said street back to the hearse-house, next to the town-house land, with a deciduous hedge on top of said bank wall. There is a very handsome hedge of arbor vite on the northwest side, next to Mr. Sheldon's land, and a poor fence, or no fence at all, on the northeast side, and on the balance of the southeast side next to the Orr land.

There is an iron gate of some five feet wide next to said street, not far from the middle of the ground, and a wide carriage entrance at the northwest corner of the yard, with a drive-way through this yard to the East Bridgewater cemetery, lying some ten or fifteen rods northeasterly from this ground.

This yard is divided into five sections, numbered alphabetically from A to E, according to the heavy, black lines as seen on the plan. The lines between the sections are parallel, about fifty feet apart, and run northwesterly, at right angles with the southeast side of the premises.

We begin to number stones 1, 2, 3, etc., in the southeast corner of Section A, and going northwesterly to the end of this section, and then return in the same section to No. 158, near the Whitman enclosure. We then begin with No. 159, near the southeast corner of Section B, and go northwesterly to No. 293, in the northwest corner of Section B. We then begin with No. 294, near by, in the southwesterly end of Section C, and go southeasterly to No. 432, in the northeasterly corner of Section C. We then begin with No. 433, near by, in the southeasterly corner of Section D, and go northwesterly to No. 540, in the northwest corner of Section D. We then begin with No. 541, near by in the southwest end of Section E, and go southeasterly to No. 581, in the southeast end of Section E.

Thus dies the great man of skill,
The tirant death he confers will,
And reigns without control.
The man beloved, faithful, and just,
Lies sleeping in the silent dust,
But where's the deathless soul ?
On angels wings hath took its flight ;
Far from the ken of human sight ;
Until that God who gave.
We trust he was a chosen one,
For whom our saviour, God, the son
Christ Jesus died to save.

90. In memory of Nabbee, y<sup>e</sup> daugh<sup>t</sup> of Dr. Isaac Otis and Mrs. Mehetable, his wife ; she died April 13th, 1774, in y<sup>e</sup> 18th year of her age.

249. In memory of Luther Hatch, Jr., who died Aug. 2, 1819, æ 23.

He's gone, the voyage of human life is o'er,
Quick left a mortal for immortal shore,
Though rough the passage, peaceful is the port,
The bliss is perfect, the probation short.
There wearied virtue shall for refuge fly,
And every tear be wiped from every eye.

(He was killed by lightning).

250. Polly Hatch, died Oct. 10, 1845, æ 55 years.

251. Susanna, widow of Galen Latham, born Aug. 14, 1780, died Oct. 16, 1869.

257. Sacred to the memory of Mr. Ebenezer Noyes, died Aug. 11, 1832, aged 37 years.

Come hither mortals, cast an eye.
Then go your way prepare to die;
Come read this doom, for die you must,
One day like me return to dust.

258. In memory of Mrs. Mary, wife of Mr. Ebenezer Noyes, died Oct. 27, 1827, aged 23, years.

Serene and peaceful as the summer even,
Was thy departure, lovely youth,
Whose hope we trust built firm in youth,
Rose to its source and fixed in heaven.
And when the faithless guilty throng,
Waked by the trumpets sound, shall call
For mountains on their head to fall,
Thy voice shall join in glory's song,
And to eternity the strains belong.

259. Erected in memory of Mr. Joseph Gannett, died March 17, 1829, aged 69 years.

When he whose ashes here repose
Approached the hour of his decease,
His path, so long o'er-spread with woes,
Was crowned, we trust, with sacred peace.
Such peace as is by mercy given
To those whom He prepares for heaven.

260. In memory of Mrs. Anna, wife of Mr. Joseph Gannett; she died Dec. 13, 1826, in her 62<sup>d</sup> year.

True faith, death's deepest gloom,
Pierces with heavenward eyes,
And sees beyond the tomb,
Drest in immortal bloom,
Celestial Eden rise.
Such faith 'tis hoped will here be found,
Whose dust here waits the trumpets sound.

261. Sacred to the memory of Mrs. Susan Noyes and infant, wife of Mr. Ebenezer Noyes, and dau. of Mr. Joseph Gannett and Mrs. Ann, his wife; she died May 23, 1822, in her 25th year.

From creatures cease, a warning voice here cries,
They fade and vanish like the passing wave;
With them the branch of hope they nourished dies,
And strews its blighted blossoms o'er the grave.

262. Caleb, son of Luther and Olive Gannett, died Feb. 17, 1820, aged 1 year and 8 months.

341. In memory of Mrs. Sarah, wife of Mr. Levi Washburn; she died May 17, 1826, in her 42<sup>d</sup> year.

Farewell my husband and my children dear,
No sighs nor griefs for me: suppress your tear;
To all farewell, receive this last adieu;
In realms of bliss my thoughts shall visit you.
As up from infancy to youth I grew,
Fair were my prospects—all delightful new;
New joys transporting did my mind engage,
As thus I travelled on life's busy stage.
But ah! the cold and palsied hand of death
Laid hold and preyed upon my vital breath;
No healing balm, nor art, nor skill was found
To give relief, or cure the mortal wound.
With cheering hope I wait to meet my doom,
When called by Jesus from the silent tomb;
Then on the wings of faith I'll calmly soar
To meet my God above: that God adore.

342. In memory of Levi Washburn, died June 8, 1859, æ 77.
343. Mrs. Zilpha Washburn died Nov. 13, 1807, in her 28th year.
344. In memory of Capt. Levi Washburn, who died Jan<sup>y</sup> 22<sup>d</sup>, 1824, in his 73<sup>d</sup> year.
 The God that gives our vital breath
 Demands the same by instant death;
 Subjected to this house of clay,
 We wait the great and glorious day.
 When all shall hear the trumpet sound
 From heaven to earth's remotest bound.
 Come join the blessed choir above
 In praises of redeeming love.
345. In memory of Mrs. Moll<sup>y</sup>, wife of Capt. Levi Washburn; she died Oct. 25, 1800, in her 45th year.
346. Sacred to the memory of Miss Lusanna Snell, died Jan. 20, 1809, æt. 24 years.
 To your surviving friends we left the dead,
 To us allur'd by natures strongest tie;
 But now the faith they trod I'm called to tread,
 And leave you to weep and soon to die.
347. Hannah L. Snell, daugh. of Mr. Stephen and Mrs. Polly Snell, ob<sup>t</sup> April 27, 1808 æt. 5 mo. and 15 dys.
348. Sacred to the memory of Miss Hannah Snell, died Feb. 14, 1808, æ 29 years.
 Though one here wrapt in darkness lies,
 Late warm with life and youthful bloom,
 She rests in hope ere long to rise
 In charms immortal from the tomb.
349. Sacred to the memory of Mr. Ebenezer Snell, died Feb. 1, 1804, æ 28 years.
 Science beheld with tear-suffused eye,
 Fall from her crown a gem of radiant hue;
 Virtue her loss perceived and gave a sigh,
 When Snell their son from mortal scenes withdrew.
350. In memory of Mr. Thomàs Snell, who died July 28, 1772, aged 75 years.

In early bloom death cropt this flower,
Cut down and withered in an hour.

390. Noah, son of Mr. Levi and Mrs. Sarah Washburn, died June 25, 1822, æt. 1 year.

That form once lovely and serene,
Hath soared to worlds above,
Where endless pleasure is the theme,
To dwell with Christ in love.
That of his kingdom such consist,
Was by assurance given
When Jesus took them in his arms
And called them heirs of heaven.
A glorious promise: blessed grace,
To sinful man revealed;
Although in ages past and gone
In darkness lay concealed.
Then in his promise let us trust,
And confidently rest;
That in the seed of Abraham
All nations shall be blest.

Faith wrought by grace look through death's deepest gloom,
 And all the terrors of his frown defies;
 She smiles complacent at the closing touch,
 And keeps an immortality her eyes.
 Suche, reader, the faith we humbly trust
 Of her whose body moulders here in dust.

504. In memory of Lt. Simeon Gannett, who died Jan. 25, 1836, in his 84th year. (Son of Capt. Joseph).

526. In memory of Mr. Eleazer Keith, who died Jan. 15, 1822, æ 52. (Son of Eleazer).

His mind was tranquil and serene;
No terrors in his looks were seen;
The Savior's smile dispelled the gloom,
And smoothed his passage to the tomb.

527. In memory of Mrs. Bethia Keith, who died Nov. 9, 1797; 25 years the consort of Lieut Eleazer Keith.

The pious christian and the generous friend,
The tender parent and the loving wife,

Beneath this peaceful monumental stone
Is here interred, which loudly lectures all
To be prepared, like her whose name it bears,
To wing the vast sublime and reach the skies.

537. Mehetable, wife of Mr. John Keith, April 30, 1813, æ 35.

Adieu, my friends, a long and sad farewell;
A scene more solemn than the passing bell;
I hope'd with God in glory I shall dwell,
Where sorrow, sickness, death can never come.

Also, Mary Ann Wilson, dtr. of the above, æ 15 mos.

538. To the memory of Mrs. Rachel French, consort of Mr. David French, who was born Nov. 12, 1774, died Oct<sup>r</sup> 9, 1825.

Frail nature drops into the grave,
And waits God's sovereign power to save;
From darkest shades of midnight gloom
It rescues sinners from the tomb.

539. Martin Stetson French, son of Mr. David French, died April 5, 1816, in the 18th year of his age.

Swiftly my days in thoughtless joys flew,
As from a child to giddy youth I grew,
When Heaven a lingering sickness kindly sent,
And gave me space to think and repent.
What seemed a frown I found a fruit of love
Prepared by pains on earth for joys above.

Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not.

562. Melza F., son of John and Sarah C. Hudson, born Sept. 27, 1847, died Sept. 1, 1849.

Though wert not born to dwell on earth,
And here engage in sinful mirth;
Joys nobler, purer were designed
To fill thy young immortal mind.

Thou art a little angel now ; a diadem is on thy brow ;
A golden harp is in thy hand, and with the holy throng dost stand.

563. Israel F., son of Israel and Lucy Clark, died Nov. 13, 1848, aged 5 mo.

APPENDIX.

In looking over the foot-stones piled up and laying side of the stone wall in the old yard in West Bridgewater, we found, lying upon the ground near the grave of Joseph Keith, close under the wall, a natural, flat stone of small size, with the following inscription thereon, to wit :

Susanna Cary.”

She was daughter of Joseph Keith, son of Rev. James Keith, born March 8, 1697 ; married Capt. Jonathan Cary, Dec. 11, 1717 ; and died as above, Sept. 5, 1718. Her father lived in a house in the open field west of the house of Horatio Howard, and on land now owned by said Horatio, and between his house and the road to Bull's Hole, house long since taken down. Her husband, in early life, lived in Beaver, where his father, Jonathan Cary, lived, west of Maj. Barrell, and afterwards, in 1736, he bought of Ephraim Leonard, the Samuel Washburn farm of sizty-nine acres, including all land on the northeast side of Summer street, from the Thomas Lawrence (late Carver Washburn) house to South brook, and lived in a small house which stood where the late Samuel F. Sanger lived and died. His son, Eliphalet Cary, built the present Sanger house in 1767. At the time of the death of said Susanna Cary, her and his families were living in the North Precinct, which then included West, East and North Bridgewater ; and we have set that stone into the ground between the graves of her father and brother Ichabod, and where she was probably buried.

In addition to what is said on pages 4 and 5, in relation to the second grave-yard in West Bridgewater, where the houses of Mr. Edward Capin and Rev. Mr. Stone stand, it should be stated that, on or about June 12, 1882, since said pages were printed, Edward Capin, while grading his door-yard, south of his house and front of his stable, found two graves about ten feet apart, not so far back from the road as the front end of his house ; and in these graves he found the remains of a coffin and human bones. One grave was that of a full-grown person, and the other of a young person.

In reference to the tomb of Rev. James Keith, page 18, No. 139, the original foundation was broken stone, like the Edson tomb, with the present slab thereon. William Hudson, who built this tomb, lived at Simeon Taylor's, and died about 1728. Simeon Keith and his son, Austin Keith, descendants of the Rev. James Keith, through Timothy, one of his six sons, in 1827, rebuilt this foundation by setting up three slabs of granite on three sides, edgewise, which they bought in Quincy, and by placing two pieces of slate in the front end, edgewise, with an inscription thereon; which horizontal slab of granite and two pieces of slate with inscription thereon, formed a part of the original monument, as built by said Hudson. Some twenty five or thirty years ago, the upper slate stone at the head of this tomb got broken, and a piece of new slate with the present inscription thereon, has been put in its place. The present inscription not differing materially from the old inscription.

The Rev. James Keith lived and died (July 23, 1719,) in a house in West Bridgewater, now owned and occupied by George M. Pratt. It stood upon the north side of the road to the Great Meadows, near Snow's bridge, within about six rods of the Town river in front of it, about half-way between the house of Nathaniel Willis, west,—now Amasa Howard's—and the house of George Turner, east, now gone, which stood in the corner of the two roads, where the office of the late Hon. William Baylies stood when burned in 1843.

The sketches on opposite page, represent the house :

FIRST, as it appeared, 1662 to 1678 . . . . .	16 years ;
SECOND, as it appeared, 1678 to 1837 . . . . .	159 years ;
THIRD, as it has appeared since 1837 . . . . .	45 years ;

making it                      220 years old.

The house was built 1662. It fronted south, was two stories high in front, one story high back side, posts, sixteen feet high, fifteen feet wide in front, thirty-four feet deep, with front entry, five feet wide; chamber stairs and chimney back of front door, in the southeast corner of the house, one front room, about ten by twelve, with a bed-room back of that, and a kitchen, with pantry, back of bed-room and chimney. In the second story was an entry, a front room, and a bed-room corresponding to the rooms below. No cellar under this part of the house.

In 1678, the house was enlarged by an addition of eighteen by thirty-four feet, to the east side of the house; two stories high in front, one story high back side, making one large front room, eighteen by eighteen feet, with a bed-room, back stairs, and an enlargement of the kitchen, in the back part. The rooms in the second story corresponding to the front room and bed-room below. The back part of the second story of the old and new part of the house remaining unfinished. A cellar under a portion of this new part, with a stone drain across the road to the Town river.

OLD HOUSE OF REV. JAMES KEITH. 1662.

PRESENT HOUSE. 1837.

The house remained in this condition, without material alteration for 159 years, from 1678 down to 1837, when Thomas Pratt, father of said George M. Pratt, cut off about fourteen feet of the north side of the house, so as to leave the north side of the same height as the front side of the house, thereby making the south roof thirteen and one-half feet long, and the north roof only twelve feet long; building a new chimney in the place of the old one, then taken down, but much smaller; and leaving the rooms in the front and middle parts of the house as they were before this amputation. The brick in this old chimney were much larger than modern brick, and were laid in clay. The shingles upon the walls were taken off, and clapboards put on in place thereof. This house now (1882) being a two story house, thirty-two feet front, and twenty feet back, with a porch annexed to the back side. The windows upon the three sides of the house being the same ever since the memory of man, except such as were cut off as aforesaid, and except square glass in place of the old diamond glass and bull's eyes.

The annex or addition of eighteen by thirty-four feet, made in 1678, was quite fully developed and apparent on a personal examination of the inside of the house, a few years ago, by the writer; and the frame-work, timber, doors, materials, and inside construction of the house exhibit strong marks of antiquity.

In the case of the inhabitants of Bridgewater versus the inhabitants of West Bridgewater, reported in the seventh volume of Pickering Reports, page 191, and in the ninth volume of Pickering, page 55, in the years 1828-9, brought for the support of Daniel Keith, a pauper, then aged eighty-one years, a great-grandson of the Rev. James Keith. This pauper, with his father, Daniel Keith, and grandfather, John Keith, son of the Rev. James Keith, lived and died in the plaintiff town. It became necessary to prove where, in old Bridgewater, minister Keith lived and died; and sundry old people were witnesses of, and sundry depositions of ancient people were then, 1828-9, taken for that purpose, as well as to prove the genealogy of the pauper; and some of said deponants and witnesses well remembered the house, then, 1828, owned and occupied by Aarrabella, daughter of said Amasa Howard, deceased, and widow of Benjamin Eaton, deceased, as far back as 1750, and said it was then, 1750, an ancient looking house, and had always appeared the same as it then, 1828-9, appeared. That case was tried, and before the whole court, twice; and the fact, that the Rev. James Keirh, lived and died in that house, was then well and satisfactorily established.

The homestead of Rev. James Keith consisted of two house-lots of six acres each, with a ten acre lot at the head of said house-lots, and with a house thereon, built by the town, conditionally given by the town to him, in consideration of his future services as their minister, and remained entire until about 1800. And though this house and a portion of the homestead on which it stands, has been owned and occupied by many persons, as tenants in common and otherwise, yet the title to this house and portion of the homestead has always remained in, and been confined to four persons and their families, to wit;

James Keith and his children, down to 1723, . . .	61 years ;
Ephraim Fobes, brother and son, down to 1792, . .	69 years ;
Amasa Howard and daughters, down to 1834, . . .	42 years ;
Thomas Pratt and son, George M., down to 1882, .	48 years.

220 years.

We have never been able to find any record of the date of the birth of Rev. James Keith, nor the date of his marriage to Susanna, daughter of his Dea. Samuel Edson, or of the date of the birth of his children, except Joseph. In the pamphlet referred to on the third page of this book, it is stated that they were married May 3, 1668, but that date was acknowledged by the author to be conjectural and without authority, and we have no confidence in that date. His son, in that pamphlet, is said to have married Mary Thayer, of Weymouth, May 3, 1695. The records of Bridgewater give the dates of the births of his children, but not of his marriage. James, his oldest child, being born Jan. 8, 1696. Susanna, daughter of Rev. James Keith, was married in Taunton, to Jonathan Howard, of Bridgewater, Jan. 8, 1689, and died soon after without issue; and the Rev. James Keith was probably born as early as 1643, and began to preach in Bridgewater soon after his arrival, in 1662. Master James Keith probably continued to preach and perform the office of minister for that people from that time to the time of his settlement, Feb. 18, 1664, old style; but when he arrived, or in what ship, or who his parents were, or his brothers or sisters, if any, were, or when he first went into possession of this house and land, does not appear. The town had employed one Mr. Bunker to serve them as minister for 1660, 1661, and perhaps a part of 1662. He then declined to accept their invitation to settle among them. The town had previously, without reference to any particular minister, agreed to give their minister a purchase right, with all privileges.

In support of the above history of this house, we present the following extracts from the first volume of our town records, and a copy of the inventory of the Rev. James Keith, recorded in the fourth volume of probate court records at Plymouth, page 185.

Volume I, page 30. "It is agreed upon by the towne, meett together the sixt-and-twentieth of Desember (1661), that there shall be a house built for a minister upon the town's lands, where it shall be thought most convenient, and that the said house and grounds is to be freely giuen to that minister y<sup>t</sup> shall liue and die amongst us, being called by the towne to the work of the ministry, or by a church gathered according to the order of the gospel, with the consent of the towne; as also a compleat purchase, with uplands and meadow lands, according as other townesmen haue."

This record further provides for the contingency of death, a short time of service and inability to serve, and occupies the last half of said page.

This house was probably built in 1662, in pursuance of the town's agreement on the twenty-sixth day of December, 1661, but not finished May 13, 1664, when the town employed two persons to finish the chimnies and glass the windows, as follows—forty-fourth page:

"An agreement made between the towne and John Willis, seynior, and John Ames, for the finishing of the chimnies, backs, hearths and ouen belonging to the minister's house. And they are to find all and draw all, both clay, stones and <sup>200</sup> bricks, for the aforesaid chimnies, backs, and ouen and hearths, and to do it sufficiently; and the towne, for their paines, are to pay to them next haruest, twenty bushells of good marchandable corne, and the work to be finished by the last of August insuing; the date hereof being now the 13th thirteenth of May, 1664, to be paid when Indyan corne is marchantable."

The roof was probably a thatched roof at first, and the house unoccupied and neglected at first; and on the eleventh of October, 1664, the house required some repairs and improvements, and the record in the same book, page 43, reads as follows :

"It was agreed upon by the twone, mett together the eleventh of October, 1664, that the twone was freely willing to couer the minister's house the second time, and to glass the windows as soon as they cann, provided that they cann gett glass for boards."

On the forty-fourth page the town gave him possession of said house and land, as follows :

"This record made the 18th of February, 1664. The towne, being meet together, doth declare and hold forth that the towne did then resigne and make ouer to Mr. Keith, the house and garden belonging to the minister's lott or purchase, according to the tennor of the agreement made between Mr. Keith and the towne, and gaue him free liberty to possess it.

And, on the thirty fourth page of said book, is a full record of the terms of his settlement made with the town, under date of Feb. 18, 1664, old style ; and among other things, the town agreed to

"giue Master James Keith," conditionally, "twelue acres of land, already laid out, with a dwelling-house built upon the same by the towne ; the lands well known, and liing upon the Mill river, and joining to the lands of Nathl Willis on the one side, and to George Turner on the other side."

Sept. 13, 1670, page 60, "town choose a committee to let out Mr. Keith's barn, and to set the work forward and do their endeavor to see the workman paid for his labor ;" and May 23, 1673, on page 68, the town gave him full title to his house and lands, as follows :

"It was agreed upon by the inhabitants of the towne of Bridgewater, the three-and-twentieth of May, one thousand, six hundred and seventy-three, that Master James Keith, in consideration of hauing been some competent time in the work of the ministry among them, should haue the dwelling-house and out-houses he is possessed of, with the twelue acre lot he liues upon, as, also, all the lands, whether uplands or meadow lands, belonging to a full purchase." And did then freely give and grant the same to him, his heirs and assigns ; and on Nov. 20, 1675, page 71, "uoted there shall be a garrison made about Mr. Keith's house."

On the twentieth of September, 1677, page 74, the town "uoted to raise and give Mr. Keith 24 lbs. toward the building of him a convenient roome or dwelling-house," as follows :

"The town being mett together the twentieth of September, 1677, did arran and agree to give freely to Mr. Keith twenty-and-four pounds, to be paid at his house—the one half to be paid in Indian corne, and the other half in boards and clapboards, by the last of April insuing the date hereof; and the said twenty-four pounds to be raised by way of rate upon the inhabitants of the town, which was given to Mr. Keith toward the building of him a conuenient roome or dwelling-house; the boards at 5s. a hundred and clapboards, shaven, at 5s. a hundred."

This house, in which many of his children were born, was probably not enlarged, with a convenient room, until the summer of 1678.

The inventory of Rev. James Keith, recorded in the fourth volume of the probate record, page 185, was taken Aug. 25, 1719, by John Field, Isaac Johnson and John Ames, Jr., and contains ten items of personal property, amounting to 167lbs. and 11s., and shows the internal division and arrangement of the house at that time, corresponding to the rooms and condition of the house at the time of the alteration in 1837, to wit:

DEA. JOHN WHITMAN,

was born March 17, 1735, O. S., it reads on his grave-stone, that he "died July 26, 1842, aged 107 years, 3 mos., 22 days."* He was the second son and third child of John and Elizabeth (Cary) Whitman. His father died 1792, aged 88, and his mother died at the age of 42 years, in 1742, when he was seven years of age, and just one hundred years before his own death,

It is unnecessary here to describe the character of Dea. John Whitman—that has already been well and fully done by Judge Mitchell, in his History of Bridgewater, 1818 and 1840; by Judge Ezekiel Whitman, in his Memoir of John Whitman and his Descendants, 44 pages, 1832; by Rev. Baalis Sanford, in his Century Sermon of twenty pages, March 28, 1835; and by his son, Rev. Jason Whitman, in his Memoir of 101 pages, published 1843. The portrait in his Memoir has been copied and placed in this book, opposite this page.

He was born, lived, and died on the homestead of his ancestors, somewhat reduced and changed in form and size from the original Whitman homestead, formerly called the Whitman Neck, containing over two hundred acres, and bounded: southwesterly by Matfield river, southeasterly by Satuckett river, northwesterly by the Allen land, and northeasterly by the Harris land. This tract of land, be it more or less, commenced on Matfield river, westerly of Turnpike bridge in Joppa, now Elmwood, and run in a straight line about northeasterly, by the land of Samuel Allen, to the land of Samuel and Isaac Harris, to a point northwesterly of the houses of the late Dea. Thomas Whitman, now Henry Keith, and the late Barzillai Allen, now William Allen; thence easterly by said Harris land to Satuckett river, below the old Latham and Harris saw mill dam. It was at the junction of said rivers, and nearly in the form of a triangle, and opposite to the "Small Rocky Hill," on the east side of Satuckett river, called Wonocooto or Sachem's Rock, on the old Robert Latham farm, and near the Seth Latham house, and where it is said that Ousamequin, sachem of Poconocket, March 23, 1649, executed his deed of Satuckett to Standish and others, extending seven miles each way from the weir near said dam—that being the first centre of Bridgewater—and one-quarter of a mile above said "Rocky Hill."

He was born in a house on the southerly side of the road leading from Whitman mills to Joppa or Turnpike bridge, where Clark Swallow now lives; and died in a one story house built by himself 1802, now standing opposite, on the northerly side of said road, and now owned and occupied by Timothy S. Harlow.

A good portion of the old Whitman house and the main body of it, on the south side of the road—to wit: seventeen by twenty-eight feet—was then, 1802, sold by him to David French, taken down, removed, and rebuilt with an addition of eight feet on the westerly end, and is the same house now standing in Satuckett, opposite the house of Seth P. Conant, owned and occupied by Judah B. Keen. This house, before its removal in 1802, had a sharp roof as now, a chimney at the end, in the middle of the twenty-eight feet, making two rooms of equal size (fourteen by seventeen feet), with a fire-place in one corner of each room, as now, and a Beaufet in one corner of one room. The house had a lean-to or shed roof upon two sides, containing a bed room, and other small rooms below. Mr. French added eight feet to the main body of the house when he rebuilt, making the house as it now is, twenty-five by twenty-eight feet, which has been lately repaired, modernized, and painted. Judge Whitman, in his Memoir, calls the house which stood south of, and about half-way between the Clark Swallow house and Satuckett river, the first house of Thomas Whitman; and the house that stood where the Clark Swallow house now stands, the second house of Thomas Whitman.

There is, perhaps, some uncertainty where the first house of the ancestor, Thomas Whitman, stood, and whether he, Thomas Whitman, the first settler and ancestor of all the Bridgewater Whitmans built and lived in two or three houses. He probably was born, 1629, in England, married a daughter of Nicholas Byram, 1656, lived in Weymouth until he came to Bridgewater with one or more children in 1662, and died 1712.

June 21, 1861, the writer called on Josiah Whitman, then aged eighty-two, son of Dea. John Whitman, and then living in and owning the Whitman house on the north side of the road, opposite to the house of Clark Swallow, to show him the sites of the old Whitman houses on this Whitman Neck of land, and we viewed the premises. He claimed that the first house of his ancestor, Thomas Whitman, stood where the late Judge Ezekiel Whitman was born, to wit: nearly opposite to the house of Mark P. Hudson, about four rods east of the Bates shoe-shop, now gone, on the north side of the old road. That house I well remember—very low in the walls, two rooms in front, with door near the middle, and close to the road, and taken down 1858. Judge Whitman told the writer that, on one occasion, he went into this house with his young daughter Lucia, then a little chatter-box, and told her that he was born in that room pointed out to her. She said: "Papa, it is not big enough to be born in." Mr. Josiah Whitman also claimed that it was burned by the Indians during King Phillip's war; that the second house of Thomas Whitman stood near a spring, twenty rods west of Satuckett river, and fifty rods south of said Clark Swallow's house, near a fording place in said river; that he remembered apple trees standing and growing near this spot, and other evidences of a house once at that place; that the third house of the said Thomas Whitman stood where Clark Swallow's house now stands, a portion of it a little east of it, and was built by said Thomas Whitman about 1680, and the old well is now used by Swallow. The main body—seventeen by twenty-eight feet—was sold to David French, as aforesaid.

Judge Whitman does not say that this first house of Thomas Whitman was burned by the Indians, though that is the conclusion, inferentially, from what he does say, and the tradition is that it was so burned, having been deserted by the family. On the ninth of April, 1676, being the Lord's day, Robert Latham's house and barn, with considerable lumber on the opposite side of Satuckett river, was burned by the Indians. This house was also deserted by the family. These two houses stood within one-half mile of each other. There was probably no other house in this part of East Bridgewater, east of the Turnpike. This knowledge of the destruction of the Latham house comes from a letter of Rev. James Keith to Thomas Hinckley, dated April 17, 1676, to be seen on the thirty-eighth page of Mitchell's valuable History of Bridgewater. If the Whitman house had been burned before the date of that letter, it probably would have been mentioned in that letter.

The tradition is that the house at Clark Swallow's, whether the second or third house of Thomas Whitman, was built about 1680; leaving a gap of four years, at least, when he was without house or home, with a family of six children under twenty years of age.

The present road from Whitman mills, on Satucket river, to Turnpike bridge, on Matfield river, was laid out by a jury, 1690. First volume Bridgewater Town Records, page 147, as follows:

"A highway laid out by a jury from Isaac Harris, his house, to John's bridge. It runs from Isaac Harris, his house, as is directed by marked trees, to Good<sup>m</sup> Whitman's house, on the east side of his house, and from thence as directed by marked trees to the river. And so over the river, between Edward Mitchell's and John Hayward's; and so across John Hayward's land, where the way now is, above his barn and between his house and barn, and so along the way to town."

Isaac Harris married a daughter of Robert Latham, and lived in a house ten rods back of William Allen's house, on the north bank of Satucket river. This road, no doubt, went about where it is now, east of the Whitman house, now Swallow house, and over Matfield river, where the Turnpike bridge now is, and up the hill between the Mitchell and Howard land, as may now be seen, and was probably then laid out through a wilderness. John's bridge, in this record, means the old bridge over Matfield river at the Turnpike bridge.

This house, probably the third house of Thomas Whitman, great-grandfather of Dea. John, and this Whitman neck of land were the home, homestead, and birth-place of thirty-six children—three generations of his blood—born in the eighteenth century, to wit: sixteen children of said Nicholas Whitman, grandfather of said John, by his three wives, 1702-1736; six children of his father, John Whitman, by two of his four wives, 1730-1747; and his fourteen children, by two wives, 1765-1799. And these thirty-six children were, probably, all born in this house at Clark Swallow's, sold to David French, as aforesaid.

This Thomas Whitman had nine children, four sons and five daughters, all living at the time of his making his will, in 1685. And May 9, 1707, book 10, page 56 of Plymouth Records, he gave a deed of gift to his youngest son, Nicholas Whitman, thereby conveying to him "my whole farm whereon I now dwell; bounded easterly by Satucket river, westerly by John's river, and northerly by Nehemiah Allen's land, about 110 acres."

It was a common practice, in early times, for sons to build houses on their father's land, and to live thereon for many years without title, and for fathers to make deeds of gift to their sons. And upon final settlement of the father's estate, a proper allowance was made, if the estate so conveyed was too little or too much, for his share, and in the settlement of these estates, this principle was adopted, showing a strong sense and desire of right and justice.

Besides the three or four houses, as the case may be, built by Dea. John and his great-grandfather, Thomas Whitman, other members of this Whitman family built at least six other houses on this Whitman neck of land previous to 1800; and this whole tract of land continued to be owned and occupied in the Whitman name, without any break, for over one hundred and fifty years. And now there are a dozen or more dwelling-houses on this land, but no person of the Whitman name or blood now owning or living upon these premises, except Ezekiel Whitman, son of Freedom Whitman.
